Whirring Clippers Yield New Spring Jackets For Sheep

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

ATGLEN (Chester Co.) — The buzz of clippers and piles of fluffy wool are familiar elements of an evening's work for shearers Nate Good and Ken Snyder.

Partners in "K & N Shearing," Nate and Ken spend many of their evenings from mid-March to the end of May on farms in northern Maryland, Lancaster, and York areas. During the season they may shear more than 1,500 head of sheep.

Four nights a week plus Saturdays mean that the shearing season may get hectic, but is also rewarding. "I enjoy meeting the people," said Nate. "We have more than 100 customers that we shear for.

"It makes us feel good that so many people are counting on us year after year, since there's not

Nate Good, Windsor, foreground, and Ken Snyder, Airville, both of York County, team up to shear 1,500 sheep during the spring season. After leaving their workplaces for the day, the partners travel to farms in York, Lancaster, and northern Maryland areas in the evenings and Saturdays. The clientele grows every year with little advertising, since few people know the trade. "It makes us feel good that so many people are counting on us year after year, since there's not many people who shear," said Nate. Photo by Michelle Ranck

Township Group Hears Advanced Farms Presentation

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — A recent study of just 15 livestock producers reveals that these companies provide nearly $75 million in payments a year to farms in 27 Pennsylvania counties.

"That's more income to these 932 farms than the expected total of state and county funds dedicated to farmland preservation this year," said Al Wenger in a discussion of agricultural trends and a forum on higher-yield farms at the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Supervisors annual meeting in Hershey.

Legislators Unveil Bill To Combat 'Agriterrorism'

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Legislation that would combat agriterrorism — the deliberate infection of farm animals with contagious diseases such as foot-and-mouth — was unveiled at a Capitol news conference Tuesday by state Sen. Noah Wenger (R-36) and state Sen. Mike Waugh (R-28).

The lawmakers were joined by state Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes, Dr. Alan Kelly, dean of the School of Veterinary

Guernseys Were 'My Life,' Says Banquet Honoree

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Bud and Anna Hamilton of West Chester were inducted into the Pennsylvania Walk of Fame of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeder's Association.

The award was presented at the annual Guernsey Breeder's Awards Banquet, conducted late last week at the Arena Restaurant.

Bud Hamilton began his farming career in New York state with the McDonald Farms.

Always interested in the Guernsey breed, Hamilton continued to work at farms featuring this breed. He eventually became the manager at the DuPont farms, where he remained for 37 years.

"I've always farmed with Guernseys and I love them. They were my life," said Hamilton, who has retired.

Terri Johnson of the Rutter Farms in York won the production awards. The high herd in 2000 was Rutter Bros. 25 cows, 19,704 pounds of milk, 886 pounds of fat, and 687 pounds of protein.

High cow for milk and protein in 2000 was Rutter Brothers Magic Cindy with 27,202 pounds of milk, 1,129 pounds of fat, and 886 pounds of protein.

High cow for fat in 2000 was Rutter Brothers Perfectos Stacy

Eastern Region Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Prices were unchanged to lower on yolks, lower on whole, and unchanged on whites when compared to a week earlier. Demand was light to moderate.

Offerings of yolks remained short, supplies of whole egg were usually adequate, and whites were reported as fully sufficient. The undertone was about steady on yolks, barely steady on whole, and unsettled to barely steady on whites. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending April 14, 2001 were 6% less than the previous week and 13% less than a year ago.

Northeast Broiler Fryer Parts Part I

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Midweek trucklot buying interest ranged fair to moderate today, and overall was generally noted as better than a typical Wednesday. Improved call had moved supplies of breast items into a better balanced position, subsequently, the sharp discounting previously seen on bonelessskinless breasts had become less prevalent. Wings were no more than adequate to closely cleared.

Continued draw through export channels was keeping dark meat cuts clearing well. Movement through retail and distributive channels was mostly light to fair, with better interest centering around the occasional feature. The market tone was fully steady to instances firm on wings and dark meat cuts, at least steady on breast items.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light and spotty with the bulk of activity limited to standing commitments. Seller offerings remained fully sufficient, particularly on the heavier sizes. Live supplies were moderate; weights were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderate to moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 53 to 67 cents. Trade sentiment was mostly steady. In the parts complex, leg items and especially wings were clearing well. Breast cuts were moving into closer better balance, but were generally noted as at least adequate.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
Report Supplied By USDA

Wheat bids closed sharply higher today due to drier weather conditions may lend stress on the late developing winter wheat crop. Corn and soybeans slightly higher on spillover support from wheat pits and fund buying was noted on the Board of Trade. Bids were sharply higher for Wheat 2 to 6 cents, with Kansas city up much as 13 cents. Corn 1 to 2 cents higher, Sorghum 5 cents higher and Soybeans 2 to 7 cents lower.

Wheat bids sharply higher as dry weather conditions was a negative factor in the wheat markets. Above normal temperatures are expected, may cause some stress to late developing winter wheat crop. Corn prices were slightly higher as spillover support from wheat pits. Dry weather conditions should aid corn planting progress, and limit further acreage switches from corn to beans. Soybeans were lower as lack of fresh export news pressure bids. South American crop continue to look big and closing the door on world soybean export business for the U.S.

THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

APRIL 30–MAY 6, 2001

MAY DAY OR BELTANE, MAY 1

FLORAL TELEGRAPHS

Lest you hastily gather your May-basket flowers without a thought, consider the age-old "language and sentiment" of your blooms. In 1847, Thomas Miller wrote The Poetical Language of Flowers to instruct flower gatherers everywhere. In 1874, another volume, this one by Captain Marryat, was published, called The Floral Telegraph. In short, both books translated bouquets. Some spring flowers to consider include anemones, which herald spring; buttercups, which promise riches; white clovers, for happiness; crocuses, for youthful glee; and daisies, for innocence. It's tempting to add daffodils to your May baskets, but they spell regret with their drooping heads. May's lilies-of-the-valley indicate the return of a lost love.

The Flowery May, who from her green lap throws / The yellow Cowslip, and the pale Primrose.

–John Milton (1608–1674)

TIP OF THE WEEK

RHUBARB CUSTARD PIE

2 cups diced rhubarb
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup water
1-1/2 cups light cream
4 large eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 unbaked piecrust

Combine the first three ingredients in a saucepan and cook for about 10 minutes, to make a puree.

Preheat oven to 375°F. Beat cream, eggs, and vanilla together. Pour rhubarb puree into pie crust, then pour the custard mixture over that. Bake for 30 minutes or until set.

Makes 8 servings.

Corn Belt Feedstuffs

St. Joseph, Mo.
April 24, 2001
Report Supplied By USDA

CORN BELT FEEDSTUFFS: Wholesale Bids. Truck or Rail dollars per ton.

FOR THE WEEK: Feedstuff prices remain steady with concerns of planting conditions and weather forecasts favoring more soybeans than corn to be planted this year. Corn and soybean meal prices continue to struggle with added pressure to ingredients markets. Annual springtime inventory adjustments should be complete and buying interests could pick up later in the month. Wheat mids were mixed with poor demand and prices increasing due to mill shutdowns that occurred over the Easter weekend.

SOYBEAN MEAL: 44 percent rail bids steady to 2.00 higher at 147-150.00. 48 percent rail steady to 2.00 higher at 157-159.00. Truck 44 percent 1.00 higher at 152-155.00; 48 percent 1.00 higher at 157-163.00 per ton.

OPINION

Farm Safely

Wednesday this week the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau kicked off Rural Road Safety Week.

"With spring planting season under way, it is the ideal time to make drivers aware of the special precautions they should take when driving on rural roads,' said Guy Donaldson, Farm Bureau president.

Recently, the state House of Representatives passed a resolution designating the week of April 23, 2001 as Rural Road Safety Week.

The message is clear: farm machinery needs to use the road, too. But tractors and combines go slower than the typical passenger vehicle. Drivers should be patient and pass with care.

Overall, this is the time of year to know that farm safety, in all aspects, is crucial.

On page B10 of last week's paper, in the Kids Korner, we wrote about the annual Safe Kids Farm Family Safety Day, conducted April 7 at the Manheim Fairgrounds.

Farm kids learned a lot about what they should and shouldn't — do around farm equipment. There were lots of educational and fun activities, too.

The National Children's Center for Rural and Agricultural Health and Safety has published some safe guidelines for children's agricultural tasks. Those guidelines can be viewed online at www.nagcat.org.

May you and your family have a successful, and safe, year.

To Learn About West Nile Encephalitis

The virus that causes West Nile Encephalitis was first identified in the West Nile Province of Uganda in 1937. It is commonly found in humans, birds, and other animals in Eastern Europe, Africa, West Asia, and the Middle East.

In the summer of 1999, the first cases of West Nile Encephalitis in the Western Hemisphere were found when an outbreak occurred in the New York City metropolitan area. The virus was probably introduced into the U.S. by an infected bird or mosquito.

In 1999, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention confirmed 62 human cases of encephalitis, including seven deaths, although the actual human infection rate was much higher. The incubation period in humans of a West Nile Virus infection is usually five to fifteen days.

Most people who are infected with the West Nile virus have no symptoms or may experience mild illness such as fever, headache, body aches, mild skin rash, or swollen lymph glands.

A more severe infection can lead to encephalitis. These symptoms include headache, high fever, neck stiffness, stupor, disorientation, coma, tremors, convulsions, muscle weakness, neurological damage, and paralysis, but rarely death.

All residents living in an area where West Nile Virus has been found can potentially be infected with the virus. People over 50 years of age are at greatest risk of becoming ill because of their declining immune systems. All who died in the 1999 outbreak in the New York City area were over 68 years of age. However, anyone with a compromised immune system is at risk, regardless of age.

Infected mosquitoes transmit the West Nile virus. Mosquitoes become infected when they feed on blood meal from infected birds. The virus circulates and multiplies for several days in a mosquito's blood before penetrating its salivary glands.

After an incubation period of 10-14 days, these mosquitoes can pass on the virus when they feed on another blood meal. These mosquitoes usually bite and infect other birds — the natural hosts of the virus — but can also infect horses and other mammals, in addition to humans.

In October 2000, the first cases of West Nile Virus were confirmed from birds, mosquitoes, and a horse in Pennsylvania. However, in spite of extensive surveillance, the virus has not been found in Lancaster County. It was found in neighboring Chester County in two birds and one mosquito and in York County in two birds.

To Clean Up Sites

Many potential mosquito-breeding sites exist on farms and around homes. Larvae can develop in watering troughs, small ponds, irrigation ditches, ruts where farm equipment passes regularly, and other areas where water is allowed to accumulate.

The close proximity of livestock, birds, and other animals to mosquito breeding areas increases the risk of transmission of animal or human disease.

There are many things which can be done to eliminate mosquito-breeding areas. Fill in ruts with stone, regularly clean out water troughs, and remove or empty any containers that collect water. Aerate small ponds and stock them with fish.

Old tires, which are often collected to cover trench silos, can be a major mosquito breeding area if water is allowed to collect in them. During the course of one season, thousands of mosquitoes can be bred in just one tire. Covering the pile of tires with a tarp to keep out water can be a way to control the problem. Splitting the tires in half and storing them with the open side down can also eliminate the stagnant water problem.

In situations where eliminating the breeding sites is not practical, larviciding is the best alternative. Several larvicides are well suited for tire piles, including Bacillus sphaericus. B. thuringiensis israelensis (B.t.i.), Temephos, growth regulators, oils and mono-molecular films. These products can only be applied by certified pesticide applicators. An applicator can help you determine which products best suit your situation.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A LOT MORE TO 'BARNABAS'

Background Scripture:
Acts 11:19-30; 13:1-3.
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 3:7-12.

Here and there I find a "Church of St. Barnabas," but very few in comparison with those named for St. Paul, St. Peter, and the writers of the four gospels. If Barnabas is remembered for anything, it is usually as a companion to Paul on two of his missionary journeys. But there is a lot more to Barnabas than that.

We know he was originally from Cyprus, a Jew, born of the tribe of Lei. We can deduce that he must have been one of the members of the early church in Jerusalem, perhaps early enough so that he had personally known Jesus.

We first run across him in Acts 4:36, when he sells his land and donates the proceeds to the early Church. In these days he was probably not known as Barnabas, but by his original name, Joseph or Joses. It was during his days in the Jerusalem that he went out on a limb to persuade the Christians of Jerusalem and beyond that Paul's conversion was genuine. (Acts 9:12).

Hearing disturbing reports that Greeks were becoming part of the church at Antioch, the Jerusalem church sent him there to look into the situation. It is believed that he became the leader of the church at Antioch, one of the most important in the early Church. In the early chapters of Acts, he and Paul are listed as "Barnabas and Saul," the order of their naming indicating that Barnabas was in charge and Saul/Paul his associate.

It was possibly in Antioch that he began to be known as "Barnabas," meaning "son of encouragement." That Barnabas was compared to the god Jupiter/Zeus in Lystra suggests that he was robust and magnetic in his personality.

'He Was Glad'!

When Barnabas arrived in Antioch, he saw that that Greeks were indeed joining the church and he recognized it as a good thing. Acts tells us, "When he . . . saw the grace of God, he was glad . . . for he was a good man, full of the Holy Spirit and of faith" (11:23).

Good for Barnabas, he was "a good man"! He wasn't so hamstrung by tradition that he couldn't see that the inclusion of the Greeks was evidence of the "grace of God." He lived up to his new name: Barnabas — "son of encouragement."

Barnabas recognized a great potential for the gospel in Antioch and journeyed to Tarsus to persuade Saul to come to Antioch and join him. When the Antioch Christians took up an offering to help their Christian brethren in Jerusalem, "Barnabas and Saul" were selected to deliver it. Eventually the church at Antioch commissioned Barnabas, along with Saul and Mark to make their first missionary journey. An interesting thing happens along the way. The team of Barnabas and Paul eventually becomes known as "Paul and Barnabas." In other words, Paul began to eclipse Barnabas.

Dispute Over Mark

While the trio was in Cyprus, for some reason that is not apparent, Mark decided to quit the team. So, when laster they began to plan a second missionary journey, Paul did not weant to include Mark. However, Barnabas, John Mark's cousin, insisted that he accompany them and on this issue, it appears, Barnabas and Paul split and went their separate ways. (See Colissians 4:10).

Paul suggests in Collisions that, like Simon Peter, Barnabas wavered on the issue of associating with the Gentiles. Paul was seen as a radical on this subject, while Barnabas perhaps was more of a middle-roader like Peter. (See Galatians 2:11 ff.)

The fact that Paul and Barnabas reached a parting of the ways in no way detracts from the latter's Christian witness. Paul and Barnabas disagreed, but that doesn't mean they became enemies. Christians can disagree with one another without the kingdom of heaven going down the drain. Both made valuable contributions to the spread of the gospel. Paul later referred to Barnabas (I Cor. 9:6) sympathetically as a "working apostle."

Barnabas's most lasting influence was perhaps in the support that he gave John Mark, whose gospel is generally recognized as the earliest of the gospel accounts and the one upon which both Matthew and Luke relied in writing their own gospel accounts.

The gospel of Jesus Christ spread because of the efforts of Paul and Barnabas, not Paul or Barnabas.

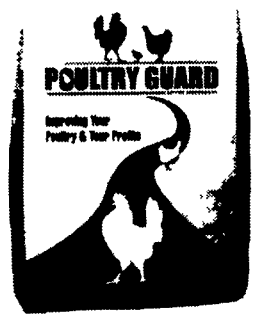
LITTER AMENDMENT

New Poultry Guard™ Litter Amendment is a unique activated clay that delivers consistent ammonia control without the handling inconvenience associated with other poultry litter treatments.

Unlike these other treatments, Poultry Guard Litter Amendment is easy and convenient to apply and needs no incorporation or activation Fewer application variables mean more consistent performance In addition, Poultry Guard can be applied up to five days before bird set, whenever it's convenient for the grower



Using Poultry Guard Litter Amendment Is As Simple As...

Apply
Simply spread over poultry litter.
- No incorporation
- No moisture activation
- No complicated instructions for heating and ventilation in conjunction with application

Bird Set
Poultry Guard can be applied when it's most convenient, up to five days before bird set.
- No application timing headaches between clean out and bird set
- No last minute application after equipment has been lowered

Control Ammonia
Poultry Guard will deliver immediate and long-term ammonia control and give birds a healthier growing environment.
- No more dangerously high levels of ammonia to stunt growth

You be the judge! We are confident this litter amendment will improve your poultry and your profits.

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

Ken Bailey
Penn State
April 20, 2001

Futures Market Responds To Milk Production Report

- March milk in 20 states down 2.2 percent.
- Grade AA butter exceeds $1.90/pound.
- March butter stocks down 20 percent.
- Class IV futures prices reach $15.75/CWT.

Information is coming together to suggest that the milk supply is much tighter than anyone thought earlier. USDA's milk production report for 20 select states indicates that March milk production was down 2.2 percent from the same month a year earlier.

Fifteen out of the 20 states had production declines from a year earlier. The cold storage report released today also suggests that stocks of butter and cheese are below year-ago levels.

The production losses in March were surprising. Production for 20 select dairy states was 12.4 billion pounds, down 2.2 percent from a year ago. February milk production was down 1.6 percent after accounting for data revisions and leap year. Production per cow in March averaged 1,599 pounds, 33 pounds below a year ago. And cow numbers in March were 7.76 million head, 9,000 head less than February 2001.

Arizona production was down 9.3 percent because of reductions in production per cow. Texas and Missouri had the highest production losses, down 15.5 and 10.9 percent, respectively, because of fewer cows and reduced production per cow. Other states such as Kentucky, Minnesota, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Vermont, and Virginia had production declines of 4-5 percent. Only the states of California (.3 percent), Idaho (0.1 percent) and Indiana (.3 percent) had positive production gains.

The other major report that came out today was USDA's Cold Storage report. It showed butter stocks down 20 percent in March to 91.5 million pounds. Butter stocks are projected to get a tighter this year as butter production is restricted because of lower milk production levels and higher prices for cream. Butter is normally made in the spring when cream is readily available. However, competition from ice cream makers will ration available cream supplies to butter processors.

The Cold Storage report also indicated that cheese stocks in March are below year-earlier levels. American cheese is down 8.8 percent to 493.3 million pounds. Other natural cheese is about even with a year ago. Total cheese is down 6.4 percent to 716.1 million pounds.

The cash markets responded quickly to the new data. At the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, barrel cheese rose from $1.3525 per pound on Monday, April 16 to $1.43 per pound on Friday, April 20. Likewise, 40-pound block cheese rose from $1.3925 per pound on Monday to $1.4325 by Friday. The most surprising jump in milk prices, however, was in butter. Grade AA butter prices rose from $1.7250 per pound on Monday to $1.9350 by Friday. Butter buyers no doubt fear a shortage.

The futures market strengthened appreciably in response to this news. You will recall last March 23 I predicted the market had topped out. Back then the September 2001 Class III futures at the Chicago Mercantile Exchanged reached $13.25 per CWT. That would represent a gain of $2.49 per CWT over a year ago. As of today, April 20, the Chicago Mercantile Exchange reported a Class III settlement price of $13.85 per CWT for September 2001, a gain of $0.60 per CWT over my earlier call and a gain of $3.09 over the actual Class III price from a year ago.

The gain in Class IV prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange was even stronger. On March 23 the September Class IV settlement price was $14.50, a gain of $2.56 per CWT over the actual Class IV price from September 2000. As of today, April 20, the Class IV settlement price at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange rose to $15.60 per CWT. That represents a gain of $1.10 per CWT from my earlier call on March 23 and a gain of $3.66 from the actual Class IV price from September 2000.

Dairy producers interested in using the futures markets should take advantage of these higher milk prices. Prices may not stay this high throughout the rest of the year.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

On The Mark, Get Set, Grow!

The 6100 Series Rigid And Vertical Fold Planters.

Precision farming starts with precision seed placement. And that's exactly what you'll get with the White 6100 Series planters. Our pull-type planters feature an exclusive air-metering system that's designed to singulate every seed. Its low air pressure, edge-drop seed discs and short, 18" seed drop ensure precise seed placement for maximum germination.

Adaptable To Any Tillage Situation.
Our 4, 6, 8 and 12 row planters have the flexibility to meet most tillage practices both now and in the future. They're built rugged with a massive 7" x 7" frame and strong, welded-tongue design to handle the demands of heavy residue. Add a 6900 splitter attachment for interplant capability.

This season get the planter that places each seed where it'll grow the best — and perform the best. Stop by your AGCO® White Planter dealer today.

Weather Protect Weed Control for Top Yields

FIELD NOTES

Weather is one of the most important factors affecting weed control in corn today Dry, wet or cold weather can lead to erratic weed control, especially with soil-applied herbicides.

Herbert Roos and Jim Campbell have taken steps to weather-protect their weed control by switching from inconsistent preemergence programs to using a planned post program with DuPont™ Basis Gold® herbicide They have seen their decision pay off in more reliable control of both grasses and broadleaves—as well as award-winning yields in the 2000 National Corn Yield Contest

Unlike soil-applied herbicides, Basis Gold® doesn't need rain to deliver burndown control of emerged grasses and broadleaves With a passing shower, the residual activity kicks in to control foxtails, waterhemp, giant ragweed, pigweeds, velvetleaf and lambsquarters, and helps keep fields clean through harvest When growers look at costs, Basis Gold® is up to $3 per acre less than the leading competitive program

"We have had real good luck with Basis Gold®," says Roos, a first-place yield winner in Illinois

"It seems like the preplant treatments will play out, and then the waterhemp and foxtail come in late We haven't seen Basis Gold® run out, even in years with heavy rainfall"

Sandbur, lambsquarters and cocklebur are among the major weed problems for Campbell, who farms near Canton, Mo. Basis Gold® has proven itself effective and crop safe—something that Campbell notes is not always the case with a preemergence program

"I've had times with a pre-only program where we went two to three weeks without rain and it never activated By the time we got rain, the weeds were too big to control," says Campbell, a third-place yield winner in Missouri "Basis Gold® doesn't affect the corn one bit We can spray corn four to ten inches tall, and it just keeps on growing. It just does a fantastic job"

Majestic World Farms Hosts Second Elk Auction

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

PORTAGE (Cambria Co.) — Majestic World Farms, located near Portage, hosted the Second Annual Elk Auction in mid-March, drawing in about 150 elk enthusiasts for the event.

Thirty live elk went before auctioneer Stanley Claycomb of Osterburg as he enticed buyers to place bids ranging from $700 to $1,400 for calves, $1,100 to $3,000 for cows, and $1,600 to $3,500 for bulls. Semen from six different elk bloodlines was also sold.

The doors opened at 9 a.m. for bidders to view the elk and study their pedigrees. Wade Hainstock, an elk breeder for more than 21 years, conducted seminars before the noon auction on antler products and removing antlers.

Other seminars covered fencing and nutrition and feeding programs for calves, cows, and bulls.

Auction records show that bidders came from Pennsylvania, New York, North Carolina, and Ontario, Canada. Phone bids were placed from New York, Bermuda, and Saskatchewan, Canada.

More farmers are considering raising elk as a successful alternative agricultural enterprise after learning that elk are in demand for their no-cholesterol and low-fat meat, the nutriceutical demand and value of velvet, and breeding stock. Hunting on trophy elk hunting ranches is also popular.

The family-owned Majestic World Farms maintains accredited Certified No. 001 TB- and brucellosis-free herds in Blue Knob, Huntingdon, and Coldwater, Ontario. Their next auction is scheduled Aug. 18 at their Blue Knob Farm.

Majestic's Goliath looks out from his pen at the Second Annual Elk Auction at Majestic World Farms near Blue Knob. Majestic's Goliath was one of 30 elk sold.

Student Recruitment Theme Of Penn State Ag Council Meeting

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — "One of the greatest challenges facing us is ensuring a pipeline of students coming into the program. The leadership we have tomorrow and the years ahead depends on the flow of students from this institution and others," said Robert Steele, dean of the Penn State College of Agricultural sciences.

During a Penn State Agricultural Council meeting recently, delegates from agriculture organizations gave input, ideas, and suggestions on student recruitment to representatives of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

A previous session with the Council yielded ideas and suggestions for improve and change the ongoing process, Steele said.

Recruitment Is Everyone's Responsibility

Jim Mortensen, associate dean for undergraduate programs, provided statistics about recent changes in the student body of the College of Agricultural Sciences. From 1985 to 1995, enrollment grew and peaked; however, the college has experienced decreases of various proportions since then. "We've also seen significant shifts in students' choices of majors," said Mortensen.

In 1995, for example, 57 percent of Agricultural Sciences students were environmental and natural resource majors, a number which has decreased to 33 percent today. The trend is toward animal sciences and ag production majors. In 1995 one out of five students had one of those majors while one out of three students are today.

Marianne Fivek, assistant to the dean for student recruitment and activities, reported on the college's efforts since the last meeting.

"Recruitment is everyone's responsibility," said Fivek. "Together we work to get the message — that agricultural sciences provides a world of opportunity — out."

A few of the action points established at faculty meetings include changing the image of the college of agricultural sciences, publicizing salaries and job opportunities, networking with high schools, being visible at statewide events, and developing a Webpage specifically for prospective students.

Efforts that pay off, said Fivek, are tours, stayovers, and open houses which bring prospective students to the university. In addition recruitment efforts include planning visits for high schools, youth groups, and individual families. The Pennsylvania Governor's School, a five-week term of undergraduate research, attracts 50 percent of the participants to Penn State.

"If we can get a prospective student on campus, we have a better chance of getting them to apply and accept their offer," said Fivek.

To end her presentation, Fivek showed a 13-minute video highlighting features of the College of Agricultural Sciences which will be shown to prospective students.

The university's second greatest challenge, said Fivek, is offering attractive freshman scholarships. Fivek cited several examples of other institutions offering big-dollar scholarships which help to lure students.

Delegate Presentations

To help introduce a few of the members involved in the Council, each year a few delegates introduce their organizations during the meeting. Opening this year's introductions was Earl Fink, representing Pennsylvania Dairy Stockholders.

The organization, said Fink, was formed to provide cohesive leadership in the Pennsylvania dairy industry. Beginning in 1992 the group hosted several conferences and officially organized in 1997.

Members include producers, processors, retail personnel, food handlers, and government representatives. The group includes 13 people on the board and more than 950 people on the mailing list.

Programs and efforts include videos and brochures, the Pacesetter Award, and the Business Planning Assistance Program, which connects experts with dairy producers to develop a business plan for the farm. "One of the best features of the group," said Fink, "is that it enables various segments of the industry to sit down and civilly discuss the issues to move the industry forward."

Walter Peechatka, executive vice president of PennAg Industries Association, summarized the organization's efforts since 1878, when the group was first formed. In 1996 the board amended bylaws to create councils. These councils will help consolidate the agriculture industry, said Peechatka.

In 1997 the first council was created. In 1998 the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation became the second council. Additional councils also include swine and seed interests. Headquartered in Harrisburg, the organization's vision is to consolidated the agribusiness industry to speak with one voice.

A representative council can go to the table with positions that represent all facets of agriculture and increase the volume of the voices presented at the capitol, he said.

Jana Malot, representing the Soil and Water Conservation Society, said that the organization is "in the lead to help make it easier for change."

For example, said Malot, with the nutrient management laws, the society "helped to develop policy and educate consultants to bring producers in line with the law." They also conduct research, then create seminars which in turn teach consultants to help farmers.

Tillage, soil quality and health conferences also help educate producers and equipment dealers. The organization makes available educational materials, such as a stormwater quality management manual, to consultants for use in the field.

Council Activities

Comprised of agriculture and ag-related organizations, the Penn State Ag Council advises Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences and serves as a voice in legislative issues dealing with agriculture.

Activities of the Council include sponsoring a summer research tour for legislators.

This year a tour focusing on food safety is slated. In addition they also sponsor educational seminars for students, utilizing speakers from the agriculture industry groups on the Council.

Charolais Association And Western Video Market Announce Charolais-Influenced Sale Series

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — On July 9, 10, and 11, commercial cattlemen will have their first opportunity to participate in an all Charolais-influenced, special section satellite video sale produced by the American-International Charolais Association (AICA), Kansas City, Mo., and Western Video Market, Cottonwood, Calif.

This sale, the first in a series of verified Charolais-influenced feeder calf sales will take place at the John Ascuaga's Nugget Hotel in Reno, Nevada. The second sale in the Charolais series is slated to take place on Aug. 20 and 21 in Cheyenne, Wyo.

According to Western Video Market president Andy Peek, "Charolais cattle enjoy an excellent reputation among our feeder buyers and have always sold extremely well in our video auctions. This is an exciting opportunity for both producers and Western Video Market."

Producers from across the United States are encouraged to take part in this landmark event. Approximately 90 percent of the Charolais-influenced cattle nominated for the satellite video auction must be sired by registered Charolais bulls.

In addition to calves being sired by registered Charolais bulls, the AICA and Western Video Market encourage producers to utilize some type of prevac program. For this video event, cattlemen are also encouraged to precondition their calves and include marketing options for these cattle. "By incorporating these simple management practices, producers are adding value to their cattle," said Scott Farmer, AICA director of commercial activities.

The first sale in July, is expected to draw more than 5,000 head of Charolais-cross feeder calves.

"This partnership will be a tremendous addition to our summer video sales, and we intend to vigorously advertise and market these quality offerings," said Peek.

If you would like to take part in this inaugural sale, contact Andy or Ellington Peek at (530) 347-3793 or e-mail them at wvm@wvmcattle.com.

Lamb Trade Assistance

On Jan. 13, Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman announced the details of a commitment to help the U.S. sheep and lamb industry with a $100 million assistance plan.

The plan makes $50 million available during the first year, and an additional $50 million during the second and third years for production improvements, market promotion, animal health and domestic purchases.

Sheep industry representatives hope that the funding will help to reenergize the domestic sheep and lamb industry, and encourage it to make the essential changes that will improve its competitive position in the marketplace with imported product.

The plan, which includes funding for production improvements, animal health and domestic purchases, was criticized by foreign competitors. Meat New Zealand's chairman said the U.S. "subsidies " to its lamb producers had a political objective, weren't the result of an objective analysis, and were unlikely to achieve increased competitiveness.

He told Reuters that the problem with the U.S. industry is its uncompetitiveness and need for structural adjustment, adding that the subsidies weren't unexpected and the other part of the package, the temporary tariff protection, was much more objectionable.

Domestic representatives were more enthusiastic about the funds, but recognized that hard work is still ahead.

"It is now up to our industry to come together and work with the administration to make real-time improvements for everyone," said National Sheep Association (NSA) President Mike Caskey in a news statement.

USDA/AMS To Standardize Goat Meat Cuts

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) is seeking comments on a draft of new Institutional Meat Purchase Specifications (IMPS) for fresh goat.

Prompted by requests from the goat industry, AMS is seeking standardized criteria for carcass evaluation and descriptions of goat meat.

Comments are due by June 2. The draft is available at the AMS web site For more information contact Steve Olson at (202)720-4486.

Capitol Region Agronomy Team Report

IT'S LATE MAY: DO YOU KNOW WHERE YOUR N IS?

Mark Goodson
Extension Agent
York County

The "Penn State Agronomy Guide," uses a "rule-of-thumb" to provide nitrogen (N) recommendations for corn. The rule is easy to remember and use: "yield goal x factor - credits = pounds of N per acre." "Yield goal" comes from soil series corn production capability. The factor is 1.0 to 1.1 pounds of N for each bushel of corn. The "credits" are pounds of N credited from manure or legumes previous in the rotation. Further comments recommend delaying some or all N until corn is 10-inches to 20-inches tall.

In reality, most Pennsylvania farmers like to put the full shot of N in the soil at planting. But corn doesn't need much N before it's around a foot tall. What happens to N in the soil put on ahead of the corn crop needs?

Soil does not behave like a static storage container. The soil N-cycle is complicated and that nitrogen can be lost from fields via leaching of nitrate, volatilization into the air, denitrification in waterlogged soils, erosion and run-off of soil containing N. How much N is lost between planting and crop-uptake? Are these losses static? Does the Agronomy Guide recommendation account for N losses occur because of weather after the N is applied?

Dr. Blackmer, at Iowa State, conducted research demonstrating more than half of pre-applied N in Iowa is lost from the fields during the first year by processes other than plant harvest (Lecture 2/28/2001). Pennsylvania is not Iowa and the practice of fall application of N is uncommon here. Do we have losses under Pennsylvania field conditions?

Following Blackmer's N loss research, Iowa initiated the "N-Check" program. This program tests soil after the fertilizer is applied using the presidedress Soil Nitrate Test (PSNT). In the PSNT, soil is tested for nitrate when corn is six- to 12-inches tall. The test tells whether the nitrate in the soil is too low, too high or just right for optimal yields.

"N-Check" program has shown that in years having high rainfall during the March to May period, fields tested too low in soil nitrate. The deficiency could then be corrected with additional N when plants were 10- to 20-inches tall. In years with low rainfall during March to May, optimum soil nitrate was measured; losses were negligible.

What does this mean to us in Pennsylvania? Many farmers put down the entire recommended amount of N at planting and forget about the PSNT and sidedressing. However, significant N may be lost in high rainfall years. With the PSNT, this loss can be detected and corrected.

Farmers cannot afford to buy fertilizer, lose it down the creek, and then take the low yields. Optimizing N management in corn requires observing, evaluating and adjusting over time. Farm records will tell the farmer what works best on his specific site over time.

See Agronomy Facts 17 "Presidedress Soil Nitrate Test for Corn," at www.agronomy.psu.edu/Extension/Facts/ or pick-up a copy at your county Penn State Cooperative Extension Office, for specific, detailed recommendations for using the PSNT in Pennsylvania. Also, refer to the "1999-2000 Agronomy Guide."

Direct Marketing Conference Feb. 20-23

YORK (York Co.) — The 2002 Mid-Atlantic Direct Marketing Conference and Trade Show will be conducted in York, Feb. 20-23, organizers have announced.

The Holidome Hotel and Conference Center is the site of the annual event, which attracts direct marketers from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and surrounding states.

The conference focuses on innovative marketing techniques through tours, workshops, roundtable discussions, and presentations by industry experts. There is also a trade show featuring products and services geared specifically to pick-your-own produce operations, growers' markets, roadside stands, year-round markets, Community Supported Ag organizations, and other direct farm sale businesses.

"Whether you've been in the direct farm marketing business for years or are just considering the possibilities, this conference is a must," said John Berry, Penn State cooperative extension. The direct farm marketing associations, extension services, and departments of agriculture in New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and Pennsylvania sponsor this conference.

For additional information, registration materials, or to sign-up as an exhibitor, contact John Berry at (610) 391-9840, via fax at (610) 391-0683, or via e-mail at jwb15@psu.edu. Provide your name, address, phone, fax, and e-mail address.

March Milk Production Down 5.3 Percent

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Milk production in Pennsylvania during March 2001 totaled 948 million pounds, 5.3 percent below last year's production, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS).

The number of milk cows in the state during the month averaged 600,000 head, down 2,000 head from February and 18,000 head less than March 2000. Production per cow averaged 1,580 pounds in March, 160 pounds more then February, but 40 pounds less than March 2000.

Milk production in the 20 states surveyed during March 2001 totaled 12.4 billion pounds, down 2.2 percent from production in these same states in March 2000. February revised production, at 11.1 billion pounds, was down 5.0 percent from February 2000. However, adjusting production for leap year would put February milk production down 1.6 percent.

The number of milk cows on farms in the 20 major states averaged 7.76 million head, 18,000 head less than March 2000, and 9,000 head more than February 2001.

Production per cow in the 20 major states averaged 1,599 pounds for March, 33 pounds below March of last year.

The quarterly production of milk for the U.S. was 41.3 billion pounds, 3.1 percent below the January-March period last year. The average number of milk cows in the U.S. during the January-March quarter was 9.16 million head, 33,000 head less than the same period last year.

Wetlands Major Focus At BioHio 2001

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Wetlands improve water quality, prevent floods and support wildlife. People can learn how at BioHio 2001, said Bill Mitsch, Ohio State professor of natural resources.

Tours of Ohio State University's 30-acre Olentangy River Wetland Research Park will be offered each day of BioHio, May 10-12. On Friday, May 11, from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., visitors can take part in a wetland open house and groundbreaking ceremony for a new Wetland Research and Education Building to be constructed at the research park.

The wetland events will be part of BioHio, held on the Columbus campus of Ohio State University's College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Through hands-on demonstrations, exhibits and tours, visitors will learn about agriculture, the environment, gardening, fish farming, native plants, berries and more. Many fun and learning activities are planned for kids. The BioHio theme is "Bringing Science to Life."

"May is Wetlands Month, and many things will be happening at the wetland. Every spring there's something new," Mitsch said. "Visitors should be able to see waterfowl, muskrats, geese, diving kingfishers, frogs, aquatic wildlife, many wetland plant species and maybe even a turtle or snake or two. They can climb the Sandefur Pavilion and get a beautiful view, or walk through the wetland without getting wet on the recycled-plastic boardwalks."

Equally important, Mitsch said, visitors can see the experiments occurring at the site. A monitoring network is in place to gauge the quality of water flowing into and out of the wetlands. Experiments with plant species and water levels are underway. And the wetlands themselves are experiments-in-action, showing how to create a wetland and restore a wetland forest.

Ohio State University President William "Brit" Kirwan, officials from collaborating universities - Wright State, Youngstown State, Shawnee State and Kenyon College - and members of the Friends of Buckeye Swamp will be on hand for the groundbreaking of the state-of-the-art Wetland Research and Education Building. There will be refreshments and a live band.

The new building will house analytical laboratories, a starting point for wetland tours, displays of site data, and the headquarters for the new multi-university Ohio Center for Wetlands and River Restoration. The YSI Foundation recently pledged $200,000 toward construction of the building, Mitsch said.

In addition to learning about wetlands, BioHio visitors can bring samples of plant, weed and insect problems for identification and recommendations; get garden-variety soybean seeds with information on how to grow and cook them; learn how strawberries and black raspberries may reduce the risk of certain cancers; see how earthworms can help recycle organic waste, such as food scraps; see and even handle bugs at the Insect Zoo; learn about Ohio's native plants and how to grow them in the landscape; and learn more about turfgrass varieties for the lawn.

The Ohio State University Veterinary Hospital, the Horticulture and Crop Science greenhouses and the Aquaculture Laboratory will offer tours. Side trips also will be offered to Ohio Stadium.

Live entertainment will be featured throughout each day.

BioHio is sponsored by the college's components - Ohio State University Extension, the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, the Ohio State University Agricultural Technical Institute and Academic Affairs. Admission and parking are free.

Parking for BioHio will be north of the Schottenstein Center off of Fred Taylor Drive in the Schott Special Events Parking Lot. Access to the lot will be from Ackerman Road via state Route 315. Signs will be posted on state Route 315, Ackerman Road and Lane Avenue to direct visitors to event parking. Buses will shuttle visitors to the event from the parking area.

Tours to the wetland research park will leave by van from the Information Tent on the main BioHio grounds. For those wishing to drive to the park, directions also will be available at the Information Tent. Ample parking is available at the wetland for tours and the groundbreaking. The site is at 352 Dodridge Road, just north of Chemical Abstracts' Picnic with the Pops field.

For more information about BioHio 2001, call (614) 292-3897 or visit the BioHio 2001 Web site at http://www.oardc.ohio-state.edu/biohio/.

April 1 Cattle On Feed 3 Percent Higher Than Year Ago

WASHINGTON, D.C.— (USDA-NASS) — Cattle and Calves on feed for slaughter market in the United States for feedlots with capacity of 1,000 or more head totaled 11.52 million head on April 1, 2001.

The inventory included 6.96 million steers and steer calves, up 2 percent from the previous year. This group accounted for 60 percent of the total inventory. Heifer and heifer calves accounted for 4.49 million head, up 3 percent from 2000.

Placements in feedlots during March totaled 1.85 million, 9 percent below both 2000 and 1999. Net placements were 1.75 million.

During March, placements of cattle and calves weighing less than 600 pounds were 330,000; 600-699 pounds were 416,000; 700-799 pounds were 618,000; and 800 pounds and greater were 488,000.

Marketings of fed cattle during March totaled 1.93 million, 6 percent below 2000 and 3 percent below 1999.

Other disappearance totaled 98,000 during March, 5 percent below 2000 but 38 percent above 1999.

Historic 7 States Up 3 Percent

Cattle on Feed April 1, 2001 in the historic 7 states for feedlots with capacity of 1,000 or more head totaled 9.86 million, up 3 percent form the previous year and 11 percent above April 1, 1999.

The inventory included 5.59 million steers and steer calves, up 2 percent from the previous year. This group accounted for 60 percent of the total inventory. Heifers and heifer calves accounted for 3.91 million head, up 3 percent from 2000.

Placements in feedlots during March totaled 1.61 million, 9 percent below 2000 and 3 percent below 1999.

Marketings during March totaled 1.61 million, 9 percent below 2000 and 3 percent below 1999.

Other disappearance during March was 80,000 head, 8 percent 2000 and 54 percent above 1999.

IMPROVE YOUR PASTURES
AND HAVE TONS OF SUMMER FEED AS WELL

STEP 1 Plow or Roundup about mid to late May. This way you can still utilize your spring growth

STEP 2 Fertilize and drill in one (or a blend of several) of the fine forages described at right or plant our silage corn. Corn does very well where pasture is plowed down. This may also help break up disease or insect cycles in old pastures.

STEP 3 Graze or cut sorghum sudan at 24 in. (Approx. 40 days after seeding and every 30 days thereafter). Warning: never feed sorghum sudan when it's less than 18" tall.

STEP 4 About mid Sept. plow or disk in manure and plant a high quality Barenbrug Grass Legume Mix. Always take a soil test before new seeding.

Graze lightly when 6 to 8 in. tall

WHEN FERTILIZED AND GRAZED PROPERLY, BARENBRUG FORAGES HAVE MORE THAN DOUBLED MILK YIELD PER ACRE COMPARED TO TRADITIONAL PASTURE.

BROWN MID RIB (BMR) Hybrid Sorghum Sudan from Walter Moss Seed Co. This premium forage has outstanding regrowth and tillering characteristics. The BMR trait increases the digestibility of the stems and reduces lignin by 40 to 60%. Because of this farmers will see increased milk production, or weight gains. The softer leaves and stems make for a more palatable feed.

MEGA GREEN Delayed Maturing Hybrid Sorghum x Sudangrass from Walter Moss Seed Co., is a very high yielding multi-leaf variety designed for hay or grazing. It has the potential to out yield silage corn. When left to grow it can reach heights of 12 ft. or more with out making a seedhead. Here in Lancaster Co. I have not seen it go to head at all. Extra leafy leaves can reach 3 in. wide and 4 ft. long.

Both Mega Green and Century can be no tilled into old alfalfa stands after first cutting to double your haylage yields. Because of the high sugar content cows really go for it and milk well too.

BARKANT FORAGE TURNIP from Barenbrug is a very leafy turnip that has won yield trials including one in Berks Co. PA where it was seeded May 18, 1999 and harvested June 30th and rivaled the yield of Sorghum Sudangrass. It has a RFV of 216. It can also be mixed with Sorghum Sudan.

Ridge Administration Continues Farmland Preservation Drive

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) - Agriculture Secretary Sam Hayes recently announced that the state continues its nation-leading farmland-preservation drive by approving 28 more farms, totaling 2,714 acres for preservation.

"Farmland preservation in Pennsylvania is a productive open-space policy and will help to protect our agricultural economy for future generations," Hayes said.

"Through Gov. Ridges commitment to farmland preservation, Pennsylvanians can rest assured our agriculture industry - and our heritage - will remain strong."

Hayes also noted that, in 2001, 91 farms totaling 10,084 acres have been preserved.

Since 1989, Pennsylvania has strived to protect more than 1,500 farms with 191,000 acres - more than any other state in the nation. More than 67 percent of the farms have been preserved in the last six years.

To continue Pennsylvania's commitment to the preservation of its agricultural heritage, more than $70 million in county and state funding has been allocated for the upcoming year, including more than $20 million as part of Ridge's "Growing Greener initiative."

At $650 million, "Growing Greener" is Pennsylvania's largest investment in the preservation of the environment and open space.

Through the purchase of development rights, referred to as easements, the Farmland Preservation Program preserves farmland for future generations.

The following is a list of state easement purchases by county, including, name, municipality, acres and purchase price:

Berks County:

• Reuben Getz and David and Martha Pool, North Heidelberg Township, 134 acres, $267,200.

Bucks County:

• Alvin and Anna Detweiler, Plumstead Township, 67 acres, $620,398.

Cumberland County:

• Piper Acres Partnership, West Pennsboro Township, 218 acres, $288,850.

Dauphin County:

• Homer and Bonita Campbell, Lykens Township, 111 acres, $159,285.

Fulton County:

• Donald and Stephanie Clevenger, Todd Township, 95 acres, $147,126.

Lancaster County:

• Ervin and Anna Ruth Burkholder, West Cocalico Township, 80 acres, $356,641.

• William and Catherine Shirk, East Earl Township, 65 acres, $176,976.

Lycoming County:

• John Bower, Washington Township, 58 acres, $52,470.

• Robert Steppe, Limestone Township, 74 acres, $66,150.

Monroe County:

• Bruce and Karen Ecke, Hamilton Township, 56 acres, $121,215.

Montgomery County:

• Henry and Mae Zajac, Douglass Township, 56 acres, $255,356.

Northumberland County:

• Ronald and Evelyn Shaffer, Lower Mahanoy Township, 80 acres, $87,940.

Union County:

• Gary and Patricia Walter, Kelly Township, 66 acres, $74,361.

• Orphia Walter, Kelly Township, 75 acres, $85,149.

Wayne County:

• Edward, Joseph and William Christopher, Salem Township, 177 acres, $177,340.

• Robert and Dorothy Kieff, Berlin Township, 107 acres, $116,903.

York County:

• C. Robert and Isabelle Kilgore, Lower Chanceford Township, 155 acres, $165,684.

The Preservation Board also approved the preservation of 11 farms totaling 1,040 acres under county farmland-preservation programs in Lancaster and York counties.

The Bureau of Farmland Preservation at the Department of Agriculture helps interested landowners to preserve their farms.

For more information, contact the Bureau of Farmland Preservation at (717) 783-3167 or access the PA PowerPort at www.state.pa.us or directly at www.pda.state.pa.us.

USGS Issues Wildlife Health Alert For Foot-And-Mouth Disease

MADISON, Wis. — Although no cases of foot-and-mouth (FMD) disease have been found in the United States, with the recent outbreaks in the European Union and South America, U.S. Geological Survey (USGS) wildlife health officials recently released a wildlife health alert. The alert advised natural resource and conservation managers that if foot-and-mouth disease were to arrive in the country, some wildlife species are susceptible to the disease. Foot-and-mouth disease could affect United States wildlife such as white-tailed deer, other deer species, feral wild pigs, bison, moose, antelope, peccaries, musk ox, caribou, sheep and elk.

Dr. Scott Wright, chief of the diagnostic and field response branch at the USGS National Wildlife Health Center in Madison, Wis., said that disease specialists at the center are closely monitoring and gathering information about the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in Western Europe and South America because of the threat foot-and-mouth disease may pose to North American wildlife. USGS wildlife disease specialists are working with the USDA, the lead agency on the disease, in developing outbreak prevention and containment strategies.

Wright notes that although foot-and-mouth disease is primarily an economically devastating disease of domestic livestock, experimental studies have clearly demonstrated that the disease is also a threat to wildlife. Recent studies have shown that wildlife and domestic animals not only can spread the disease to each other, but also that some wild ungulate (cloven-hoofed) species can become infected and shed the virus without showing any signs of the disease.

According to the USDA, in some countries, wild ungulates have continued to be a source of infection to livestock even though other countries have successfully eradicated FMD without active actions to control the disease in wildlife. The difference, said the USDA, may be in the type of wildlife affected. Between 1870 and 1968, wildlife species have been the source of primary outbreaks of FMD less than one percent of the time. From 1969-1993, that figure rose slightly to three percent.

USDA research has revealed that white-tailed deer are susceptible to the same virus strain now affecting domestic animals overseas. The same studies also showed that infected deer could shed virus up to four weeks after infection and could pass the infection to other deer and cattle. Likewise, infected cattle are able to pass the virus to deer, and with the explosion of the white-tailed deer population in the United States, researchers are concerned about the repercussions with wildlife and livestock should the disease arrive in the country.

If FMD arrives in the United States, it will most likely be found first in domestic animals, Wright said. Because FMD is highly contagious among cloven-hoofed animals, ungulate populations found in the area of FMD outbreaks could become targets to control further spread of the disease. The disease does not affect horses, mules and burros.

USGS is working with Interior and USDA to develop a proactive contingency plans for addressing the possible introduction of FMD into the United States.

The USGS serves the nation by providing reliable scientific information to describe and understand the Earth; minimize loss of life and property from natural disasters; manage water, biological, energy, and mineral resources; and enhance and protect our quality of life.

Chester-Delaware Farmers Gather At Spring Banquet

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

ATGLEN (Chester Co.) — Speakers at last week's well-attended Chester-Delaware County Farm Bureau banquet highlighted the success of an annual farm-city tour, applauded record membership, and reported on several key issues the bureau is laboring on to help make farming a sustainable way of life in southeastern Pennsylvania.

Farm-City Tour

Sally Kolb, coordinator of the Chester County Farm-City Tour, pointed out the success of the tour last November and made a call for help in making the annual event even better.

With spring farm work under way, plans are already in motion for this year's tour, scheduled Nov. 3.

Kolb and her husband Leroy, along with two of his brothers, operate a 110-cow dairy and retail farm store, one of the featured stops on last year's tour.

Kolb said that a major goal of the tour is to narrow the gap between farmers and people unconnected to agriculture, whether from the big city, the suburbs, or next door.

"We have so many people around us with no relation to the farm," she said, pointing out that many people from the area whose grandparents were the last farmers in the family now have a generation between them and agriculture.

The Chester County tour originally started in 1963 and continued until the mid-1980s, when it came to a halt. Kolb said that a combination of factors caused the tour to dry up, including low milk prices, farmers moving out of the area, and increasing development pressure.

"The major reason was there were less and less farms," she said.

But it was that same loss, along with a desire to connect remaining agricultural producers with consumer neighbors, that helped spark the rebirth of the tour in 1999 — 14 years later.

"Most farmers, if they're honest, look at a new housing development with a lot of animosity," Kolb said. She sees the tour as a way of facilitating greater understanding between the two forces.

As coordinator, Kolb said she emphasizes the educational nature of the tour above viewing it as just an open-house or entertainment. The goal is to show visitors how food gets to its useable form, "whether it's grown, picked, or processed.

"We decided to highlight how ag had developed and adapted to development," she said of the Kolb family farm, milk processing facility, and store during last year's tour.

Other sites participating in the 2000 tour included a wholesale greenhouse operation, a Christmas tree farm, a produce market, a home for aged horses, and a community-supported organic farm where customers buy shares in the production of fruits and vegetables.

Kolb said that their site received more than 500 visitors, but that coordinators will be working to develop even greater publicity for the tour this coming November.

The tour has been publicized through farm customers, area newspapers, brochures for kids, and a publication for homeschool families, Kolb said. Difficulty in getting press releases into newspapers, however, has led this year to the development of a public relations committee that will focus specifically on getting word out about the tour.

The tour is funded in part by the Chester-Delaware County Farm Bureau as well as by various agribusinesses, lending institutions and real estate agents, Kolb said. The county also contributes the use of a printing office and printing supplies for the tour.

This year's tour will include farms that produce apples, beef, wine, mushrooms and horses, Kolb said.

The tour is free to all visitors. A lunch is provided at a cost.

"I feel we have a venue to show our neighbors what we do as well as why we do what we do," Kolb said. "It can be a valuable educational tool for us in this time of agricultural uncertainty.

"We could always use more volunteers," she said.

Record Membership

Regional Organization Director Ed Buss reported an "all-time high" 819 Chester-Delaware County Farm Bureau members signed up for 2001. The new figure exceeded the goal by 19.

Buss also commended the three Chester County commissioners — Andrew Dinniman, Colin Hanna, and Karen Martynick — for showing their support by attending the banquet.

Commissioner Dinniman was optimistic about the future of farming in Chester County.

"One of the reasons farming is going to continue in Chester County is because it's been passed on," he said.

Dinniman urged farmers to participate in a county "gleaning program," in which fruits and vegetables are gleaned from fields and orchards and used to help feed the needy in Chester County.

Commissioner Martynick said that while agriculture is still the number one industry in Chester County, farmland preservation efforts have room for improvement.

Martynick said she would like to see more municipalities involved in ag preservation in Chester County, noting municipalities elsewhere that have their own farmland preservation program.

Legislative Work

State representative Tim Hennessy reported on his continuing work toward reducing the inheritance tax that has burdened some farm families.

Hennessy said that although the state inheritance tax has already been lowered from 6 to 4-½ percent, he is continuing to participate in efforts to further reduce it.

CDCFB vice president and legislative coordinator Robert Davis said that he recently met with U.S. representatives Joseph Pitts and Curt Weldon to discuss elimination of the federal estate tax.

Pitts was "optimistic about getting something done" to repeal the tax, Davis said.

Water Regulations

George Moyer, District 3 representative to the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) state board, urged legislators and Farm Bureau members to join in the fight against over-regulation of farm ponds in the state.

Moyer said he had intended to build a pond at a location where a "stream (ran) into a wetland" on his Berks County farm. After going through government offices, surveyors, engineers and "thousands of dollars," Moyer said he has yet to be issued a permit to build the pond.

Moyer called for common sense in approaching water-rights issues.

"We are the most conservative environmentalists as farmers, because our lives depend on it," he said.

Chester-Delaware County Farm Bureau director and state legislative coordinator Harold Kulp also urged members to get involved in water issues, even "if you think you have plenty of water today."

New E-Commerce Site

Ed Buss, regional organization director, reported an upcoming online service called PFB MarketPlace. The Website will offer farm item listings to Pennsylvania Farm Bureau members in a classified ad format.

The site can be accessed through the main PFB Website at www.pfb.com.

Brown Swiss Thrive In Maryland

NEW MIDWAY, Md. — About 90 Brown Swiss breeders attended the recent annual meeting of the Maryland Brown Swiss Association, conducted here.

According to National Brown Swiss executive secretary John Meyer, the Brown Swiss breed is gaining in popularity because current milk pricing practices favor the breed.

Brown Swiss produce enough high-protein milk for fluid milk producers to covet, while the high protein and good component percentages make it ideal for cheesemaking.

Future Brown Swiss Events

- National Brown Swiss Convention — Burlington, Vermont, July 4-8.
- Maryland Brown Swiss Field Day, in conjunction with the Holstein event — Saturday, July 21 at the Frederick Fairgrounds. Activities begin at 9:30 a.m.

W.Va. Beef Expo And Sale

Recently West Virginia hosted a Beef Expo and Sale consisting of Hereford, Limousine, Simmental, and Angus cattle.

The new beef queen, Hillary Dean, Preston County, was crowned at the annual exhibitors barbecue.

Hi C Farm along with 16 guest consignors, will hold their second annual "Something Different for 2001" sale at Jackson's Mill, Weston, WV, Friday, May 4, at 7 p.m., selling 86 lots.

Anyone wishing to join the West Virginia Angus Association can contact Sylvia Casto at wvangus.com/hicfarm/, or call (304) 472-6828.

Bosworth Selected As USDA's New Forest Service Chief

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Agriculture Secretary Ann M. Veneman recently announced the selection of Dale N. Bosworth as the new chief of the Forest Service. Bosworth succeeds former chief Mike Dombeck, who retired from federal service March 31.

"Dale Bosworth is a veteran forester who has devoted his career to the Forest Service," said Veneman. "His background and experience will make him a great addition to our team. I am pleased to announce his selection as the 15th chief of USDA's Forest Service."

Bosworth currently serves as regional forester for the Forest Service's Northern Region, which include northern Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, and northwestern South Dakota. As Forest Service chief, Bosworth will oversee an organization of over 30,000 employees and a budget of $4.6 billion.

"I'm deeply honored to be asked to be chief of the Forest Service," Bosworth said. "It will be a pleasure to lead an organization whose employees are recognized for their dedication, professionalism, and leadership in natural resource management."

Prior to his current assignment, Bosworth was the regional forester in the Intermountain Region and deputy regional forester in the Pacific Southwest region of the Forest Service. He also has worked as a forest supervisor and district ranger.

Bosworth is a native of California and second-generation forester and Forest Service employee. He was graduated from the University of Idaho in 1966 with a bachelor of science degree in forestry.

Taylor Packing Company, Angus GeneNet Offer Premium Opportunity For Beef Producers

WYALUSING (Bradford Co.) — The beef industry is rapidly moving away from the commodity marketplace of the past to the consumer-driven, value-added marketplace of the future.

Now Taylor Packing Company, Inc. of Wyalusing and Angus GeneNet based in Hays, Kansas have teamed up to offer beef producers here in the eastern U.S. a premium opportunity to be paid for hitting the mark with rewards for high quality cattle and good management.

Taylor Packing Company recently acquired majority share interest in the Premium Gold Angus Beef (PGA) brand label. They are the exclusive packer for this brand in the east. PGA, founded by Angus seedstock producers Dwight Hartley and Gary West of Texas, is the second oldest premium Angus beef program in the nation.

Angus GeneNet will source cattle for Taylor's PGA label and develop the necessary relationships and information systems to achieve the ultimate goal of a completely source verified product by 2003.

"Taylor Packing has built its reputation on premium beef programs here and abroad. In keeping with our desire to strive for excellence in providing our customers with high quality value-added products, we are excited to have the Premium Gold Angus brand because we believe it is the premium Angus beef program in the country," said Trey Taylor, PGA chief operating officer and vice president. This move will also expand the current fed beef slaughter at the plant.

"There is tremendous potential here with the number of calves from the east going west for feeding and coming back to eastern packers," explained Ken Conway, president and founder of Angus GeneNet. "By developing relationship with the production segments in the east, our goal is to streamline the process so everyone makes money by working together."

"We want to be sourcing quality calves from Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan and the northeast to stay here for feeding and go directly into the PGA label at Taylor Pack," Conway said, noting that his company has been sourcing cattle for Con-Agra in the west for three years.

"Today, every midwest packer has a grid, and every year the grids are getting better. The drive is to get high quality cattle through a value-based marketing system."

Angus GeneNet has negotiated an exclusive carcass merit pricing formula for Taylor's PGA program. The grid includes substantial premiums for qualifying beef carcasses and several additional quality and yield grade premium bonuses.

"The response has been favorable and feedlot operators are most enthusiastic about the premiums being offered for upper two-thirds Choice and additional bonuses for Prime cattle. This is one of the very top formulas available in the industry today," said Conway. "Our goal is to get the producer and feeder as much as we can for their high quality calves, feeders and finished cattle."

"Working with Angus GeneNet, we hope to grow the program and develop the producer relationships to source verify all the way back to the bull," said Taylor, stressing that they want to accommodate cattle feeders and encourage them to use the premium grid as an incentive.

Now producers in the east can get their individual carcass data tied to their individual tags on any cattle going through the Angus GeneNet program. Plus GeneNet offers data analysis services to participating producers to assist with interpreting the data for making genetic and management decisions.

For the past year, Taylor Packing has been involved in a joint marketing agreement with PGA. The success of this venture led the company to its decision to purchase majority interest in the PGA brand and to expand its east coast distribution to include an export program, which began the first week of April.

There are essentially two categories within the PGA label: Platinum, which includes upper two-thirds Choice and Prime; and Blue Ribbon, which consists of low Choice and Select.

There is a lot of interest already from cattle feeders and cow/calf producers, according to eastern coordinator for Angus GeneNet Ron Vanderboon. In the short term, he is working with cattle feeders who are interested in marketing their cattle to Taylor Packing using the PGA grid, and he is developing connections with interested cow/calf producers dedicated to genetic improvement for calves that will produce PGA carcasses efficiently and economically.

"There is a real need to identify quality backgrounders to bridge the gap between the cow/calf producer and the feedlot operators who want started calves for the feedlot," said Vanderboon.

"In the short term, we're working with the feedlots selling high quality finished cattle and rewarding them with premiums. In the long term, it will become even more profitable for those feedlots when they are feeding the right cattle," he said."The goal is to be able to achieve those premium results with less days on feed. There are a lot of good cattle out there with the Angus genetics to get the job done. With gene mapping and other genetic breakthroughs coming along, source verification will allow us to plug the right cattle into the system to make it more profitable for everyone involved."

For more information about the Angus GeneNet program and its services and to get a copy of the PGA carcass merit pricing formula, contact Ron Vanderboon, eastern coordinator at (616) 361-2808 and Ken Conway, president, at (785) 628-3004. Or visit the Website at www.angus-gene.net.

Pa. Beef Expo Heifer, Steer Show Winners Announced

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — History-making numbers were recorded this year at the 2001 Pa. Beef Expo, conducted March 30 through April 1.

Pennsylvania Junior Cattlemens Association (PJCA) members from six states came together to exhibit a combined total of 300 steers and heifers.

Held at the Penn State Agricultural Arena in State College, the 12th Annual Pa. Beef Expo Junior Show was judged by John and J.D. Housner of Dover.

The Junior Heifer Show began Saturday, March 31, at 2:30 p.m. with a record attendance of over 120 animals. Seven breeds competed for overall grand champion heifer.

The PJCA Heifer and Steer Shows are held annually in conjunction with the Pa. Beef Expo.

The champion Maine-Anjou heifer, owned by Sara Jo Campbell, Sycamore, was named overall grand champion heifer. Reserve champion overall heifer was exhibited by Nate Tice, Lebanon, with his Shorthorn heifer.

The following is a list of each breed champion and reserve breed champion:

Angus champion Julie Campbell, Pennsylvania Furnace

Reserve champion Dentra Harding, Caldwell, Ohio

Hereford champion Margeaux Firestine, Womelsdorf

Limousin champion Jessica Brigich, Canonsburg

Reserve champion Tina Brown, Red Lion

Maine-Anjou champion Sara Jo Campbell, Sycamore

Reserve champion Robin McCabe, Rochester

Shorthorn champion Nate Tice, Lebanon

Simmental champion Tim Schaeffer, Myerstown.

Reserve champion Ben Coleman, Elmer, N J

The showmanship competition started off Sunday morning with Nick Davis achieving the title of senior champion showman followed by Jessica Schmidt, who won the reserve champion honors.

In the intermediate division, Shane Smithson won champion, and reserved champion went to Tyler Tessier. Benjamin Phipps was selected as junior champion showman; reserve intermediate champion went to Benjamin Warfield. Novice champion showman was presented to Morgan Meisenheimer, with novice reserve champion honors going to Luke Phipps.

The junior steer show boasted record numbers this year with 170 steers competing for grand champion steer honors. After many hours of intense competition the banner went to Ashley Vosloh, Mt. Airy, Md., with her heavyweight champion steer.

Dave Robbins, Olanta, exhibited reserve overall champion steer.

The following are division champion and reserve champion steers:

Champion lightweight steer Dave Robbins, Olanta

Reserved champion lightweight steer Nicholas Wingert, St Thomas

Champion middleweight steer Destiny Hayes, Ravenna, Ohio

Champion heavyweight steer Ashley Vosloh, Mt Airy, Md

Reserve champion heavyweight steer Dave Robbins, Olanta

Farmers In D.C. To Promote New Farm Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Farmers from 12 states went to Washington, D.C., recently for the second of three grassroots efforts to promote the National Farmers Union's (NFU) farm bill. Members of the organization met with members of Congress to discuss agriculture issues important to rural communities.

"This is an opportunity for farmers to bring their concerns on the next farm bill directly to members of congress," said Leland Swenson, president of NFU. "Farmers Union will be at the forefront of farm policy development in the coming days. Our members are here to promote a farm law that provides fair and competitive markets where farmers and ranchers can receive prices for commodities that reflect the costs, effort and value of what they've produced."

Farmers Union's new legislative initiative proposed a new farm program to Congress that will provide producers with the marketing tools necessary to increase farm income and decrease government payments while encouraging expansion of international and domestic demand. It provides other incentives and assistance that take into account the rising costs of production and depressed commodity prices faced by America's family farmers and ranchers.

Farmers Union's farm proposal would establish:

- A strong farm safety net through a marketing loan based on a counter-cyclical plan that equalizes commodity loan rates by adjusting them upward.
- A limited reserve for commodities that will ensure the long-term benefits associated with the production of renewable energy and humanitarian assistance, enhancing current and future market demand for commodities and supporting a renewable fuels standard.
- Enhancements to the price/income support system in ways that achieve a fair income for farmers and attacks the practice of dumping imported milk protein concentrate into the U.S.
- Compensation, incentives and technical assistance for producers practicing conservation and environmental improvement.
- Expanded international and domestic market opportunities.
- Country-of-origin labeling for meat and produce.

Student Ag Day At Maryland Highlights Agriculture

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Every year, on the last Saturday in April, students in the University of Maryland's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources alert the academic community and Washington, D.C.-area commuters to the reality that agriculture and natural resources are still a part of the scene on the urban-oriented campus.

This year's event on April 28 marks the 76th annual celebration of conveying positive traditions associated with the nation's second-oldest agricultural college, established in 1856 by the Maryland General Assembly with a $50,000 bond issue. For the third consecutuve year, Ag Day also is a part of the "Explore Our World" celebration being held across campus, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

Most Ag Day activities will be held in the barns area and the nearby courtyard of the Animal Sciences-Ag Engineering Building, near the campus intersection of Regents Drive and Farm Drive. Highlights include:

- A farm animal petting zoo
- An interactive "Growing With Grains" exhibit
- Farm animal showmanship competition and equestrian events. Championship ribbons presented at 3 p.m.
- A "celebrity" swine showmanship contest for faculty members is set for 1 p.m.
- A "Grime Watch" tent, where visitors can view bacteria on their hands under blacklight; and
- Tours of the university's state-of-the-art dairy products pilot plant includes free ice cream

College student organizations will have information tables, and most will be selling some type of food or T-shirts.

A Maryland Cooperative Extension display in the Animal Sciences-Ag Engineering Building will offer free publications and access to the World Wide Web for gardeners and homeowners. Master Gardeners from Extension's Home And Garden Information Center will be available in the Animal Sciences courtyard to answer lawn and garden questions.

Corn Growers Oppose Proposed Changes In Missouri River

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) has re-emphasized its opposition to proposed changes in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Missouri River Master Manual that would harm agriculture because of reduced navigation and the potential for spring rises.

The Corps is considering changes to its operation of dams on the lower portion of the river to raise the water level in the spring and lower it during the summer. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and environmental activists contend this will protect birds and fish that have been listed as endangered or threatened.

"NCGA recognizes the recreation and environmental value of the river and will work with others to maintain recreational and environmental benefits," stressed Paul Bertels, Director of Production and Marketing for the St. Louis-based NCGA that represents 30,000 dues-paying farmers nationwide.

"However, we want these decisions to be based on science, not politics. To date, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has failed to produce the scientific evidence that justifies changing the Missouri Master Manual."

The NCGA continues to support the management of the Missouri River that places priority on economic uses of the river such as flood control, navigation, irrigation and power generation. "Keeping the Missouri River navigable provides competition to rail rates and keeps and maintains farm land value," Bertels said. "A spring rise could actually threaten another endangered species: farmers communities they support."

Dairy Farmers Take Concerns To Washington

WASHINGTON, D.C. — On Monday, April 23, several members of the Progressive Agriculture Organization (Pro-Ag) were in Washington to attend a joint meeting with the agriculture aides from the majority of the Pennsylvania and New York Congressional delegation.

Vermont's two senator's offices were represented as was Congressman Bernie Sander's office. Aides from Congressional offices outside of the Northeast were also present.

The meeting was put together by Sen. Arlen Specter, Rep. Don Sherwood, and Pro-Ag. The meeting centered around discussions of proposed new dairy bills that would be based on the average cost of producing milk at the farm level.

One proposed dairy bill discussed was the proposed dairy bill introduced last year by former Rep. Ron Klink from Pennsylvania. This proposed bill would price milk at the average cost of production. In addition, the bill rewards dairy farmers for keeping their production in line with the real market needs.

Another key proposed bill was drafted by Gerald Carlin, a Pro-Ag member from Meshoppen. Carlin's proposed bill is similar to the bill proposed by Klink except the language in Carlin's proposed bill would not allow imports of dairy products to damage prices received by dairy farmers.

Arden Tewksbury, manager of Pro-Ag, said "There are various proposed dairy bills circulating around Washington, but only the bills proposed by Klink and Carlin proposes a new pricing formula that would give the dairy farmers an adequate price." Pro-Ag was involved in helping draft both bills.

Tewksbury said the two bills will not only give our dairy farmers a fair price for their milk, the bills are also geared towards stabilizing prices to dairy farmers and consumers Tewksbury said the majority of consumers are mystified over the present pricing method of milk and are encouraging immediate action to be taken by Congress.

Recently, Pro-Ag cooperated with the Scranton Catholic Diocese and several Protestant churches to deliver 25,000 consumer signatures to Sen. Arlen Specter, Sen. Rick Santorum, and Rep. Don Sherwood. These consumers are strongly encouraging immediate action to be taken by Congress.

Bishop James Timlin of the Scranton Diocese has taken a personal interest in the dairy farmers' plight. Bill Reed, a Methodist minister from Tunkhannock, has been very interested in the dairy farmers pricing inequities. Reed was a two-term county commissioner from Wyoming County and he is a former superintendent of the Wilkes-Barre district. Reed was recently quoted by the Scranton Tribune saying "the milk pricing problem is a justice issue." Reed said the government is systematically robbing the dairy farmers by setting prices less than their costs.

In addition to the 25,000 signatures sent to members of Congress, Tewksbury has talked with more than 120,000 consumers in the last two years. All of these consumers strongly support the dairy farmers.

Ken Dibbell, a dairy farmer member of Pro-Ag from New York, said "the beauty of the bills proposed by Klink and Carlin is the fact that the bills don't use taxpayers' money to compensate dairy farmers." Pro-Ag strongly opposes proposed dairy bills that call for any compensation using taxpayers' money. Tewksbury said there is plenty of room in the market place for dairy farmers to be adequately compensated — we simply need a new pricing formula to obtain that fair price.

Joining Tewksbury and Dibbell in Washington was Gerald Carlin, Dave Lipe, Kurk Rhone, and Cy Cochran from Pennsylvania and Fred Matthews from New York.

Pro-Ag may be reached at (570) 833-5776.

2001 National Junior Angus Show Set For July 9-14 In Denver

DENVER, Colo. — Junior Angus members from all corners of the United States should be making plans for the 2001 National Junior Angus Show.

The annual event, which has become the biggest week of Angus activities during the year, will take place July 9-14 in Denver, Colo. The western state Angus associations have been planning and organizing the event, "Under the Western Sky" for more than two years.

Young Angus enthusiasts from more than 30 states are expected to enter cattle in the show that has grown into the largest single-breed beef cattle show in the world. In addition to the show, educational contests and leadership opportunities will be held for all members of the National Junior Angus Association (NJAA).

Judges for the cattle show include Jack Ward, Lagrange, Ind., who will evaluate the owned females; Eldon Krebs, Gordon, Neb., who will judge the bred-and-owned females and bulls and cow-calf pairs; and Randy Perry, Clovis, Calif., who will select champions in the steer show.

A public speaking contest, including both extemporaneous and prepared divisions and team sales competition, along with poster, photography and graphic design contests will be held. The American Angus Auxiliary will once again sponsor the Certified Angus Beef(cook-off. As well, six members will be elected directors of the NJAA board, at the annual meeting of the NJAA, which is held during the event.

More than 50 contestants will vie for the coveted title of "Top Showman" during the finals of the 35th National Junior Angus Showmanship Contest held during the week. Showmanship judges include Tim Fitzgerald, Alderson, W.Va.; Andra Campbell, Klamath Falls, Ore.; and Brian Barragree, Absarokee, Mont.

In addition to the week of activities, the Angus Foundation is conducting its first ever golf tournament, July 10. The morning-long event will begin at 6:30 a.m., at the Thorncreek Golf Club.

Exhibitors and contestants must be a junior member of the American Angus Association, and must be nine years old, but not yet 21, by Jan. 1 to compete in the activities. Applications for transfer of the animal to junior members must be postmarked by May 15. Applications for registration of bred-and-owned animals and all entries must be postmarked by June 1.

For entries or more information about the 2001 National Junior Angus Show, contact the junior activities department at the American Angus Association, 3201 Frederick Ave., St. Joseph, MO 64506-2997, access the Internet at http://www.angus.org/njaa or www.angus.org/njaa or call (816) 383-5100.

Hill-Dukehart Earns Junior Silver Award

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Cortney Hill-Dukehart, Sykesville, Md., has qualified for the Silver Award of the National Junior Angus Association.

Cortney is the 17-year-old daughter of Robert Hill and Marlene Dukehart, and is a senior at Glenelg High School. She has shown her cattle at the state, regional and national levels.

She has participated in the public speaking, team sales, graphic design and poster contests at the National Junior Angus Show, and she has attended LEAD (Leaders Engaged in Angus Development) Conferences.

She has served as vice president, and is the current president of the Maryland Junior Angus Association and has been a member of the National Junior Angus Association since 1996.

The Silver Award is the second level of the National Junior Angus Association Recognition Program that began in 1972. Junior Angus breeders must apply for the awards and then meet point requirements in many areas of participation before receiving the honors.

Applicants are evaluated in the areas of junior Angus association activities, participation in showmanship and leadership competitions, using performance testing to improve their herd and their progress in producing and merchandising Angus cattle.

Northwest Tree Association To Meet

BROOKVILLE (Jefferson Co.) — The Northwest Pennsylvania Community Tree Association will meet on Thursday, May 3 at 6 p.m. at the Jefferson County Courthouse municipal parking area just north of Main Street, Brookville.

The association will have a community tree walk, discussing projects, successes and the benefits of trees to commercial districts. A short business meeting and refreshments will be served in the Legion Hall afterward.

All are welcome free of charge, and we invite your membership. For reservations, call Scott Sjolander at (814) 333-7460 or (800) 982-9019 ext. 460 in Pennsylvania.

The Northwest Pennsylvania Community Tree Association is a not-for-profit organization formed to assist communities and volunteers in using trees to improve our environment.

Penn State Supports New Dairy Program

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Many of Pennsylvania's dairy farmers soon will be able to soften the impact of volatile milk prices, thanks to a national pilot dairy support program being tested in 25 counties.

The Dairy Options Pilot Program (DOPP) trains eligible dairy farmers to use the futures and options markets to stabilize their milk prices and avoid sharp fluctuations. Producers will receive first-hand experience in buying milk "put" options contracts to guarantee a minimum price for their milk.

Funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), the program will be delivered by Penn State Cooperative Extension agents in 25 Pennsylvania counties, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and USDA's Risk Management Agency. Participating producers attend a four-hour training session that explains put options, futures and options markets and how they can be used to "lock in" favorable prices. The program then pays up to 80 percent of the cost of buying the options up to a maximum of 600,000 pounds of milk.

Penn State associate professor of dairy marketing and policy Ken Bailey, DOPP coordinator for Pennsylvania, said it's important that farmers in the eligible counties move quickly to enroll in the program.

"Milk prices have been extremely volatile in recent years, falling in months from record highs to record lows," he said. "Prices are very good right now, but unless dairy farmers 'lock in' these prices through their cooperative or the futures market, they're subject to marketplace whims. So it's critical that Pennsylvania dairy producers take the training and use the program."

The program springs from federal legislators' concerns over the effect of fluctuating dairy prices on farmers as the industry becomes more market-driven. Bailey explains that the program combines educational elements with financial support as producers venture into the futures market.

"The training session starts with a basic overview of the futures market, along with important tips for selecting a broker, such as gauging the broker's understanding of dairy markets, determining his or her overall quality of service and negotiating commissions," Bailey said. "Then we go into the details of the pilot program, presenting the rules and conditions.

"Farmers will have a couple of months to decide if they want to enroll in the program. They can select a broker and buy a put contract that will protect their prices. They decide which months and how much milk will be protected, and the USDA will cover up to 80 percent of all fees for the contract. There are no margin requirements."

Participating counties were selected on the basis of past participation, cow population, and milk production.

Counties included in the pilot program include Bedford, Berks, Blair, Bradford, Butler, Centre, Chester, Crawford, Cumberland, Erie, Fayette, Franklin, Huntingdon, Juniata Perry, Lancaster, Lawrence, Lebanon, Mercer, Somerset, Susquehanna, Tioga, Union, Westmoreland, and York.

USDA Seeks Nominees For Dairy Board

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA is asking dairy producer and farm organizations to nominate candidates to serve on the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board. Nominations must be submitted by May 31.

The secretary of agriculture will appoint 12 individuals from those nominated to succeed members whose terms expire Oct. 31, 2001, and one individual from those nominated for the vacancy that expires Oct. 31, 2002. The 12 new members will serve 3-year terms beginning Nov. 1, 2001, and ending Oct. 31, 2004. The member appointed to fill the vacancy will serve a 1-year term beginning Nov. 1, 2001, and ending Oct. 31, 2002.

AMS encourages all eligible women, minorities, and persons with disabilities to serve and participate in its committee and board activities. It is USDA's policy that membership on industry-governed committees and boards, such as the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board, accurately reflect the diversity of individuals served by the programs.

Appointments will be made from nominations for the following: Region 1 (Oregon and Washington); Region 2 (California); Region 3 (Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah, and Wyoming); Region 4 (Arkansas, Kansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas); Region 6 (Wisconsin); Region 9 (Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and West Virginia); Region 10 (Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia); Region 11 (Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania); and Region 12 (New York).

The national program is financed by a mandatory 15-cent per hundredweight assessment on all milk marketed commercially by dairy producers in the contiguous 48 states.

OSU Institutes Foot-And-Mouth Prevention Policy

WOOSTER, Ohio - All Ohio State University farm animal facilities have been closed to public tours effective immediately as a precautionary measure against bringing foot-and-mouth disease into Ohio.

The restriction is part of a prevention policy being imposed by animal production and health officials from the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences, Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, Agricultural Technical Institute and outlying branches, to help ensure that Ohio's livestock stays free of foot-and-mouth disease.

Animals housed at the facilities may be more susceptible to foot-and-mouth disease than an average producer's herd, since the facilities attract foreign and domestic visitors daily and are maintained by faculty and students who travel often to Europe.

"In an age when people can literally move around the world in the span of a day, and the fact that we have many visitors to our facilities, it is critical that we have policies in place which protect Ohio State's livestock herds and flocks," stressed Steve Slack, associate vice president of the college and OARDC director. "Further, our actions must reflect the high regard and concern that we have for Ohio's livestock producers. Our guidelines are also meant to provide guidance and assurance to Ohio's producers."

Foot-and-mouth disease is a highly contagious viral disease that affects cloven-hoofed animals, such as cattle, pigs, sheep, goats, and deer. It is characterized by fever and blister-like lesions in and around the mouth, on the teats, and around and between the hooves. The disease leaves animals debilitated and causes losses in milk and meat production. Once infected, an animal never rids itself of the virus. The disease does not affect humans and it has no connection to mad cow disease.

The public closure of sheep, cattle, pig and poultry facilities on main campus in Columbus, OARDC and ATI, both in Wooster, and outlying branches throughout the state, is the "first line of defense to keeping foot-and-mouth disease out of our herds and hopefully reducing the risk to Ohio," said Larry Smith, an OARDC animal science researcher. "We need to be the pacesetter for the state. If we close our facilities, other producers will follow suit and close theirs, as well."

Other restrictions outlined in the policy include:

- "No visitors" signs will be posted at the entrances to all the college animal facilities.
- Only one vehicular entrance to each animal facility will be maintained. All other entrances will be barricaded.
- Field Days visitors will be advised not to attend if they have been traveling in countries that have the disease within 10 days from the Field Day. Notices on the above policy will be printed on Field Days programs.
- Future Field Days will not include visits to animal facilities.

The policy will be re-evaluated in September, when travel between the United States and Europe slows. An early re-evaluation will depend on how the situation in Europe develops.

"The decision to close the facilities to tours is not meant to instill panic in the public that there is a problem," said Joy Pate, OARDC animal sciences associate chair. "Foot-and-mouth disease has not reached the states. It's just a precautionary measure."

The last reported case of foot-and-mouth disease in the U.S. was 1929 and the government, state agencies and land-grant universities are making sure it never reappears.

"The chance of foot-and-mouth disease ever reaching the U.S. is very low," said Mo Saif, head of OARDC's Food Animal Health Research Program. "But the consequences would be horrendous if it ever reached the states." Added Steve Loerch, an OARDC animal science researcher, "If it (foot-and-mouth) ever got into the livestock population, it would be very hard to control."

"If a case of foot-and-mouth ever reached the OARDC's Krauss Dairy in Wayne County, there would be a 10-mile radius quarantine around the affected area, which would be that nothing — animals, products, milk — could move in or out," said Smith. "And many employees at the Krauss Dairy have animals at home beyond that 10-mile quarantine and the disease could rapidly spread outside the quarantine before we even knew about it."

Saif said the main threat to the spread of foot-and-mouth is via clothing and shoes, where the disease has reportedly been able to remain viable for up to two months. The United States Department of Agriculture reports that the disease maintains a high survival rate in soil, animal feed, water, and on vegetables. It also can remain in the human nasal cavity for up to two days.

L.R. "Skip" Nault, OARDC associate director, said the measures the university is taking to prevent foot-and-mouth disease from hitting Ohio should be seen as an educational opportunity for the students and the public. "I think the people will appreciate and respect what we are trying to accomplish," he said. "It think this will help educate the public on the types of problems that producers face." Alternative programs to animal facility tours are currently being developed.

Foot-and-mouth disease has been wreaking economic havoc in the UK, Ireland, the Netherlands and France. Nearly 1,400 cases have been confirmed with the tally still rising. Over a million sheep and cattle have been destroyed and at least three million more have been marked for slaughter. The disease has already cost British businesses over $30 billion and it is estimated that farmers are losing $360 million a month.

The Ohio Department of Agriculture estimates Ohio is home to 265,000 dairy cows, 1.2 million beef cattle, 1.5 million hogs and 142,000 sheep, with a combined value of $1.13 billion.

For more information on foot-and-mouth disease, log on to www.ohioline.ag.ohiostate.edu/news/, or ODA's Website at www.state.oh.us/agr.

Farm And Natural Lands Trust To Conduct Annual Meeting

YORK (York Co.) — The Farm and Natural Lands Trust of York County will conduct its 11th annual meeting May 4 at 7:30 a.m. here at Aldersgate United Methodist Church.

Dr. John Schwartz, York County extension director, will be the guest speaker. His current extension agricultural educational programs are in the areas of agricultural economic development, poultry management and production, and agricultural policy and land use.

Schwartz received his bachelor's degree in 1970 and master's degree in 1975 from Penn State in agricultural education. He received his doctorate in animal science from Colorado State in 1985.

Prior to assuming his current position in March 2001, he was Lancaster County extension agent for 10 years.

The five properties that were preserved through a conservation easement with the Farm and Natural Lands Trust in 2000 will also be announced. A video tour of these properties will be part of the breakfast meeting agenda.

Reservations for the breakfast can be made by calling (717) 843-4411 or mailing a check for $8 to the Farm and Natural Lands Trust at 156 N. George St., Suite 300, York, PA 17401.

Assembly Passes Bill To Assist Equine Industry

ALBANY, N.Y. — The Assembly passed a bill sponsored by Agriculture Committee Chairman Bill Magee (D-Nelson) that would include commercial horse boarding operations within the purview of the Agricultural Districts law.

"A strong and growing segment of agriculture is related to horses and horse boarding and, as a state, we need to be doing everything we absolutely can to make sure that it not only survived, but thrives," Magee said.

The Agricultural Districts Law prohibits local governments from enacting and administering land use laws that unreasonably restrict or regulate farming operations. By including horse boarding operations within the agricultural districts, the Assembly is recognizing the vast importance of the equine industry to the state's economy by providing it with the same protections and benefits as any other agricultural operation.

"The economics of the equine industry in this state is enormous and the commitment we are making to it with the passage of this bill as well as previous bills cannot be understated — we want to provide the fertile soil on which the horse industry can continue to grow," Magee said.

The New York horse industry produces goods and services valued at $1.7 billion annually, employing more than 12,000 people and having a total draw that includes employees, spectators, owners and service providers of more than 250,000 people. Moreover, the state is home to nine racetracks and 150,000 horses.

"We are really beginning to address the total needs of agriculture — here we are working to further improve the horse industry. But, we have also reduced a lot of taxes and regulations for farmers and now we are making a concerted effort to truly look at the bigger picture in terms of how we move forward in keeping agriculture viable in this state," Magee said.

Additionally, Magee noted, he is working to create the state's first AgriDevelopment Zones. These zones are aimed at providing farmers that would be located within one with business incentives that could include low-cost electric, wage, and benefit subsidies for farm employees, equipment and technology grants, marketing assistance and low interest loans as well as a variety of tax incentives.

DOE Schedules Ethanol Workshops In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) announced two workshops on ethanol fuel will be held in Pennsylvania during the last week in August. Jeff Graef, Program Administrator for the Western Regional Biomass Energy Program stated the workshops will focus on the agricultural sector and will explore how Pennsylvania farmers and agricultural businesses can profit from establishing ethanol plants in the state.

Target audience for the workshops includes farmers, ranchers, ag organizations, agencies that serve agriculture and businesses that support rural communities. Others who are urged to participate include Rural Economic Development groups, bankers, local government officials, farmer owned cooperatives, county RC&D groups, and state and local environmental agencies.

The workshops are scheduled for Tues., Aug. 28 in Cranberry, north of Pittsburgh, and Thurs., Aug. 30, at Grantville, east of Harrisburg. The agenda is being developed and will be distributed through the media and the farm organization newsletters. Watch the Website at www.ethanolmt.org for information.

Many crops can be used to produce ethanol. The workshop will feature speakers on producing ethanol from grain and other commodities such as cellulose from crop residues and forestry waste. Speakers will explain how valuable co-products can increase the viability of an ethanol plant. Others will cover the marketing of ethanol and the distillers grains co-products.

Ethanol Producers And Consumers (EPAC) a national non profit organization involved in education and promotion about ethanol, is in charge of the logistics for the meeting. EPAC, with members in 26 states and three countries, has conducted numerous workshops and conferences since they were organized ten years ago.

A workshop planning meeting was held in Harrisburg in March, with Pennsylvania farm organizations and other groups. The attendees included Dave Stettler and Larry Breech with PA Farmers Union, Charles Dull, with PA Farm Bureau, Bill Steel, with PA Grange, and Carol Ann Gregg with the American AgriWomen.

Others who attended the steering meeting and will help with planning are Gerald Ely, USDA Rural Development, Dick Poorbaugh, Penn State Cooperative Business Education and Research Program, MaryAnne Daniel, Pennsylvania office of the US Department of Energy, Bob Moreau, of USDA Ag Research Service, and David Bingaman, PA Dept. of Agriculture.

The DOE Regional Biomass Program was represented by Ann Hegnauer, Washington, DC, Rick Handley, New York, and Jeff Graef, Nebraska. EPAC was represented by Shirley Ball, Nashua, MT, Executive Director of the organization.

For further information about the workshop or to register call EPAC at (406) 785-3722, the PDA at (717) 772-5208 or email to shirley@ethanolmt.org.

Farmers Union Calls For Trade Policy That Keeps Family Farmers Competitive

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In testimony before the U.S. Senate Agriculture Committee, National Farmers Union (NFU) President Leland Swenson told panel members that Congress must pursue agriculture trade policy that improves family farm income and demand for U.S. commodities.

Swenson also called on Congress to address the impacts of exchange rates on trade, bolster trade pact compliance, reform trade dispute resolution processes, and ensure compatible labor and environmental standards for other competing nations.

"Farmers Union recognizes the importance of trade to America's farmers, ranchers and rural communities," Swenson said. "However, as we pursue agriculture policy, we must examine the impact initiatives have on farm income and future economic opportunity."

Farmers Unions primary trade policy objectives include 1) strengthening our capacity to monitor compliance, particularly in the case of new agreements or the expansion of agreements to additional countries; 2) reforming the dispute resolution process in both the WTO and regional agreements; and 3) ensuring that comparable health, safety, labor and environmental standards that apply to U.S. producers are implemented and enforced by our trading partners.

Other components of agricultural trade policy should include resolving the trade-distorting effects of exchange rate fluctuation, long term domestic and global food security, marketing to countries opposing genetically modified crops, strengthening enforcement of antidumping and tariff regulations, especially with regard to milk protein concentrate, and maintaining the U.S. commitment to international food aid, specifically the international school lunch program.

Pasture, Grazing, Livestock Direct Marketing Meetings Set

MIFFLINBURG (Union Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension in the Central Susquehanna Valley Area has scheduled the first in a series of on-farm meeting focusing on pasture and grazing management and direct marketing of farm commodities. The meetings are open to all interested individuals.

The first meeting will be Tuesday, May 8, at 7 p.m. at the farm of Bill Callahan of Mifflinburg in Union County. Callahan raises cattle, broilers, and laying hens. He direct-markets most of the farm's production. He has been involved at the local level with efforts to further the direct marketing of farm products in the region.

Directions to the farm: take Centennial Road off of Rt. 192 west of Forest Hill. Follow this road for 0.8 mile and take the lane to the left. There will be a meeting sign at the end of the lane.

For more information, call Dave Hartman, extension agent at (800) 254-6470.

Highlights From Mid-West Animal Science Meetings

Pigs consume less water from a wet-dry feeder compared to those on conventional feeders or wet-dry feeders used as a dry feeder. The wet-dry feeder has a nipple waterer mounted in the trough.

In the first experiment, pigs gained nearly seven percent faster on the wet-dry feeder and consumed 23 percent less water. No differences in digestibility, or the incidence of ulcers were found among the different feeding systems.

In the second experiment, no differences were observed in growth rate, but pigs on the wet-dry feeders gained more efficiently and consumed 58 percent less water.

Growth performance is similar in pigs grouped 10, 20, 40, or 80 animals per pen. Growth rate and feed intake dropped only slightly as group size increased, but the values were not statistically different.

Furthermore, there were no differences in injuries or disease among the various group sizes. The research indicates that pigs may perform normally in large group sizes, as long as floor space and feeder access are increased proportionately.

The phosphorus contained in both corn and soybeans is relatively unavailable, because it is in the form of phytate.

New low phytate of corn and soybean varieties, which will be commercially available in three to five years, have similar amounts of total phosphorus, but the availability of phosphorus is much higher.

In fact, pigs fed diets formulated with low-phytate corn, low phytate soybean meal, and no supplemental phosphorus have normal growth performance and bone strength. In addition, phosphorus excretion is reduced by more than 50 percent.

This technology shows promise for the emerging concern regarding elevated phosphate concentrations found in soils subjected to repeated manure application.

Penn State To Examine Problem Of Birds Around Farm Buildings

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension is attempting to assess the seriousness of birds around farm buildings.

Birds such as pigeons, starlings, and sparrows can cause unsanitary working conditions, transmit diseases, and consume and contaminate animal feed and water. Droppings can corrode farm equipment and nests plug drains and gutters. Control is difficult and lethal methods are limited and can harm non-target species.

As extension agents and specialists visit farms, they observe birds and bird droppings at many farm locations. Being on-site for a short period of time does not allow an accurate determination of the impact of birds on that farm operation.

To help determine if birds around farm buildings are a problem, Penn State Extension is surveying farmers in Pennsylvania. The survey will allow analysis of the bird problem.

Unfortunately, there are few answers. There is no one solution that will stop a bird problem on a particular farm. The results will be used to help determine:

- Are birds around farm buildings a serious problem?
- Types of birds that present problems.
- The problems they cause.
- Control methods that are presently being used.

The survey is not intended to help a farmer with their particular problem, but to secure the big picture of what seems to be a problem. The results will be shared with appropriate federal and state wildlife and agriculture agencies. It will allow industry people to assess the need of finding solutions to birds.

According to Margaret Brittingham, associate professor of wildlife resources at Penn State and wildlife extension specialist, "the best method of control would be exclusion, to keep them out, but in most places this is not an option, since the animals need to be moved from one place to another," she said.

Hanging heavy plastic strips across openings allow farmers to drive through the opening but keep birds out, one control technique. Other methods include making roosting sites, such as beams, less suitable. Unfortunately, netting over the beams may prove to be cost prohibitive. For specific areas, such as flat beams over water, porcupine wires can be used. These wires deter some types of birds from perching.

"Tanglefoot" is a sticky, Silly Putty-type substance which birds do not like to stand on. Barn dust, however, eventually makes the Tanglefoot less sticky.

The USDA has a chemical similar to Starlicide which only USDA personnel can administer. They can be hired to do the job, said Brittingham, an option which would be economically viable if farmers grouped together to employ the service. Ornitrol, a chemical used for pigeons, kills some birds while sending others into convulsions and frightening the other birds.

Scare tactics, said Brittingham, such as lights, exploders, fake owls, or distress calls may work for the short, but not the long-term. Attracting or using hawks to scare the birds may also help alleviate the bird population.

"You've got to stay on top of it, switch methods frequently, and have some lethal method that goes along with it — otherwise they'll figure out it's not a threat," she said.

Excluding house sparrows, starlings, and pigeons, all birds in Pennsylvania are protected by federal law. Killing non-target species of birds will make the farmer liable for fines.

As far as disease spread, "there is not a lot of known occurrence of disease because of birds, but concern about it," said Brittingham. "It is not something that happens on a regular basis."

After studying songbirds, Brittingham found that birds can, however, carry Salmonella, but die soon after becoming sick.

Brittingham is also involved with the survey project. "We want to find out what people are tying that's worked, and even what hasn't worked," she said. Brittingham believes that a mix of techniques will be the best solution.

Penn State seeks your help. Please fill out and return the enclosed form to Clyde Myers, Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533-0520 by May 19.

Birds Around Farm Buildings

Please take a few minutes to fill out this questionnaire. Your responses will help us evaluate the issue of birds around farm facilities and help us develop management strategies.

1) Farm location _____
   County _____
   Township _____

2) Primary type of farm operation (circle your response)
   Beef Dairy Hog Poultry

3) Approximate number of livestock _____

4) How would you rate bird problems in terms of overall farm management (circle your response)
   None Very little Moderate Severe Very Severe

5) How important to you is bird control on your premises? (circle your response)
   Not at all Minor Concern Some Concern Important Concern Major Concern

6) Circle and/or describe the location, facilities, or buildings where you have bird problems:

   Pasture
   Outside feeding areas (paved or unpaved)
   Feed Storage bunker or trench silos silage bags tower silos grain tanks
   open grain/commodity storage building open hay barn
   other _____
   Housing for animals
   open-sided shelter
   curtain sidewall barn enclosed barn
   other _____

   Other buildings or areas _____

7) For the following list of birds, circle the ones associated with your facilities and the time of year when they cause problems. If you don't know the kind of birds that are present, add your response under unidentified.

Species	Time of year	Species	Time of year
Pigeon	_____	House finch	_____
Starling	_____	Unidentified	_____
House sparrow	_____	Other _____	_____

8) What type of problems do birds cause in your facilities? (circle all that apply)
   Droppings/mess
   Spread of disease
   Consume feed
   Contaminate feed and water
   Damage to insulation or structure
   Nuisance/annoyance
   Other: please list _____

9) Rank the following in terms of your desire to control birds (1 = most important, 4 = least important)
   _____ Annoyance/nuisance
   _____ Concern over animal health
   _____ Concern over human health
   _____ Economic loss
   _____ Neighbor relations

9) Circle the method(s), if any, you have used during the past 5 years to control bird problems around your facilities. For each method used, please rate its effectiveness (1 = very effective, 2 = effective, 3 = moderately effective, 4 = somewhat effective, 5 = not effective).

USDA Names Deputy Administrator Of Science, Technology Program

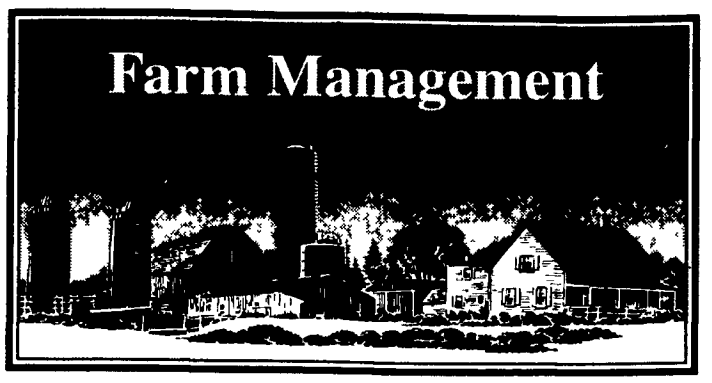
WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) announced the selection of Robert L. Epstein as the new deputy administrator of the AMS Science and Technology Program.

With 22 years of service with USDA, Epstein has held various leadership positions involving food safety, laboratory services, international trade, toxicology, residue chemistry, and quality assurance.

Epstein served as an associate deputy administrator for the Science and Technology Program for nine years, and has been acting deputy administrator since June 2000.

Epstein developed USDA's Pesticide Data Program-a program specifically designed to collect statistically-reliable residue data for dietary risk assessments, which is now an international model for residue testing programs. He also serves as the alternate U.S. delegate to the Codex Committee on Pesticide Residues. (Codex is an international standard-setting organization that facilitates trade.) As Science and Technology deputy administrator, Epstein will oversee laboratory services for AMS' commodity programs, the Department's Pesticide Data Program, the newly established Microbiological Data Program, the Pesticide Recordkeeping Program, the Plant Variety Protection Office, and AMS' information technology and statistical services.

Epstein received his master's and doctorate degrees in analytical chemistry from the Polytechnic University and a bachelor's degree in chemistry from the City College of New York. Epstein replaces William Franks, Jr., who retired June 3, 2000.



PRICING POWER

John Berry
Lehigh County
Ag Marketing
Educator

Agricultural marketing activities account for over 17 percent of the nation's gross national product. Seventy cents of every consumer food dollar goes to cover marketing expenses.

Being involved in marketing helps producers decide what to produce and when. Clearly, performing some marketing chores is a possible source of increased revenue.

According to academics, there are nine functions of marketing — buying, selling, storage, transportation, processing, grades and standards, financing, risk taking, and market information. One aspect of marketing that generates many questions is the function of selling. "What should I be pricing my melons at?" is heard on many visits to local farm markets. Of the nine functions of marketing, only selling generates cash. Price must be a part of your overall marketing plan.

Cost of production is the basics of calculating price. However, pricing must be flexible enough to meet the competition and adjustable to changing situations. As an integral part of the marketing plan, price must be set to meet the sales and financial goals of the enterprise. Having a clear idea of your marketing objectives and the target market for your products makes selection of a "proper price" easier.

Cost Plus Method

Price mark-ups are an area of great confusion. Mark-up should be given as a percent of the selling price. Net profit is greatly effected by calculating your mark-up incorrectly. Cost plus mark-up equals selling price.

Here's an example. Let's say my marketing plan calls for a gross profit goal of 20 percent. Let's say a watermelon costs me $1. The proper selling price is $1.25, not $1.20. The cost of $1 plus mark-up of $0.25 equals selling price of $1.25.

This represents a 20 percent gross margin on the selling price. A common incorrect method of calculating margin would be to take the cost at $1, add 20 percent, and get a selling price of $1.20. The trouble with this incorrect method is when the accounting is done, I have received a 16 percent gross margin, not the 20 percent called for in my planning.

This cost plus method does not take into consideration the competition. Remember, pricing at the level of the competition reflects the costs and perceptions at other farm markets, not yours. Your price is a result of your costs and the perception of your products by your customers.

The Point Is Profit

We are trying to maximize total profits, not the profit per unit. Are you willing to take a lower price if you could sell more units?

The following table gives you a picture of this game. The first row states that if your margin is 10 percent and you reduce your price five percent, it will take an increased sales volume of 100 percent to meet your planned revenue goals.

Current % Profit Margin	% Price Reduction	Required % Increase in Sales Volume
15	5	50
15	10	200
20	5	33
20	10	100

An effective pricing strategy depends on four factors. You must know your cost for each product. Possible sales response to price change is vital. What are the costs and prices of the competition? What are the probable responses from the competition to what you do?

Summary

Proper pricing is essential to long-run business success. Pricing is as much a marketing concern as an accounting one. Good pricing is a measure of management effectiveness. Good pricing allows a retail farm market to more easily reach their marketing and financial goals.

NPPC Announces Restructuring Task Force

DES MOINES, Iowa — As directed by the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) producer delegates to the 2001 National Pork Industry Forum, a task force has been named that will lead the restructuring and development of the industry organization.

"The task force will have significant impact on the future viability, organizational structure and profitability of the pork industry in the United States," said Barb Determan, NPPC president. "NPPC has a long tradition of providing pork producers with the tools they need, but with the separation of NPPC and the National Pork Board underway, the task force will remake our industry organization to create the future to meet the specific needs of the pork industry in the 21st Century."

The resolution leading to the creation of this task force was explicit in the breadth and depth of industry representation on the task force. Invited to participate on the task force are 39 members from 20 states that include pork producers representing a variety of production sizes and styles, allied industry and state pork associations.

"The NPPC board of directors actually increased the size of the task force from the original resolution to better represent all aspects of the pork industry. The monumental challenge faced by the task force will have direct impact on the pork industry today and into the future," said Determan, an Early, Iowa, pork producer.

"The NPPC board of directors recognizes the critical need that all pork producers have confidence in the NPPC transition process. We are determined to make sure that as information becomes available, pork producers will have access to it," said Determan.

NCGA Unveils 'Counter-Cyclical' Proposal

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Battle Creek, Neb. farmer Lee Klein — president of the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) — unveiled the group's bold and innovative counter-cyclical income support proposal during testimony before the House Committee on Agriculture.

NCGA's farm bill proposal includes many aspects necessary for the health of rural America. At its centerpiece is a counter-cyclical program that will provide growers support they need when they need it. This program incorporates the benefits of the marketing assistance loan program and the market loss assistance payments into one WTO-compliant counter-cyclical program.

Citing the continued productivity of this nation's corn growers, Klein told the House Agriculture Committee that the equation of higher yields and higher stocks-to-use ratios equaling today's low prices calls for a continued evolution in farm policy.

"To NCGA this shows that our next generation of farm policy needs a counter-cyclical component that is heavily oriented at answering the profitability needs of basic commodity farm income." Klein said, "We need a complete package that provides farmers opportunities in the market place with minimal interference in production decisions and that includes a safety net against those economic forces that are beyond producers' control. We believe our proposal can do that."

Klein concluded his remarks by stating that it is in the best interests of the American public in general and rural communities in particular to "protect the viability of agricultural producers in a manner that is market oriented, WTO-compliant, environmentally responsible and responsive to the vast geographical and economical differences faced by our rural farm families and corn grower members."

Klein's testimony in its entirety is posted on the NCGA Website, www.ncga.com.

Little I, Dairy Expo Form One Event At Ag Arena

Mifflin Co. Correspondent

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — "Combining the shows was a challenge for students, but good for them," said Jana Peters, animal sciences advising coordinator at Penn State, about the Little International and 2001 Dairy Expo conducted last Saturday here at the Ag Arena. 'It's obvious they did an excellent job."

A larger crowd than normal gathered at the arena for the first-ever combined events. N. Alan Bair was the 2001 Expo dedicatee, an honor that goes to an individual whose contributions have served to better the dairy industry and Penn State's Dairy Science Club. Bair is director of dairy industry relations in the College of Agriculture Sciences at Penn State.

The 84th Little International Show was dedicated to the Nevin H. Zerby family of Snyder County for the late Nevin's influence and Isabel and their eight children's active involvement in ag science and Block and Bridle Club activities.

Jeffrey L. Hostetter, formerly of Lebanon County and now from Minnesota, received the 2001 Young Dairy Leader Award. The 2001 Davey Award went to Penn State senior Angie Moschini of Spencer, Mass.

Two of Penn State's Dairy Judging Teams were recognized for their accomplishments. Curt Beidel of Newburg, Dave Miklic of Washington, Andrew Reed of Reedsville, and Nicole Over of Woodbury earned fourth overall at the Eastern States competition and high team for Jerseys. At the Pennsylvania All-American contest, the team placed first for Brown Swiss, Holsteins, and linear evaluation.

Another Penn State team, made up of Melissa Daly of Muncy Valley, Stacy Goetz of Mercersburg, Joshua Hushon of Airville, and James Young of Alba, Texas, placed 11th overall at the North American Livestock Exposition in Louisville.

Overall Little International showmanship grand champion went to Bart Gill of Newport. Michelle Cornman of Carlisle earned reserve grand champion showman.

The Expo's overall championship fitting winners were Emily Cloninger of Centre Hall and Josh Hushon of Airville.

The Distinguished Alumnus Award went to Dr. James B. Holter, professor emeritus of animal and nutrition sciences at the University of New Hampshire. Holter's contributions include establishing prediction equations for dry matter intake of Holstein and Jersey cattle.

The 2001 Department of Dairy and Animal Science Distinguished Alumnus Award went to Jack Dreibelbis, retired executive of Agway, Inc., of Camp Hill.

Cedar Crest FFA Conducts 36th Parent Member Banquet

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — The Cedar Crest FFA recently conducted its 36th annual parent-member banquet at Cedar Crest Hill School, with more than 260 people attending.

Chet Brubaker, chapter president, was MC and opened the banquet at 7 p.m. Brubaker presented a certificate of appreciation to Tom and Dawn Arnold.

The keynote speaker was the state FFA treasurer, Tony Resh, who spoke on getting involved with the FFA. The freshman class presented Honorary Chapter Degree plaques to Jonathan Bickle, Judy Schweingruber, Joseph Raiger, and Kristen Grumbine.

Billie Joe Atkins and Beth Kreider showed a slide program reviewing the year's FFA activities. Awards were presented by Harold Berkheiser, chapter adviser. Senior FFA members' parents were presented plaques by their sons and daughters for the support they have provided during their FFA careers.

Award winners were as follows:

The sample survey shows an average annual payment of almost $80,000 per farm for contracts to raise piglets and chicks as well as turkeys, layers, broilers and swine to support higher-yield advanced farms.

Wenger addressed supervisors' fears and concerns regarding the impacts of advanced farming on individual farms, the environment, the community and the future of agriculture.

"It's mistake to conclude that in Pennsylvania these new, larger poultry and hog units are replacing the smaller farms. The opposite is true," Wenger said.

"The model that operates in this state requires the diversified, individual farm as part of its production mix — without it, the system fails. A 2,800-head sow facility requires two nursery farms and eight farms for finishing pigs to market weight. A million-bird layer complex needs four or five pullet farms and one or two breeder farms for hatcheries."

"The reality is that these are more than 1,000 advanced farms across Pennsylvania, and we rarely hear about them. There are hog and chicken barns within a few miles of this convention center and near the major Hershey attractions. No one notices.

"Advanced farms are simply farms that take advantage of advanced technology and modern farming practices. They respond to today's consumer demand for safe, quality, consistent products at a relatively low price — to help the two percent of the population who are farmers try and feed the other 98 percent," Wenger said.

Pennsylvanians alone consume more than three billion eggs, a billion pounds of chicken, and more than 630 million pounds of pork each year.

"Yet, a new siting can be a highly controversial proposal for both townships and the agricultural community," Wenger acknowledged. "I've sat in church basement and backyards and listened to the concerns and fears of the community. Unfortunately, the issue often is more emotional than it is environmental."

"When media, community leaders, and neighbors are taken on a tour of larger facilities, it helps demystify the situation," said Wenger in recommending township supervisors encourage and take advantage of tour and other familiarization opportunities.

Wenger noted that "the big place, the one that raises fears,' is also the one which:

- Is permitted no runoff — not a drop ever — under state and federal laws.
- Is governed by dozens of other federal and state laws and regulations.
- Tests manure regularly for volatile fatty acids to reduce odor through feed and manure storage additives.
- Tests fields annually to review nutrient application rates.
- Tests wells and streams regularly.
- Uses best management practices, including biosecurity.
- Applies advanced technology in livestock raising.
- Uses water conservation techniques.
- Usually exceeds most federal and state requirements.

Wenger explained that contracts extended to farmers as part of the livestock-raising network commonly require equally high standards on the individual farm, from manure management to biosecurity. Partner farms usually are scrutinized for any violation history, community reputation as well as farm management skills.

"This evolution isn't new. It's been going on for decades. Pennsylvania livestock production increasingly is the result of alliances between agribusiness and individual farms through contracts and other strategic relationships. What is new is that many of these operations are locating in new rural areas that are nutrient deficient."

Rather than succumb to the emotional side of the issues or pass ordinances that are usually a shotgun aimed at keeping out certain farms, Wenger recommended actions that supervisors can take to better help the community and promote responsible agriculture.

- Have a request list for "newcomers" and expansions.
- Investigate a producer's background and visit existing units.
- Ask about community outreach, including visits to neighbors, and insist on a plan before permits are ever formally submitted.
- Stress appropriate landscaping.
- Encourage tours and other educational activity.
- Ensure the facility's long-range community plans include notification of manure spreading, facility tours, neighborhood meetings, and recognition of community contributions.
- Use the resources and expertise of the state's conservation districts, which oversee activities under the Nutrient Management Act, the state's Department of Environmental Protection, and the Penn State School of Agricultural Law at Dickinson College.
- Contact Dickinson, feed suppliers, co-ops, marketers and trade association to help resolve conflicts.

"Local officials do have power and do play a role in evaluating and influencing agricultural activities in their townships," Wenger said. "Agriculture had done a great job of putting food on the table, but a poor job of explaining how. We've heard loudly and clearly from local officials that it simply isn't enough — we must now improve communications and community outreach."

Wenger, who provides agribusiness project management services, has more than 30 years experience in agriculture and is active in outreach and educational programs for advanced farming. He has helped develop best management practices for agriculture and the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program, and is a member of PennAg Industries Association.

Legislators Unveil Bill

Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, and Dr. Gary Smith, professor of population biology and epidemiology at the School of Veterinary Medicine, University of Pennsylvania.

"We've seen how crippling the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease has been to Europe's economy, and how mad cow disease has undermined consumer confidence," Wenger said. "Should someone ever intentionally infect animals in Pennsylvania, where agriculture is the number one industry, the effect would be similarly devastating. We need to take this potential threat seriously."

The legislators' bill would establish penalties for the deliberate spread of virulent pathogens such as those that cause foot and mouth disease (FMD) and bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE), commonly known as "mad cow" disease. Violators would be required to pay farmers restitution for losses related to the destruction of livestock, soil testing and cleanup, in addition to any other criminal sentences.

Waugh, who chairs the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, noted that Pennsylvania farms house $1.54 billion worth of cattle, hogs and sheep, and $634 million worth of poultry.

"The loss of these animals would be catastrophe to our economy," Waugh said.

The legislators noted that the federal government this year allocated a $39.8 million share of its antiterrorism budget to the USDA, indicating that federal officials take the potential for agriterrorism seriously. USDA officials have stated publicly that agriterrorism is a plausible threat to domestic food supplies.

"Because we rely so much on agriculture as a mainstay of our economy, this issue is of particular importance to Pennsylvania," Wenger said.

Said Waugh, "We have to be proactive on behalf of our state's 50,000 farm families — and all state residents — who benefit from the $44 billion that farming contributes to our economy each year."

many people who shear."

Building A Business

Nate, of Windsor, and Ken, of Airville, York County, have a long-term friendship and partnership. Beginning with 4-H participation for four years, which introduced them to sheep, Nate and Ken began their shearing careers when they were 16 years old after they attended a shearing school in Maryland.

Wednesday evening found Nate and Ken in Atglen, setting up to shear the award-winning animals owned by Joan MacCauley, owner of Breezeview Farm, a breeding stock operation.

The evening's shearing includes handling Suffolks, a large meat breed. Although some of MacCauley's animals may weigh in at 300 pounds, they are actually some of the easier and faster sheep to shear. "Suffolks may be the biggest but they don't have wool on their legs, face, stomach, and ears," said Nate.

Older sheep may more of a challenge to shear, as "it's harder to get the blade through the wool," said Nate. "It gets sticky and gummy."

They shear animals ranging in age from as young as three months to as old as 11 years. Shearing time is approximately three minutes per sheep, "if the sheep cooperates," said Nate.

"We usually figure 20 sheep an hour for both of us, with catching the sheep and getting them on the blanket. We average about 30 sheep during the evenings and more on Saturdays."

"They should be shorn once a year," said Joan MacCauley. "I sometimes get them shorn twice a year because the lambs grow better through the summer heat. If you don't shear them they'll be too hot, the wool will collect dirt, and they could even get maggots."

With the extra daylight afforded on Saturdays, the partners put in long days as they sharpen blades, travel to farms, catch lively sheep, trim hooves, shear the animals, bag the wool, and, on the owner's request, worm the sheep.

During the week they may also shear small flocks separately.

The more flighty, harder-to-handle sheep are sheared with the same techniques used for the more docile animals. "You just hope they tire out before you do," said Nate. "We hang on and wait until they stop struggling."

Word-of-mouth and business cards have provided all the advertisement, and consequently business, that the partners can handle. "It's grown every year," said Nate.

The experience they gained at the shearing school was not meant to be part of a career move. "When we got back from the shearing school and sheared a few flocks, people just started calling us. We didn't have to advertise. Word-of-mouth goes pretty quickly," said Nate.

Leanne is responsible for picking up the clouds of wool.

Necessary Gear

An oil can reminiscent of the Tin Man's, of Wizard of Oz fame, is kept handy to lubricate the clippers after each sheep. "It keeps the blades sharper longer since it reduces friction," said Nate. Additional blade maintenance means that each shearer often pulls out a tool to scrape the lanolin buildup.

Equipment costs include $20 blades, which need to be sharpened on a special grinding wheel after shearing 25-30 sheep. The clippers themselves have a price tag of approximately $250.

Nate and Ken take a carpet to each shearing spot to keep the sheep and wool clean and afford better traction for handling the animals. A trailer holds the cords, two-way receptacle, backup blades or equipment, and carpet needed for the job.

Every job may have its share of danger or stress, and sheep shearing has its own unique challenges. Besides small nicks on themselves, the partners have shown up at the emergency room "smelling like sheep" after Ken broke his foot in a struggle with a ram.

They have been "bitten, butted, kicked, and nibbled on" in the line of duty, they attest. Nate has learned to "never turn your back on a ram" after being on the receiving end of a ram's charge. Although the job may have its perils, the partners enjoy the work and "plan to continue as long as our backs hold out," said Nate.

A Practiced Process

Shearing a sheep entails a practiced technique of positioning the animal to make sure the skin is taut at all times. "If the sheep is healthy you shouldn't nick it much at all," said Nate. Beginning with the brisket area, the shearers move on to the sheep's stomach.

"When you're all done, the fleece should all be in one piece. We start at the bottom, with the belly wool, which is usually thrown away because it's dirty from the animals laying on it," he said. "We pull up on the stomach to keep the skin tight so there are fewer nicks. I've sheared already where I could see the lambs moving inside."

A fist placed on the sheep's hip helps tighten the skin and straighten the leg at the same time. The shearers guide the clippers over the rear quarter, then up to the head area to shear from the brisket to the head. Next, wide and sleeping swaths of wool come off the side of the sheep in the longest strokes of the shearing process.

The cutting edge is trained carefully against the skin of the sheep at all times. "If you don't get it all at once, you end up with little bits of wool called 'second cuts,'" said Nate.

All About Technique

For those who may want to learn the trade, Nate advises "practice. It's all about technique. Also, if you nick the sheep, it's not the end of the world. You nick yourself shaving and you live."

Nate and Ken are occasionally assisted in the evenings by Nate's wife, Leanne, who rounds up the sheep, gathers wool, clips feet, and catches or holds sheep.

Most owners, said Leanne, simply throw away the wool. "Last year the way I got rid of it was two bags at a time for the trash man," said MacCauley. "It's cheaper to import wool from overseas. Tariff money from foreign shipments of sheep used to subsidize sheep producers here in the U.S., but not anymore."

Both Ken and Nate have competed, and enjoyed success, in the sheep-to-shawl competition at the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Adding to their wins in the past, this past year Ken won the fleece award and Nate took home the shearer award.

Ken Snyder, Leanne, and Nate Good team up to shear sheep for area producers.

Enter Dairy Recipe Drawing To Win One Of These Prizes

Win one of these "cow prizes" offered to readers who participate in Lancaster Farming's June Dairy Month Drawing. Lou Ann Good, food and family features editor, displays some of the prizes totaling $500.

June Dairy Month is "moov-ing" into the calendar of events. That means it's time to send in your favorite recipe using dairy products for Lancaster Farming's annual dairy recipe drawing.

June Dairy Month salutes dairy farmers everywhere for their hard work in providing milk, which we so often take for granted. Lancaster Farming's annual drawing reminds us of all the wonderful dairy products available to produce culinary delights.

To enter the drawing, select your favorite recipe, which must include a substantial amount of at least one dairy product. These ingredients count as a dairy product: milk, cream, sour cream, whipped cream, butter, yogurt, buttermilk, dry milk, ice cream, and all hard and soft cheeses.

Please check your ingredients carefully. Margarine and non-dairy substitutes such as frozen whipped topping do not qualify as dairy products.

Dairy recipes are needed for appetizers, soups, breads, entrees, vegetables, desserts, beverages, snacks, and salads.

Clearly print or type your recipe entry. Be sure to give accurate measurements, temperatures, times, and sizes of baking dishes to use. We reserve the right to disqualify entries if these guidelines are not followed.

With your entry, include a few paragraphs about yourself and your family. Although it is not required, a photograph of you and of your family is preferred. We and our readers love to "see" the people who send in the recipes.

Photographs will be returned if you write your name and address on the back of the picture.

Only one entry per family allowed. This contest is for adults who are at least 18 years old. We require this because children who send in recipes often inadvertently miss measurements, ingredients or a part of the instructions.

Send your recipe, photo, and accompanying information with your complete address. If we do not have your complete mailing address, we cannot send your prize if you win.

A photograph of prizes will appear in an upcoming issue of Lancaster Farming.

Send entries immediately. Entries must be postmarked by June 1 to be eligible for the drawing. The state dairy princess and alternates will select the winners. Recipe entries will be printed throughout the month of June. A list of the winners will be printed in the June 30 issue.

Send entries to Lou Ann Good, Lancaster Farming Dairy Drawing, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.

JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH

From Fish To Fruit, Check Out Wedding Decorating Trends

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

COLUMBIA (Lancaster Co.) — Buffet centerpieces, gift table arrangements, and understated bouquets were demonstrated for brides-to-be at a recent seminar held at Susquehanna Glass Factory in Columbia.

Suspending flowers in water and floating candles are two of this season's wedding decorating trends.

Well-known decorator Nancy Gingrich Shenk reeled off a variety of decorating ideas from trendy to country to woodland.

Using a "cake plate that is so simple to work with," Gingrich Shenk laid foliage along edge of the plate and worked fruit around the perimeter. On this plate she placed a smaller cake stand, followed by an even smaller one for three layers decorated with foliage and fruit. The display was topped by a wine goblet full of water and flowers to give a higher feel to the display.

The arrangement could also be used at Christmas time, with hors d'oeuvres laid artfully on the plates. "This can be done ahead of time, taken apart and moved to a new area, such as the reception site," she pointed out.

Cutting lemons and oranges on the bias, or on an angle, gives a fresh look to the display. The fruit can also be cut one day ahead of time, put in plastic bags, and placed on a table just before guests arrive. Work a few flowers in through the cake plate, said Gingrich Shenk.

"Fruits and flowers, foliage is so hot right now," she said. "the trendiest thing you can do for a wedding is to work fruit and vegetables in the decorations."

Bows and ribbons add extra "fluff." To lend an opulent look, then, include extra inches to the ribbon and allow the ribbon to swirl gently in large loops on the table.

Another trend going on for several years, according to Gingrich Shenk, is the inclusion of square plates in the decorations. For a small home wedding, using a square plate as a base to showcase the arrangement, Gingrich Shenk placed a floral foam "igloo," which sports a plastic case and bottom. Large coils of gingham ribbon on top of the oasis gives a country charm appearance to the arrangement.

Dutch tulips pushed into the floral foam lend a sunny, colorful look. "The trend is to keep things very low and compact. Everything we're seeing and doing is very compact and tight. Violets, pansies, and any other seasonal flowers from a backyard could also be worked into the bouquet. Or, suggested Gingrich Shenk, "in keeping with the trend for fruits and vegetables, add strawberries."

To add extra flair, she then placed a cake dome on top of the arrangement and followed that with a cake stand, complete with the cake, placed on top. Each table, then, has their own cake for dessert. "This would also work for a birthday cake, family reunion, or even the wedding or baby shower."

Gingrich Shenk also suggested using the strawberries, fresh lemons, and raspberries which decorate the cake for double duty. "Have the caterer puree the fruit, and then put the fruit on the plate under the cake for a beautiful painted plate look," she said.

The "pave" (pronounced PAH-vay) look is also a hot trend for this wedding season. Low-lying flowers clustered so that the blooms are indistinguishable from one another are considered to be pave.

A soaked heart-shaped floral foam put on a flat plate and covered with miniature carnations fits into this category. "We were seeing this look two years ago in Paris with a candle in the

This three-tiered arrangement "can be done ahead of time, taken apart and moved to a new area, such as the reception site," said Gingrich Shenk.

Consuming Thoughts

Did you know that on the East Coast, the fish sold as flounder, fluke and sole are closely related; their various names are market terms, which are not defined by law. Although consumers sometimes pay premium prices for fish called "sole," this fish is usually a flounder.

Grey sole is most likely the witch flounder, and lemon sole is usually a winter flounder, which weighs more than three and one-half pounds. Dover sole, which as a unique, sweet flavor is native to the coast of Europe, but is not found here. True members of the sole family are found off the West Coast, but rarely in the east.

There are some taste differences, and sometimes differences in the color of the flesh, among the flounders sold here, but for all practical purposes the fish are interchangeable. All are firm, white fleshed fish, which are high in protein and low in fat. The fish sold as flounder, fluke, and sole overlap in size the weight. Fillets can range from less than two ounces to eight ounces.

Fluke, also known as summer flounder, is larger than most other flatfish; it can grow to 15 inches within a year. This fish is caught close to shore in the warmer months, and further offshore in the winter, while other flounders reverse this pattern. The blackback, or winter flounder, and the yellowtail flounder are also important members of the flatfish family.

Flatfish are available all year in fresh fish markets, either as fillets or as whole fish. The whole flounder is usually sold with the head and gills attached; like other fish, it should have bright and bulging eyes and scales that are shiny and close to the skin. Fillets should appear fresh, and those which look dried out should be avoided. About one-third to one-half of a whole flounder is inedible, so fillets may be an equal value at twice the price of the whole fish.

Whole fish should be gutted and scaled. Both whole fish and fillets should be dipped in salt water for rinsing; they should not be held under running water. For optimum quality, fish should be cooked as soon as possible, but it may be stored a day or two in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

For storage in the home freezer, the cleaned flounder or fillets should be wrapped in a moisture and vapor-proof material. Either whole fish or fillets will keep up to six months in a freezer, which maintains 0 degrees Fahrenheit; higher temperatures, or fluctuating temperatures will shorten the shelf life.

Most flounders are small, the they are among the relatively few fish that may be broiled without turning. Broiling takes no more than five to seven minutes. For some other cooking methods, it is important to know the exact weight of the fish. Steaming takes one minute for each ounce of weight, and baking takes two minutes per ounce. Flounder should be cooked only until the flesh flakes easily form the bone. Because these fish are so low in fat, added liquid or fat may be desirable.

Lancaster Seeks Dairy Royalty Candidates

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Seeks dairy royalty and promotion committee members. Which county in Pennsylvania continues to support a large dairy cow and dairy farmer base while becoming increasingly urbanized and attracting thousands of tourists every year?

If you guessed Lancaster County, you are correct. Still the eighth highest county nationally in the production of milk, and with approximately 96,000 head of dairy cattle, you can imagine the task of promoting milk for this large, and wonderful group of dairy farmers is a daunting one. Many committed and reliable hands are required to make the effort a productive and successful endeavor.

The Lancaster County Dairy Promotion Committee welcomes all help in this effort, and is seeking new candidates for dairy princesses, ambassadors, dairy misses, and dairy darlings to serve for one year, beginning after the June pageant. Princess candidates can be any single woman, never married, whose parents or guardians are engaged in dairy farming, or are employed in a dairy related industry. Eligibility is also extended to young women who are owners of at least two animals of the six major breeds of dairy cattle in a bona fide 4-H or FFA project prior to May 1.

Candidates who are at least 13, have a sincere desire to promote dairy products, and are a user of real dairy products, can serve as dairy ambassadors. Ambassadors can be male or female. Openings for dairy misses, and the younger dairy darlings also exist. These younger promoters range in age from 8 to 12 years old and are needed to assist princesses and ambassadors at promotions.

More committe members are also needed. A genuine interest in promoting milk is the first and foremost requirement. Even if involvement is limited to helping with the milk wagon at fundraising events, assisting only with the pageant, or just helping to supervise promotions, input is needed and appreciated.

The Dairy Princess Pageant will be conducted Saturday, June 9, 7 p.m., at the Farm and Home Center Auditorium, Lancaster.

Call Dale Smith at (717) 336-0553; or Deb Brubaker at (717) 653-2612 for more information about promoting the great dairy industry of Lancaster County.

Better Kid Care Workshop

SPRINGFIELD (Delaware Co.) — Training for child care providers will be offered in Delaware County on May 1 from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. This workshop, sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare will provide two training credits toward maintaining licenses for child care providers. The workshop is open to child care providers and interested parents.

Let's Celebrate will examine holidays and food from around the world with suggestions for including parent participation. Handouts that support the topic will be distributed as well as a parents newsletter that can be copied and distributed at child care sites. The workshop will be held at the Delaware County Cooperative Extension office in Smedley Park, Springfield where linkage by satellite will connect the audience with the speakers at Penn State to allow interactive communication. Registration is required in advance by calling (610) 690-2655. A fee of $5 can be sent to Delaware Cooperative Extension, Smedley Park, 20 Paper Mill Road, Springfield, PA 19064-2705. Discounts are available — $10 when two or more providers register together. Certificates of participation will be given at the close of the workshop.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

There are certain requirements for farm chore clothing that are absolute.

Farm chore garb must be sturdily made. Its fabric must be of a durable nature. Zippers, snaps, ties, buttons-fasteners of whatever sort — must be well-designed from rugged materials.

Dark colors, generally, are superior to light colors and whites. An exception in our case is for milking outfits — T-shirts, sweatshirts, since our use of a chlorine-based pre-dip product results in every garment and fabric turning white, or at least whitish-spotted. Tie-dyed hippies of the '60s had nothing on us chlorine-based, teat-disinfecting cleaners.

Farm clothes must have pockets. Not teensy-eesy, "sort of," almost pockets, but hearty, man-size ones, spacious of room and sturdy of design. Plus, they must be deep enough to actually hold items without having them flip-out every time you bend over to wash a cow or fasten a pin while hooking-up equipment.

And it all MUST hold up to repeated launderings.

A cascade of crumpled, brown paper towels falls around my feet as I prepare to do a load of well-used barn outerwear. Two, three, four tumble out from one side of the cruddy, manure-stained sweatshirt. Another three rain down from the other side.

It's pocket "dung-out" time.

Which, in our case, is occasionally the literal truth.

As a veteran of farm laundry chores, one knows that you dog-gone well better check the pocket of every garment before stuffing it into the machine's deep washing basket. And the certainty that — the one time in 20 when you forget — there will be some important piece of paper reduced to soggy paper tidbits clinging to every damp garment.

The ubiquitous blue-denim jeans which have been staple chorewear ever since Levi Strauss stitched the first pair together for California gold miners, meet all the requirements for farm clothing, including pockets. Their on-body, storage-and-file system usually includes at least a minimum of four of these holding areas, two fairy deep for holding valuables as small utility knives, plus two for small, flat objects. Like wallets.

Denim or flannel shirts, a cold-weather farm favorite, usually feature at least two more, up front and closable, for holding such things as reading glasses, which one acquaintance of ours constantly loses. So when he found reading glasses for a buck-apiece in a "dollar" store, he snatched up three — yep, three-dozen of 'em.

Contents of pockets on farm garb, especially blue jeans, usually include a few obvious items — loose change, a couple of bolts, the mandatory pocket knife. This latter item is one The Farmer seems to consistently lose, especially his favorite small, very flat, all-purpose mini-farm-fix-it-knives. Sometimes they turn up in the bottom of the washing machine, otherwise they're lost for good, no matter how many or how deep the pockets adorning him.

If we could find really good ones at a great price, we could borrow the strategy of our glasses-loser friend, and buy in bulk.

Disposable gloves are another frequent pocket find during laundry prepping, worn to protect our hands during milk and the constant exposure to water and chlorine. If not torn by the end of a milking shift, we often stick them in our pockets for reuse, like around the garden or for greenhouse plant potting. Those often turn up in company with the crumpled towels.

Pockets, I find, are as important to little kids as they are to grownups. Grandson Caleb came barreling into the kitchen a few days ago, both pockets of his jeans turned completely inside out and flapping as he ran. When I inquired about the pockets, he informed me he had been hunting in them for candy to share with grandpa.

The crumbled paper towels which fall from the pockets, the not-yet-disposed-of disposable gloves, the washers, bolts, the handfuls of silage and corn, even the pocket-knives are carefully fished out of pockets before deep-sixing the garments into their hot, sudsy bath.

But the only trace I ever find of candy is empty paper wrappers.

Mighty Mouse Caves To The Crave For Cheese

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A "celebritoon" is born. The lure of delicious, mouthwatering cheese drew celebrity cartoon legend, Mighty Mouse, out of retirement to star in the new dairy farmer-funded Ahh, the Power of Cheese™ advertising campaign. The classic superhero is the latest 'toon to attract attention as animated characters experience a creative renaissance.

The rebirth of the superhero is the most recent example of the celebritoon trend that's taking Hollywood and Madison Avenue by storm. Other celebritoons currently featured in advertising campaigns include classic icons Spider-Man, Bugs Bunny, Pink Panther and Fred Flintstone, as well as new favorites SpongeBob and the Powerpuff Girls. Ironically, cartoons are no longer just for kids. As the industry gains mainstream acceptance and recognition as an art form, more comic characters are appearing in advertising and movies targeting people of all ages.

In the new spot, Mighty Mouse is distracted by his uncontrollable desire for cheese as mayhem mounts around him. In an unexpected twist, even this invincible superhero "caves to the crave" for cheese before saving the day. The commercial debuted April 9.

"We think this commercial will strike a chord with many people," said Jenny Wilson, spokesperson for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, "because, like Mighty Mouse, three out of four people love cheese so much that nothing can distract them from satisfying their cravings."

Created in 1942, Mighty Mouse appeared in comics, film and television for more than 50 years. The invincible superhero Mighty Mouse risked life and limb to foil fierce foes and save the day. Nothing, from villains to violence, could distract him from his mission. He was first seen on TV in 1955 under the title "Mighty Mouse Playhouse," but it wasn't until 1979 that he appeared in a series created exclusively for television. Mighty Mouse returned to the small screen in the 1987 series, "Mighty Mouse, The New Adventures" and aired on "retro" cable programming in his later years.

Anyway You Slice It, People Love Cheese

- Sixty-one percent of people who eat cheese said they crave cheese more often than any other food, surpassing even chocolate!
- Almost one out of four consumers use cheese nearly every day.
- "Many's the long night I've dreamed of cheese," is the famously wistful sigh of Ben Gunn, the character in Robert Louis Stevenson's adventure story "Treasure Island."
- In interviews, adventures Ann Bancroft and Liv Arnesen, the first women to cross Antarctica (2,400 miles), reported powerful cravings for cheese during their journey.
- Regis Philbin's new co-host Kelly Ripa mentioned on-air that she spent a whole weekend shopping for cheese.
- This passion for cheese is illustrated via a new ADA commercial starring the lovable Mighty Mouse, star of film/stage and television, whose desire for delectable cheese was so powerful he was delayed from saving the day.

Keeping Good Records Saves Time And Money

Tax filing season has come and gone one more time. Are you still saying, Next year I'm going to be better organized."

I just read an article in the paper where a man went on April 16 to have his income tax calculated for him and he didn't have all his papers. He had to run home for his W-2 as well as his checkbook.

Getting organized isn't easy. It takes time and commitment to get all of your family records in order, but once it's done, the stress level drops dramatically.

Why Keep Records?

- Some are needed to assist in tax preparation.
- Some are needed in case of a crisis, such as death, fire, or theft.
- Some are needed to show proof of payments made and ownership of property, in case someone else makes a mistake.
- They are needed for protection in case official records are destroyed.
- They provide a useful summary of your financial situation.
- It is the sensible thing to do.

Where To Keep Records

The three places where records should be kept are in your wallet, in a bank safe deposit box, and at home. There are different kinds of records for each of these places. Those for the safety deposit box or safe should be important documents that are difficult to replace. If you don't have a safe deposit box, you should consider getting one. Your box should be large enough to hold all the necessary items.

Setting Up A Business Center

The most efficient way to store records and carry out other family business is to set up some type of family business center. In addition to records, it is the ideal place to keep accounts, develop budgets, carry on correspondence, make out tax returns, write checks, and care for many papers and semi-valuable documents.

Your business center may be as elaborate as an office; it may be a desk and file cabinet, or just a simple cardboard box. The type of system is not as important as the systematic organization of your financial papers. Records and papers may be separate using large envelopes or individual folders. Another alternative would be to use a three-ring notebook with dividers. Dividers that have pockets could be used to store loose-leaf papers. Label the dividers of your notebook or files according to the types of records you keep.

How Long To Keep Records

Even the best record keeping system probably will not fill your needs forever. Changes in employment or in your family's lifestyle require adjustments from time to time. At least once a year, plan to review your files and do some housecleaning. Now is a good time for a record keeping overhaul since tax time just ended and you found out how disorganized you were as you looked at your financial picture.

Your inactive files may be a box in the attic or garage. These files hold papers you don't use, but may need in the future. Your past taxes filed in inactive storage will include detailed records such as canceled checks (if you still get them), diaries, and whatever else backs up your tax return for at least three years, preferably 10 years. You may want to indefinitely keep copies of all tax returns with W-2 forms stapled to them.

Specific Records To Keep

- Family budget. Write down the family's spending plan. Then, periodically (weekly), record your expenditures and check your progress.
- Net worth statement. Prepare an annual statement of your assets and liabilities.
- Personal property inventory. This is a list of your household possessions and important information about each.
- Credit card safety record. Your credit card safety record contains all the information you will need to report a lost or stolen card.

What's New At The Grocery Store

SPRINGFIELD (Delaware Co.) — "What's New at the Grocery Store" will be offered on the evening of May 2 from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. and repeated on May 3 from 1 p.m.-3 p.m. at the Environmental Center in Smedley Park in Springfield.

The class will explore new and unique foods that are found in local grocery stores and will include taste testing, cooking and the latest nutrition-based research. Offered regularly, this session of "What's New at the Grocery Store" will look at the many "value added" foods that contain vitamins, minerals and herbs that are not inherent to the food and discuss if these can eliminate vitamin or mineral supplements or make us healthier.

Recipes will feature new fruits and vegetables arriving from around the world. Come hungry and have fun exploring new tastes while learning. Cost $6. To register, send check made to DCCE and mail to Delaware County Cooperative Extension, 20 Paper Mill Road, Smedley Park, Springfield, PA 19064. For more information, call (610) 644-8872.

Food Handlers Course Offered

If you have a food service establishment in Montgomery County, safe food and a sanitary environment are what you expect — and so do your customers. Montgomery County Health Department requires any food service operation to have a county food service manager/operator certificate. The 16-hour Certified Food Safety and Sanitation Course will prepare employees to take the National Restaurant Association examination, which will re-qualify them for certification in Montgomery County.

Penn State Cooperative Extension will offer the Food Safety and Sanitation Recertification Course on May 12 in Collegeville at the 4-H center from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The registration includes text instruction handouts and administration costs. Registration is required. The deadline is May 4. To register, call (610) 489-4315, and ask for Anne Luken. Mail information and $75 to Montgomery County Coop. Extension, 1015 Bridge Road, Suite H, Collegeville, PA 19426.

Wedding Bell Shower Chocolate Cake, "Kiss-Me" Candy Roses and Chocolate Kissed Macaroons

Hugs, Kisses and Bridal Shower Wishes

Planning a bridal shower doesn't have to be a stressful event if you plan ahead and enlist the help of others. A great way to have a successful party is to keep the menu simple. Following are some ideas to make your next shower special:

Food Preparation:

- Ask each bridesmaid to bring a recipe from your menu to cut down on preparations. Desserts and brunch items made with cinnamon chips and cocoa are always a big hit.
- Select recipes that can be made ahead of time and frozen, such as cookies, unfrosted cakes or brownies. Place baked goods in airtight plastic containers and layer with crumpled waxed paper to avoid breakage. Defrost at room temperature one day before the party.

Decorating the House:

- Cover the table with a white cloth and sprinkle Hershey's Kisses Milk Chocolates and Hershey's Hugs; their silver and gold wrappers are an easy and delicious way to add elegance.
- As a party favor, wrap small bunches of Hugs and Kisses in lace or fabric, and tie with a pretty ribbon.

Shower Themes:

- Have an "All Year Round" shower by assigning each guest a season or month and asking them to bring a recipe and kitchen item used then, such as a cookie recipe and mixing bowls for December.
- Have a "Best Recipes" shower by purchasing a recipe box for the bride and sending a blank recipe card to each guest along with the invitation. Ask guests to write out a favorite family recipe for the bride, and bring it to the shower. Present the filled recipe box to the bride at the shower.

When planning your next shower, remember to KISS (Keep it Simply Scrumptious), and tell your friends all of your secrets to success.

BRIDAL SHOWER TOPIARY

Materials:

- Foam topiary form (available at most craft stores)
- Clay or plastic flower pot
- Aluminum foil
- 2 (13 ounce) bags Hershey's Kisses Milk Chocolates Spring Colors
- Glue (low heat gun, non-toxic craft glue, glue stick or "Safe Confectioners' Glue")
- Toothpicks
- Spanish moss
- 2 yards of one-inch wide ribbon

Assembly:

Place the foam topiary base into a clay or plastic flower pot.

Cover both ball shapes with aluminum foil. Cover each ball shape with spring colored Hershey's Kisses by gluing the flat end of the Kiss to topiary. With remaining Kisses, fill in gaps by inserting a toothpick in the side of a Kiss and inserting the other end into the foam ball. Alternate colors and angles.

Complete by covering top of foam base with Spanish moss and tie a ribbon bow around both sections of the stem.

Finished Size: 16" tall

TUXEDO BROWNIE HUGS COOKIES

About 60 Hershey's Hugs
1 package (1 pound 6.5 ounce) original supreme brownie mix with syrup pouch
1/4 cup baking cocoa
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup vegetable oil
2 eggs

1. Remove wrappers from Hugs. Heat oven to 350°F. Grease and flour cookie sheet or line with parchment paper.
2. Stir brownie mix, pouch of syrup, cocoa, water, oil and eggs in medium bowl until well blended. Drop by scant teaspoons onto prepared cookie sheet.
3. Bake 8 minutes or until set. Cool 1 minute. Press Hug into center of each cookie. Remove from cookie sheet to wire rack. About 5 dozen cookies.

"KISS-ME" CANDY ROSES

For each candy rose, spread "Safe Confectioners' Glue"* on bottom of one red foil-wrapped Hershey's Kisses Milk Chocolate. Firmly press the bottom of another Kiss to it. Insert florist wire into one pointed end of double Kisses. Wrap 4-inch square of clear cellophane around double Kisses, twisting cellophane tightly around Kisses.

Starting at bottom of rose, wrap florist tape around edges of cellophane, continuing down the full length of wire with tape.

Add 1 or 2 artificial leaves, if desired, securing leaves in place with florist tape. Tie candy roses together with bow.

*Prepare "Safe Confectioners' Glue" by whisking together 4 teaspoons powdered egg whites (meringue powder) with 1/4 cup water until completely dissolved. With mixer, beat in 3 cups sifted powdered sugar until thick and smooth.

Wedding Bell Shower Chocolate Cake

Need to make cake twice to complete recipe.

3/4 cup (1-1/2 sticks) butter or margarine, softened
1-2/3 cups sugar
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups all-purpose flour
2/3 cup baking cocoa
1-1/4 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1-1/3 cups water
3 cans (12 to 16 oz. each) vanilla ready-to-spread frosting
Hershey's Kisses Milk Chocolates

1. Heat oven to 350°F. Line 13x9x2-inch baking pan with heavy duty foil; grease and flour sides and bottom of foil.
2. Combine butter, sugar, eggs and vanilla in large bowl; beat on high speed of mixer 3 minutes. Stir together flour, cocoa, baking soda, salt and baking powder; add alternately with water to butter mixture, beating until blended. Pour batter into prepared pan.
3. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes; remove from pan to wire rack. Peel off foil; cool completely.
4. Repeat steps 1, 2 and 3 for second layer. Freeze cake layers at least three hours for easier cutting and handling.
5. Cut paper pattern in bell shape. Place pattern on top of one layer; cut shape. Transfer layer to serving plate or tray. Place pieces, cut from top outer edges, at lower sides of cake to form bell lip. Frost top of layer. Cut bell shape from second layer, place on top of first layer. Frost entire cake. Remove wrappers from Kisses, garnish cake as desired. Place "Kiss-Me" Candy Roses at top of cake. About 25 servings.

Chocolate Kissed Macaroons

1/3 cup butter softened
3 ounce cream cheese, softened
3/4 cup sugar
1 egg yolk
2 teaspoons almond extract
2 teaspoons orange juice
1-1/4 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
5 cups Mounds Sweetened Coconut Flakes, divided
8 ounce Hershey's Kisses Milk Chocolates

1. Beat butter, cream cheese and sugar in large bowl until well blended. Add egg yolk, almond extract and orange juice, beat well. Stir together flour, baking powder and salt; gradually add to butter mixture, beating until well blended. Stir in 3 cups coconut.
2. Cover, refrigerate 1 hour or until firm enough to handle. Remove wrappers from Kisses. Heat oven to 350°F. Shape dough into 1-inch balls, roll balls in remaining 2 cups coconut. Place on ungreased cookie sheet.
3. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from oven; immediately press Kiss on top of each cookie. Cool 1 minute, carefully remove from cookie sheet to wire rack. Cool completely. About 4 dozen cookies.

Cinnamon Chip Celebration Coffeecake

1 cup butter softened
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
3/4 cup applesauce
2-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1-2/3 cups cinnamon chips
1 cup chopped pecans (optional)
EASY GLAZE (recipe follows) or powdered sugar

1. Heat oven to 350°F. Lightly grease 13x9x2-inch baking pan.
2. Beat butter and sugar in large bowl on medium speed of mixer until well blended. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Mix in applesauce. Combine flour, baking soda and salt, gradually add to butter mixture, beating until well blended. Stir in cinnamon chips and pecans, if desired. Spread into prepared pan.
3. Bake 30 to 35 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool completely in pan on wire rack. Drizzle with glaze or sprinkle with powdered sugar. 12 to 15 servings.

EASY GLAZE. Stir together 3/4 cup powdered sugar and 1 to 2 tablespoons milk.

Sweetheart Cinnamon Chip Scones

3 cups all-purpose flour
1/3 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar, divided
2-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup cold butter
1 cup buttermilk
1-2/3 cups cinnamon chips
2 tablespoons butter, melted

1. Heat oven to 425°F.
2. Stir together flour, 1/3 cup sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt in large bowl. Cut butter into 1/2-inch slices, using fingers or pastry blender, mix butter into flour mixture until coarse crumbs form. Add buttermilk; stir with fork just until ingredients are moistened and soft dough forms. Add cinnamon chips. Gather dough into a ball, pressing gently to hold together. Turn out onto slightly floured work surface; knead briefly, about a dozen turns. Cut dough in half.
3. Roll or pat one piece of dough at a time into a 7-inch circle, 1/2 inch thick. Brush one circle with 1 tablespoon melted butter, sprinkle with 1 tablespoon sugar. Cut circle into 6 triangles. Place triangles on ungreased cookie sheet. Repeat procedure with remaining circle.
4. Bake 10 to 12 minutes until tops are golden. Remove from cookie sheet to wire rack. Serve warm or at room temperature. 12 scones.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Before we got too involved in outside work, we took a day trip to Winterthur in Delaware. Friends had given us guest passes and told us about their conservation clinics. So, I made two appointments and gathered old books and papers for one clinic and old linens and wool material for another.

In the morning, we toured several rooms that Henry Francis DuPont preserved. He did not just collect items to put in the room, but he moved entire rooms from homes on the eastern seaboard. His collection of American decorative arts is unparalleled. His country place has been open to the public since 1951.

He also managed a farm and dairy on 1,000 acres of rolling land. If he could have developed a larger Holstein cow, he believed it would produce more butterfat, which in his day was considered to be good for you.

One gallery houses the library and the Campbell collection of soup tureens. These dishes are some of the most elaborate that you'll ever see. There are some of gilded brass, beautiful porcelain, and also silver tureens. Many were made in the 1700s for royal families.

We took a one-half hour tram ride through the gardens. Early wildflowers were blooming, but the eight acres of azaleas were not. Francis DuPont loved his large trees and in case of fire, he instructed his employees to "wet down the trees first and then the buildings as I can replace the buildings." He had his own fire engine on the property.

The instructions for preserving quilts and old material are almost too difficult for the average person to follow. We simply do not have room to store them properly.

Wyoming-Lackawanna Dairy Princess Committee Announces Pageant, Search For Contestants

TUNKAHNNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — The Wyoming-Lackawanna Dairy Princess Committee is looking for energetic young people to promote the dairy industry of both counties.

The winner of the dairy princess crown will serve the dairy industry of Wyoming and Lackawanna counties for one year. She will make appearance at schools, malls, and have the opportunity to speak to civic clubs, senior groups, and appear on radio and television.

The pageant will be held at the Factoryville Volunteer Fire Hall on June 2, 7:30 p.m.

The current Wyoming-Lackawanna Dairy Princess Tracy Anderson and her court will be recognized for their hard work in promoting the dairy industry and the new court will be selected.

"I have had a wonderful year this year as dairy princess. I would like to encourage any young woman in Wyoming and Lackawanna counties that have an interest in the dairy industry to participate in this excellent program. The dairy princess program provided me the opportunity to learn public relation skills, meet government representatives, participate in the state pageant, and make many amazing memories. I will miss this program at the end of my reign," said Tracy.

The Dairy Princess program is open to any young woman between the ages of 16- to 24-years old, whose parents are in a dairy related industry or if she herself is employed in the dairy industry, owns two dairy animals, or have previously served one year as a member of the dairy princess court.

For any young woman under the age of 16 and interested in promoting the dairy industry can participate as a dairy maid for those between the ages of 13-15 and dairy miss 8-12. For any young man between the ages of 13-21 interested in promoting the dairy industry they can participate as a dairy ambassador.

For more information, call Judy or Charlene Shupp at (570) 836-4731 or Laura Anderson at (570) 836-3753.

SUN Area Seeks Dairy Princess Royalty

MILTON (Northumberland Co.) — The SUN Area Dairy Princess Committee is searching for contestants for its annual pageant, June 21-23, at the Susquehanna Valley Mall.

To enter the contest, princess candidates must be residents of the SUN Area covering Snyder, Union, Northumberland, and Montour counties, 16-24 years of age, have a connection to the dairy industry, and be willing to promote the industry throughout these counties during the one-year reign.

Dairy Princesses participate in school and grocery store promotions, speak to farm and non-farm groups and make appearances on radio stations and at fairs. Princesses also participate in training seminars and the State Dairy Princess Pageant in September.

Young ladies aged at least eight years can participate in the royalty program as Dairy Maids or Misses. Dairy Maids, ages 13 and up, and Dairy Misses, ages eight to 12, must meet the same requirements as the dairy princess contestants and assist her in promoting the dairy industry in the four-county area. There is no competition for these levels, but Dairy Maids participate in a one-day training seminar.

For more information or applications, contact Shannon Yerg, (570)-539-2456.

Safety Around Lawn Mowers And ATVs

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission reports that in a recent year an estimated 90,000 individuals were treated for ATV-related injuries in hospital emergency rooms; almost 10,000 were hospitalized, and more than 120 deaths were recorded.

Almost 50 percent of the injured persons and fatalities were less than 16 years of age. Twenty percent of the fatalities were children under 12 years of age. A recent study indicated that 16.4 percent of all ATV accidents occurred on the farm, resulting in more than 20 fatalities annual on American farms. This number is expected to grow as the ATV becomes a more common agricultural machine. Clearly, the ATV can be a dangerous vehicle.

Some ATV operating guidelines are:

- ATVs are not toys; children under the age of 12 should not operate or be permitted to ride ATVs.
- Children between the ages of 12 and 15 often lack the physical size to operate or control the machine. They should not operate adult-size (greater than 90cc) ATVs.
- Do not ride double; the unique handling characteristics of the ATV require that the operator shift both weight and position on the seat to steer and control the vehicle. Riders hamper the operator's ability to steer and control the ATV.
- Since ATVs are small and low to the ground, they are not as visible as larger vehicles. Lights, reflectors, and highly visible flags should be used so the ATV is easier to see.
- Never ride the ATV on public roads, or when alcohol or drugs are in the bloodstream. In nearly 10 percent of all injuries, and in 30 percent of all fatal ATV accidents, alcohol use was a contributing factor.

Lawn mowers can be a dangerous item if not operated safely. Some preparations for safe mowing includes:

- Inspect the lawn before each mowing to be sure any stones, sticks, bones, toys or any other debris have been removed. This is especially important if children frequently play on the grass. The alert operator will keep his eyes open for any unremoved item and will stop and pick them up during the mowing operation. Keep a clean lawn.
- Wear long pants or slacks and good sound shoes while using the mower. Do not operate the mower while wearing sandals, shorts or in bare feet.
- Keep everyone a safe distance away from the area of operation — especially children and pets.

It is especially important to be alert and not in a hurry when operating a lawn mower.

Benefit Auction For Lancaster County Therapeutic Riding

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Therapeutic Riding, Inc., will hold its fifth annual benefit auction at 2 p.m., Sat., May 5, at Lampeter Fairgrounds (behind the Fire Hall) in Lampeter. The auction will be held indoors.

Auction items include crafts, furniture, automotive services, artwork, antiques, gift certificates, baked goods, collectibles, and much more. Food will be available.

Proceeds from the auction will benefit Lancaster County Therapeutic Riding, Inc., a non-profit organization, which is available to children and adults with a variety of disabilities. Therapeutic horseback riding offers many benefits to the students, including improvement in their balance, strength, range of motion, coordination and self-confidence. The program operates from Greystone Manor Stables near Leola.

For more information on the program, call (717) 615-9222. To donate new or quality used items for the auction, contact Fran at (717) 336-0349 or Donata at (717) 464-5650.

Elite VINYL RAILING SYSTEMS

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a self-addressed stamped envelope. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address. You may also e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Notice: Several readers write that they have problems accessing this address. The common mistake is that readers are substituting an "i" for the lowercase "l (L)" needed in two places. If you are having problems reaching this address, please check to make sure you are typing a lowercase "l (L)" in both places and not a lower or uppercase "i" or "I."

QUESTION — Loretta Blaine, Stevensville, is looking for recipes to make ketchup and Italian-style spaghetti sauce that tastes like that sold in supermarkets. She writes that her family likes a strong flavor. I'm not sure if she means strong tomato flavor or a spicy sauce.

QUESTION — A Pine Grove reader wants a recipe for bean soup to cook in a big, black butcher kettle.

QUESTION — A reader wants the recipe to make chicken barbecue sauce that tastes like that served at open-pit barbecues.

QUESTION — A York County reader wants a recipe for Chicken-Peanut Casserole that tastes like that served at Hershey Farms Restaurant.

QUESTION — Dotty Gaul, Douglassville, writes that when she was growing up in the Harrisburg area during the 1950s, her family went to the Blue Parasol, a drive-in restaurant with curb service. They served pork barbecue sandwiches with no tomato sauce but with relish. She thinks it was pork simmered in chicken broth with some other ingredients. Does anyone have a recipe that sounds similar to what Dotty describes?

ANSWER — In answer to Mary Ann Lutz, Bethel, who wanted to know of a spice to put in horseradish to make it "hot," Leone Matz, Galeton, writes that she never tasted a horse radish that wasn't hot. When grated, horseradish brings tears to the eyes and causes the nose to run. Garden catalogs sell horseradish roots, all you need is the ground to plant, and it spreads terrible, she writes.

ANSWER — Janet Spangler, York Springs, wanted a dessert that tastes like orange creamsickle. Thanks to several readers for sending in recipes that are quite different than that printed in last week's issue.

Orange Creamsickle Pie

18 graham crackers, crushed
¼ cup sugar
⅓ cup butter, melted
1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened
6-ounce can frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed

Combine crumbs, sugar, and butter. Press onto bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Set aside.

In large bowl, with electric mixer on medium speed, blend ice cream and concentrate. Spread in crust. Freeze until firm, about four hours. Before serving, garnish with whipped topping and mandarin orange slices. Serves 8.

Reinholds reader

Dreamsicle Pie

Mix together well: 1 can condensed milk
¾ cup Tang
Mix together:
16-ounces whipped topping
16-ounces sour cream

Add this mixture to the above mixture and pour into graham cracker crust. Chill and serve. Makes 2 pies.

Marjorie Allen
Peterstown, W.VA

Orange Dreamsicle Cake

1 box orange supreme cake mix
16-ounces sour cream
16-ounces frozen whipped topping, thawed
1 cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon orange flavoring

Grease and flour two 9-inch cake pans. Set aside. Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Mix cake as directed on box. Put in pans. Bake 20-25 minutes. Cool in pans 10 minutes. Turn out on a towel and cut layers in halves, making four layers.

Filling: Mix together well: sour cream, whipped topping, confectioner's sugar, and orange flavoring. Spread generously between layers, top, and sides. Refrigerate two days, then enjoy.

Peterstown, W.V.

ANSWER — A reader wanted recipes for oatmeal whoopie pies. Thanks to Maxine Klingler, Selingsgrove, for sending a recipe.

Oatmeal Whoopie Pies

2 cups brown sugar
¾ cup butter
2 eggs
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups flour
2 cups rolled oats
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda dissolved in 4 tablespoons boiling water

Cream together sugar, butter, and eggs. Add salt, flour, rolled oats, cinnamon, and baking powder. Add baking soda and water. Beat. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes.

Filling

2 egg whites
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons milk
4 cups confectioners' sugar
1 cup shortening

Beat egg whites until stiff. Add remaining ingredients and mix. Spread between two cooled cookies.

ANSWER — A reader requested recipes for fruit soups made without alcohol. Thanks to Loretta Blaine, Stevensville, for sending a recipe.

Chilled Strawberry Soup

1 cup apple juice
1 cup water, divided
⅔ cups sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon ground cloves
2 cups fresh strawberries
16-ounces strawberry yogurt
2 drops red food coloring
Additional strawberry halves

In a saucepan, combine apple juice, ¾ cup water, sugar, cinnamon, and cloves. Bring to a boil over medium heat. Remove from heat, cool. Place strawberries in remaining water in a blender, cover and process until smooth. Pour into large bowl. Add apple juice mixture, yogurt, and food coloring. Cover and refrigerate until well chilled. Garnish with additional strawberries if desired. Yield: 6-8 servings.

ANSWER — Norma Eckard, Gettysburg, wanted a recipe for pie crusts using unbleached flour. Thanks to Anita Shirk, Quakertown, for sending a recipe that she really likes. The recipe works well with either unbleached or bleached flour.

Never-Fail Pie Crust

3 cups unbleached flour
1¼ cups shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 teaspoon vinegar
5½ tablespoons water

Work flour, shortening, and salt until very fine. Beat egg, water, and vinegar together. Make a little well in the flour mixture and add the liquid. Knead until you have a nice, soft dough. Yield: four 9-inch pie shells.

ANSWER — Helen Krupski, Peconi, N.Y., wanted a recipe for rice pudding cooked on the stovetop. In addition to the one printed last week, here are some different versions.

Rice Pudding

1 cup uncooked rice
12-ounce can evaporated milk
4-4¼ cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼-⅓ cup sugar
Nutmeg
¼ cup raisins

Combine rice, evaporated milk and whole milk. Add ½ cup raisins if desired. Cook until rice is soft. Add vanilla and sugar. Put into bowl and top with nutmeg.

Janet Barkelew
Philippi, W.V.

Rice Pudding

1 quart milk
½ cup sugar (or less)
½ cup rice
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Put rice, milk, salt, and sugar in top of double boiler. When starting to cook, add butter, stirring often and cook about one hour. When rice is done, put small amount of hot mixture in a bowl with beaten egg and mix well. Return beaten egg mixture to pan, stirring well and cook at least 5 minutes more. Remove from heat, add vanilla. Put into bowl and sprinkle with cinnamon or nutmeg.

Virginia Morgan
Lincroft, N.J.

Creamy Stove-Top Rice Pudding

½ cup rice
½ cup sugar
5 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup raisin

Put rice, sugar, and 4 cups milk into a saucepan and bring to a boil, stirring now and then.

Cover and reduce heat to a low simmer for 30-40 minutes or until mixture is creamy and rice is soft.

Remove from heat and add vanilla, raisins, and remaining cup milk. Let set for a while to thicken.

This has been a staple in our house for years. We usually double the recipe because it's gone before you can turn around. The key seems to be to use a heavy pot so you can simmer very slowly. Replacing the last cup of milk with a can of evaporated milk makes it even creamier. However, it's delicious even with skim milk.

Rice Pudding

Cook 1 cup raw rice. Scald 1 quart milk, add 1 heaping cup sugar. In another dish, place 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, and 1 can condensed milk. Beat well, add to heated milk and sugar. Stir constantly. When mixture starts to boil lightly, remove from store. Add cooked rice and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Place in large bowl. Serves 20.

ANSWER — Mrs. H.S., Danielsville, requested a recipe for coconut brownies, which were served during the 1940s in McCrory Five & Dime store, Allentown. Thanks to Debbie Reynolds, Wrightsville, for sending a recipe. She writes that the filling can be put on top of your favorite brownies or chocolate cake.

Coconut Filling

½ cup milk
½ cup sugar
9 large marshmallows
2 cups coconut
½ teaspoon cornstarch

(Turn to Page B9)

Combine milk, sugar, and marshmallows in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat 5 minutes or until marshmallows melt. Stir in coconut and cornstarch, bring to a boil. Cook one minute, stirring constantly. Makes 2 cups. Spread evenly over brownies or cake.

Chocolate Frosting

1 tablespoon butter
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons milk
1¾ cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-ounce unsweetened chocolate, chopped

Melt butter in saucepan on low heat, add sugar, milk, and chocolate. Cook 3 minutes or until chocolate is melted. Remove from heat and cool. Stir in confectioners' sugar and vanilla. Spread carefully over coconut layer.

ANSWER — Evelyn Reinfeld, Halifax, wanted recipes using raw sugar in cakes, cookies, pies, etc. Thanks to Melissa Lapp for writing that her family uses raw sugar in baking items with no troubles. You can use less raw sugar in canning, baking, and jam because it is more concentrated. For more tips, write to Melissa, 3333 Cassadaga Rd., Cassadaga, NY 14718.

ANSWER — Tami Reigle, Paxtonville, wanted a recipe for homemade hard candy that uses orange peels. Her grandparents lived in the York and Dallastown areas and her family talks about this candy, but no one had the recipe. Thanks to Josephine Matenus, Dallas, for sending a recipe using grapefruit peels and the adjustments needed to make candied orange peels.

Candied Grapefruit Peel

Cut peel from two grapefruits itno four lengthwise sections. If the membranes are very thick, remove some of it, otherwise leave it intact. Cover peel with cold water; bring to boil 10 minutes, drain. Repeat three times. Cut into thin strips.

In 3-quart saucepan, combine syrup, 1 cup granulated sugar, ½ cup white corn syrup, and 1 cup water.

Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves, add peel, gently simmer uncovered about 40 minutes or until most of the syrup is absorbed. Drain in coarse strainer or colander. Roll peel, a few pieces at a time, in granulated sugar. Arrange in single layer on waxed paper or pan. Let dry about two days. Store in covered container. Makes about ½ pound.

Candied Orange Peel

Substitute six thick-skinned oranges for grapefruit. Boil peel 5 minutes each time instead of 10 minutes. Increase sugar to 2 cups. Decrease corn syrup to 2 teaspoons. Makes about 1½ pounds.

ANSWER — For the reader who wanted a recipe for teaberry ice cream, Glenn Reeder, New Tripoli, writes that they have made teaberry ice cream by melting the pink candy mint lozenges in the milk used for making ice cream. He thinks they use 8-16-ounces for a 6-8 quart ice cream mixture. Experiment to find the flavor you desire. The Reeders also used chopped real teaberries, but prefer the ice cream made with the lozenges.

ANSWER — Holly Galinski, Plumsteadville, wanted a recipe using a combination of baked seafood. Thanks to Frances Smith, White Hall, for sending a recipe that her family loves. You may use a mixture of shrimp, crabmeat, scallops, and flounder. She writes they live on a grain farm and farm more than 5,000 acres with corn, wheat, and soybeans.

Seafood Casserole

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup light cream
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 tablespoon grated onion
¼ teaspoon celery salt
1 cup lobster or crabmeat
1 cup cooked shrimp
½ cup canned sliced mushrooms
Dash cayenne, optional
Rice, cooked

Heat butter, blend in flour and cream, stir until thick. Add Worcestershire sauce, salt, pepper, onion, seafood, and cayene, heat thoroughly.

Keep hot in double boiler. Pour over hot rice, when ready to serve or place cooked layer of rice in buttered casserole. Cover with seafood mixture, layer rice, and seafood mixture. Top with one-third cup sharp cheese, and bread crumbs. Place in 350-degree oven until heated through and cheese is melted or crumbs are golden.

Note: Sauce can be prepared and refrigerated overnight or the complete casserole can be prepared and frozen until ready to use.

When serving 10 people, use 2½ pounds medium shrimp and 1 pound crabmeat. Slice shrimp down the middle which makes it look prettier. If sauce seems skimpy, add more cream to your preference. Sauce should be slightly runny if served with rice.

Eleven-Year-Old Wins Prize For Cross-Stitch Sampler

LOU ANN GOOD

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — "It was hard. I felt like giving up near the end," Alyson Wattai said of the counted cross-stitch sampler, which required several hours of work everyday for three weeks.

Fortunately Alyson finished the project just in time to enter it in a contest sponsored by the Lebanon Historical Society. Her perserverance resulted in a red ribbon for the sampler that placed second in the handcrafted category.

That accomplishment is quite notable. Alyson was competing against students one to two years older than her. Students in most Lebanon County schools were assigned projects of their choice for a social studies grade and to enter in the contest.

Students could choose to complete either a report, timeline, diorama, or handcraft associated with Pennsylvania history. Handcrafts needed to use materials that were used for similar projects during the 17th-19th century. For that reason, Alyson used linen, which isn't the easiest material for sewing projects.

Although the sampler was also her first cross-stitch project, Alyson is quite competent with a needle compared to most girls her age.

"She begged for a needle and thread when she was 3-years-old," her mother Karen said. That's because she saw her mother, an accomplished needlecrafter, enjoying the craft. Karen has won numerous awards for tatting and needlecraft projects.

Now, that the project is finished, Alyson is eager to start another cross-stitch project to enter in competition at the Lebanon Area Fair.

"The alphabet letters are harder to stitch than the flowers," Alyson said of the project that requires counting the threads to know where to stitch.

Alyson's sampler was displayed at the Lebanon Community Library for several weeks. Now it holds a place of honor in the Wattai home.

Alyson said that she was inspired to try cross-stitch after watching her mother work on projects. Now Alyson's friends are intriqued after watching Alyson work.

"Some of my friends want me to teach them how to do it. I might teach them this summer," Alyson said.

Eleven-year-old Alyson Wattai, Lebanon, won second-place in a contest sponsored by the Lebanon Historical Society for this counted cross-stitch sampler.

Dear Twig: When my Dad mows the lawn, he cuts it real short. It looks like the haircuts he gives me in summer! My Mom read it's better to cut the grass longer. Can you explain? Can you keep me from getting any more buzzcuts?
I can't help you with those haircuts As you can see, I'm no style-setter myself Plus I'm the one who gives Bob the Bug his haircuts But I can help you with your lawn The answer is Yes, in most cases, it is better to cut your grass longer Research by Joe Rimelspach, an Ohio State scientist who studies the best ways to grow turfgrass, bears this out He found that cutting a lawn short almost always leads to more weeds—something most folks don't want—because a short lawn lets more sunlight reach the soil, and that helps weeds grow On the other hand, cutting the grass longer—say, two and a half to three inches high—makes for thicker turf and keeps most weeds from getting started. It's also nicer to play on! Short grass does have fewer diseases, but Joe says the diseases of longer grass tend to come and go and aren't too much of a problem So, let it grow—a bit longer, at least!
At length,
Twig

TRAIN OF THOUGHT

Historic Railroad Stays On Track

(NAPS)—For a trip back in time, many travelers say, a great place to start is the Pocono mountains of Pennsylvania.

In the early 1800s, Honesdale, PA was the center of the coal industry in the area. A gravity railroad was constructed to transport coal from the Lackawanna Valley, over the mountains and into the small-but-growing town where it was transferred to canal barge.

In 1828, a young engineer, Horatio Allen, went to England to commission a locomotive. In 1829, he floated back up the canal with what was to become known as the Stourbridge Lion. It was the first locomotive to travel on tracks in the United States, making Honesdale the birthplace of the American railroad.

Today, you can still ride those historic rails behind a 1949 BL-2 diesel locomotive, the only one of the 54 manufactured still operating. Five vintage cars follow as the train meanders along the shimmering Lackawaxen River.

Visitors to the birthplace of the American railroad say they can feel the history in the air—or maybe it's just the wind as the 50+-year-old-engine passes.

The Stourbridge Line Rail Excursion is now in its 21st year of operation and features Easter, Halloween, Christmas and Winterfest rides. Train Robbery Runs, complete with masked "robbers" depart on Sundays in summer. Other summertime specialty runs include Bavarian Festival and Dinner Theater and Rail and Raft. Autumn means Fall Foliage tours.

Each ride hugs the riverbank and affords views of the Poconos that can only be seen by riders on the Line. An accordion-playing "engineer" and two talented fiddlers help keep things lively.

For more information or to make the required reservations, call the Wayne County Chamber of Commerce at 800-433-9008, or log onto www stourbridgerail.com. From Fish To Fruit, Check Out Wedding Decorating Trends center," said Gingrich Shenk, who recommended placing the tiniest flowers at the most important points of the heart to get a crisp line, so the heart shape is not lost.

Besides carnations, roses could also be included in this type of arrangement. "Buy inexpensive roses and tickle them open. They're not as wimpy as you think they are," she said. "Put this in a breakfast room, or on a little side table. Use whatever flowers you have. Pack them in and make sure they're looking up. The charm of that is looking down on it."

Water candles are another decoration finding their way to reception halls this year. A simple small bowl with two hearts or polished rocks on the bottom, topped off with vegetable oil and a small amount of lavender oil, makes a candle when a plastic float and wick are placed on top. This type of candle will burn indefinitely.

Baby's breath, now back in vogue, provides a light look for summer arrangements. Bridesmaids, said Gingrich Shenk, could carry bouquets made of strictly baby's breath tied with a satin ribbon, then put in a vase at the reception for added embellishment. "The trend right now is to do just one flower, to use one flower and work it to death."

Put silk flower rings together for a sweet garden wedding, suggested Gingrich Shenk. "Notice that these bows are simple and not overdone. If you can tie a shoe you can do these bows. These ideas are so simple you can let the ushers do it."

To soften the fabric of silk flowers, allow a teapot to "get a good head of steam" then hold the flowers in the steam to open the flower or take care of wrinkles. "It will really bring them back to life just by steaming them."

A trip to a home improvement store may prove to be profitable for sophisticated arrangements. A sheet of lead or spool of soldering lead tied around the nub of a stem will hold a large lily at the bottom of a water-filled bowl. The water magnifies the lily for impact.

A taller vase filled with a longer plant will lend a different color and texture with the different containers contrasting each other. "It uses minimal flowers for maximum impact," she said. In addition, she suggested, try larger containers to put more flowers per container.

The flowers, fortunately, will last 4-5 days in their watery surroundings, but the water may become cloudy. Test the flowers ahead of time to make sure there is enough lead to keep the flower down, however.

The arrangement can be topped with tiny floating gel, colorless candles and surrounded by goblets with gel filling.

For a reception in a pavilion or wooded area, to "pull in the feel of the area," Gingrich Shenk placed river rocks at the bottom of a glass vase to hold a conglomeration of sticks which were tied together where the the branches met. Goldenrod lent a sunny, light look. The arrangment was accented by smaller yellow flowers also kept low and punctuated by roses. Glass butterflies topped off and gave life to the design.

Wedding decorators can "ride the wave of the trend of the year" by bringing a Beta fish arrangement to the table. Once the satisfactory size of container has been located, find a container to fit on top. To make a hole for the plant, carefully hold the heat of a lighter underneath until the plastic melts through to the desired size.

Wash the soil off of the roots and push them through the hole. Gingrich Shenk placed blue and heart pebbles at the bottom of the container. She recommended keeping one inch at the top between the lid holding the plant and the water for air for the fish. Babies breath placed in the plant put a finished look to the final arrangment.

Beautiful to Look at, Delightful to Eat

If your bridal shower includes a garden theme, or you plan to decorate with flowers, nature can make the best decorations.

Don't just adorn the table with flowers — use them to dress up the food, too. Try tulip petals, pansies, rosemary blossoms or chive blossoms in the salad, and candied violets or rose petals for a beautiful and delicate dessert garnish.

Make sure that the flowers you buy for eating have not been sprayed with pesticides — if you're not certain, just ask. To candy flowers, first give them a bath in cool water and allow them to dry completely. One at a time, dip the each flower in a bowl of egg white that's been beaten just until foamy.

Drop the coated flower into a bowl of superfine sugar, covering it completely, and then fish it out with a fork. Lay the flowers on wax paper, making sure they are not touching each other, and allow them to sit, uncovered, in a warm, dry place until completely firm and dry.

It's important not to put the violets in the refrigerator — the moisture will turn them into a sticky mess. You can store these delicacies in a tightly sealed container in a cool, dry place for up to two months.

Lancaster Society 14

Lancaster Society Farm Women 14 began the year by volunteering time on Jan. 4 to the General Hospital sewing room, where seven members completed or repaired many pieces.

Continuing four days later, gathered at the home of Ruth Kreider, sewing for Mennonite Central Committee preparing four newborn kits.Ellen Newswanger took members to Peru as she told about the trip she and Everett experienced as they enjoyed time with daughter Anne and her family.

On Feb. 14, at 10:30 a.m., Jean Groff opened her beautiful new home for the meeting place of the society. Roll call asked for a sharing "how do you keep occupied on cold winter days?"

Devotional was led by Esther Landis one of the hostess of the day along with Edna Groff. After refreshments at noon-time, a group formed a car-a-rama leaving to tour Donegal Industries of Mt. Joy.

March 21 meeting was special for those of the society who had lunch at Hershey Farms Restaurant then on to Living Waters for the great showing of Abraham and Sarah.

Another car-a-rama on Apr. 9 to visit Myerstown Evangelical School of Theology. It was quite a learning experience to hear archeological digs in the Holy Lands, and also a delightful meal experience at the Country Fare Restaurant.

Lancaster Society 18

Farm Women Society 18 held a meeting April 21 with Mae Weaver as hostess.

The Kissel View Bakery on Millport Road was the place the hostess chose as a place of interest to gather the members. The barn is only one of many interesting antique items to study and identify.

Toasted seeds were among the delicious and unusual refreshments served. Fifteen members answered roll call to the questions, "What do you see from your kitchen window?"

Anna Hess led devotions as Ruth Landis led the business meeting.

The program was a talk by Brenda Leaman. She had many Bible references linked to various events in her abundant life and people who influenced her along the way.

News was reported of several coming dates to mark on the year book. Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland will be the place for "The Spring Rally" on May 14. The sewing group at L.G.H. needs more linens. An event open to non-members is a one-day business trip, to Peddler's Village in Flemington, N.J. Seats are still available. Birthdays and then songs — "Brighten the Corner Where You Are" — preceded dismissal by the president.

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women Society 20 met Thurs., Apr. 5, at the United Methodist Church, Quarryville, when they entertained the Societies 9 and 15. Following the covered dish luncheon, there was a very interesting program. Judy Moyer played her bag pipe. She explained how it works and answered questions.

For the scripture, Nancy Rintz read Psalm 67 and the Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

Nancy had a short reading and Jean Ressel had a humorous one.

The vice president, Marie Foose, conducted the business meeting due to the president's illness. Helen Tout reported three get well cards, one thinking of you, and two birthday cards were sent.

Dorothy Eckman, Mary Shirk and Helen Tout will attend the Spring Rally May 16. Of three possibilities, members voted for Safe Kids, Hospice, and Disaster Relief.

Valaria Ferguson will attend the FFA. Barbara Stone was awarded her 90-year pin. Members are invited to attend Society 34's meeting.

The meeting closed by singing Brighten the Corner. At their next meeting, members will meet at Dieners at 11:30 for lunch.

Education, Farming Go Hand In Hand At Landis Valley

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Fifty acres of farmland is enough to keep anyone busy — especially if you host 50,000 visitors every year.

Aided by six volunteers, Joseph Meyer manages the farm property of Landis Valley Museum, the largest museum featuring Pennsylvania German rural history.

"Our purpose is to show the visitor the place of Pennsylvania German farmer in the development of American agriculture," said Meyer, farm manager at Landis Valley Museum.

The museum had its beginnings with the vision of two brothers, George and Henry Landis, both engineers, who became interested in preserving Pennsylvania Dutch culture.

They began buying artifacts such as wagons, barrels, baskets, early trowels, glass jars, and rifles from public auctions. Later they donated their home and surrounding properties that they had purchased, including an old auction barn, hotel, early commercial chicken house, farm house, feed mill, and dairy barn.

Pennsylvania German History

Lancaster County is where modern commercial agriculture began, according to Meyer.

"Early colonists basically used up the soil and left, going to the western part of the state," he said. "Then the Germans came in after the 30 Years' War. They were very individualistic, self-sufficient, and learned how to make sustainable agriculture principles work. They built the land back up and helped make it what it is today."

The typical barn, for example, in contrast to the free-range cattle of England during the same time, stabled cows and horses. In addition the manure was collected and spread where it was needed for proper field pH.

Crop rotation and seed selection, also important to agriculture, are principles from the Pennsylvania Germans.

"The people that came from the Swiss German border seem to have an aptitude for technology," he said. According to Meyer they weren't afraid of using technology while at the same time being careful not to connect to the world.

"They also had a big concern for breed and crop improvement," said Meyer.

New addition to the farm, "Emma," and mother "Laurie," Tunis sheep, nuzzle up to the fence. Joseph Meyer, Landis Valley Museum farm manager, stands in the background.

This Lineback heifer, a sure crowd-pleaser, was born on the farm last year.

When students crank a refurbished corn sheller, said Meyer, they "feel what work is. We let them experience farming."

One example of breed improvement combined with a penchant for accepting change is the Conestoga horse. The breed was developed here but eventually became extinct with the addition of imported draft horse pedigrees in the bloodlines.

Another contribution to today's agriculture is the Lancaster Surecrop corn variety, grown at the fields at Landis Valley, which Meyer said revolutionized corn production in the country.

When the strain became popular, boosted by attention from news articles, the corn became the basis of many modern hybrids.

"We hand-select the seed, judging the size of the ear, the type of kernel, and the strength of the stem to narrow the genetic base and end up with a consistent corn crop," said Meyer.

Farm Crop Production

Other varieties grown at the museum include rye, which is harvested to demonstrate rye basketmaking and thatching.

Tobacco, the first major cash crop for Lancaster families, will also be grown, said Meyer. "Tobacco money paid for stone houses, barns, hired help, and farm improvements. It is historically an important crop."

The hemp plant, used in rope making, is another plant important to Lancaster's past. Meyer plans to grow a low-THC variety in the future and add hemp-processing machines to show how the plant becomes rope.

Other acreage goes toward seed production. Warranting several acres is the "Ariane" fiber flax variety, which is only available at Landis Valley Museum. A two- to three-acre pumpkin patch also takes up additional room on the farm.

"The primary goal of the farm program is to interpret agriculture during the various periods and teach the visitor," he said.

Three farm periods are exhibited at the museum. The colonial period, with little technology and crude machinery, is represented along with the time period from colonial times up until 1910, when early machinery began to change the face of agriculture.

The period of commercial agriculture from 1900-1940 is an exhibit in the works as Meyer hopes to display the farm store, intact feed mill, and brick-based wooden stanchion dairy which are already on the museum's property.

"It is three different periods with different method of farming and machinery — all based on the same philosophy," said Meyer. The Pennsylvania Germans were good stewards of the soil, he said, and known for their frugality, hard work, and constant improvement.

The farm's draft horses are an educational tool. "Kids can pet and feel how sweaty they get whenever they work. They also realize how big they are," said Meyer.

Livestock Also A Tool For Teaching

An Ayrshire and Lineback cow allow more than 10,000 students a year to see firsthand where milk comes from.

Traditionally, Pennsylvania Germans utilized dual-purpose breeds such as the Milking Shorthorn. Besides students who may get a chance to milk a cow, participants in the museum's cooking classes may also visit the cows.

Tunis sheep, brought to Pennsylvania in the 1780s from Tunesia, also reside on the farm. George Washington ordered from Pennsylvania several animals of the hardy breed, known for its exceptional meat flavor, to improve his flock at Mount Vernon.

During the civil war, soldiers ate the sheep, making the breed now rare. "This is one way we can help preserve the past," said Meyer. "It also has Pennsylvania history, and I like that."

Beginning in the 1840s, draft horses began coming to Lancaster "pretty heavily," said Meyer. The farm's Percherons and Clydesdales are used to plow, take students on wagon rides, harvest the various crops, and mow and rake hay.

"Kids can pet and feel how sweaty the horses get whenever they work. They also realize how big they are," he said.

Farm Equipment

Restoring farm equipment is a part of any farm, and this operation is no exception. Restored bobsleds, manure spreaders, and wagons that show signs of rust await a fresh coat of bright colors, since "Pennsylvania Germans wouldn't have rusty equipment around and were not shy about color."

When students crank a refurbished corn sheller, said Meyer, they "feel what work is. We let them experience farming."

One of the most important aspect of the students' visit to the museum's farm is the wagon rides, said Meyer.

"After they get off the ride, things connect. They feel how a horse pulls, that they have a temperament, and that they need to eat so things connect better when they see the corn in the fields or the equipment."

The museum is open mid-March through December and is located two and a half miles north of Lancaster on Rt. 272.

Immunize — It's A Matter Of Love

National Immunization Week, April 22-28, reminds parents that immunization is a matter of love. Having infants immunized on time, every time, protects them from serious illness and even death. At a Lancaster clinic, Jazmine Rivera holds her four-month-old sister, Danile, who is being immunized with Hib, polio, hepatitis, and pneumococcal vaccines. Beth Costelo, R.N., supplies the preventive health care. Danile's mother is at left.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Today wraps up the weeklong observance of National Infant Immunization Week.

Immunize — It's a Matter of Love, the theme, reminds parents of the need to physically protect children from serious illnesses through immunization.

Almost one million children in the U.S. have not been fully immunized. This puts them at risk for serious illness, and even death, from vaccine-preventable diseases.

Vaccines are one of the most effective tools available for the prevention of serious illness of infectious diseases.

Immunization fights 11 vaccine-preventable diseases. The level of vaccine-preventable diseases such as diphtheria, measles, and polio, has been reduced by at least 97 percent since the introduction of vaccines.

These diseases caused tremendous suffering and death a generation ago and still pose a threat. If immunization coverage rates drop, the diseases have the potential to again cause nationwide devastation.

Immunizations are extremely safe, thanks to ongoing research. Children are far more likely to be harmed by serious infectious diseases than the side effects of immunization.

Lancaster County marked the National Immunization Week by distributing informational bags to all parents of newborns from April 22-28.

The information included a pledge card for parents to agree to have their infant immunized on time — every time.

Those who signed the pledge were eligible for a drawing. Awards included several gift certificates to area restaurants and presents for the newborn.

The Lancaster County Imunization Coalition is a not-for-profit group of professionals whose goal is to improve immunization rates and immunization awareness.

The coalition, which includes nurse practitioners, physicians, nurses, pharmaceutical representatives, and other health professionals, promotes care through primary care providers. Additionally the coalition works to monitor the immunization status of every child and adult.

The coalition meets monthly and invites visitors to the meetings conducted the third Wednesday of each month from 8 a.m.-9:30 a.m. at the LGH Health Campus/Wellness Center, Harrisburg Pike, Lancaster. For more information, call Michelle Hargraves, (717) 290-3144.

Make sure your child has been fully immunized. Check with your primary care physician for more information on immunization.

Meyersdale FFA Honors Randy Bussard

Meyersdale Area High School principal, Randy Bussard, center, on Monday night was named an honorary member of the Meyersdale FFA. The award was presented by Heath Lohr, Meyersdale FFA president, at left. Bussard is also joined by his wife, Wanda. They live in Berlin and have two children, Alexis, 14 and Jared, 8. "I feel very honored this award was chosen by the students," Bussard said.

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The Meyersdale FFA voted to make Randy Bussard its latest honorary member and on Monday, April 23, at the Meyersdale FFA Parent-Member Banquet, made the presentation to the surprised principal of the Meyersdale Area High School.

"I feel very honored that this award is chosen by the students" Bussard told the 200 guests and members. He reported that he almost opted not to attend the dinner because it conflicted with an important church meeting.

His wife, Wanda and their children Alexis, 14, and Jared, 8, accompanied Bussard.

Four Meyersdale FFA members who made a strong showing in the county will advance to the Western Pennsylvania Regional FFA Public Speaking Contest on May 2. They are Crystal Shifflett who was first in creed speaking in Somerset County; Heath Lohr, first in extemporaneous speaking; Shauna Porter, third in extemporaneous speaking, and Jen Decker, third in senior prepared speaking.

In the county small gasoline engines contest, the team of Heath Lohr and Jonathan Henry was awarded second place. Individually, in county competition Heath Lohr scored second highest on the written test.

Tim Emerick was awarded for participating in the tractor driving contest.

In county FFA basketball Meyersdale FFA placed first with the team of Chris Lepley, Krystal Mishler, Fred Werner, Megan Murray, Stacey Miller, Conrad Tressler, Jarrod Murray, Tom Shaffer, Brandon Stern, and Shauna Porter. Mike Cook was a volunteer.

Josh Slifco was awarded for community development and Shauna Porter, also the Meyersdale FFA Sweetheart, awarded in wildlife.

The ag sales award went to Jarrod Murray. In agronomy, Mark Lowery was the highest.

Stacey Miller was the champion in ag salesmanship in both flower bulbs and citrus fruit. Class winners from grade 11 were Deb Faner, Michelle Petenbrink; Norman Coberly, grade 10; Jonathan Henry, Matt Troutman, from grade 9: and Bobby Sanner, grade 8.

FFA senior members who maintained honor roll status were Shauna Porter, Heath Lohr, Jen White, Elizabeth Porter and Stacey Miller. Juniors were Jen Decker, Megan Murray and Sara Hoover; Jarrod Miller, sophomore and freshmen Mark Lowery, Jonathan Henry, Shawn Troutman, Julie Weimer and Crystal Shifflett.

Retiring officer plaques were awarded to Heath Lohr chapter president; Josh Slifco, vice-president; Stacey Miller, reporter and Shauna Porter, secretary.

Other officers are Sara Hoover, treasurer; Jarrod Murray, chaplain; Tom Shaffer, parliamentarian; Shawn Troutman, sentinel, Bobby Gomer, historian and Norman Coberly, student advisor.

During the evening guests also heard the Crystal Shifflett recite the FFA Creed from memory and a special award was presented to Heidi Knopsnyder.

The chapter advisor is Jim Stutzman.

You ask ou

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

ANSWER — Shirley Anderson, Plainfield, wanted to know where to buy whole dried peas. Thanks to Sara Singley, Lewistown, for writing that apart from the dried split peas, the only place she found that carried the whole dried peas is Weis Markets.

ANSWER — In answer to David Sensenig's question about how to handle kid goats that jump into feeders, a reader from Ephrata writes that creep feeders may curb, but not solve, the problem. The reader would be glad to discuss this with Mr. Sensenig and others who are interested in raising goats by contacting (717)733-4269. I

On Mother's Day Pay Tribute To The Women In Your Life

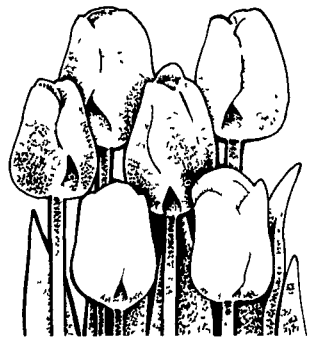
Do you have fond memories of a dish your mother or grandmother prepared? Perhaps your wife's or your mother-in-law's cooking wins rave reviews from your perspective.

Mother's Day is the perfect time to remember the women who play an important role in your life. One of the best ways to show your appreciation is by participating in the "Tribute To Mothers" printed in Lancaster Farming, May 12.

Send in a recipe and a few paragraphs about the person who prepares or who did prepare some of your favorite dishes. We can even print a picture to accompany the recipe if you include a clear photograph.

Be sure to include your name and your relationship to the person you are honoring. Include your full address with any photographs you want returned.

Submissions must be received by May 7. Send to Mother's Day Tribute, Attention: Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, 1 E. Main St., Ephrata, PA 17522.



Maryland DHIA Report For March

The March Dairy Herd Improvement information for dairy herds from the DHI processing center in Provo, Utah. The list includes herds from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. The information is listed by herd name, county association, number of cows in the herd and the average production per cow in the herd based on Energy Corrected Milk (ECM). ECM combines milk production and components.

The ECM formula is: (7.2 x lbs. protein) + (12.95 x lbs. fat) + (.327 x lbs. milk). To be included, the herd must have 10 cows averaging 65 pounds or more of ECM per cow, per day. All herds reported are on official DHI or DHIR test. Also listed are the top 10 herds in Maryland for the Brown Swiss, Guernseys, and Jerseys, and the top seven herds for Ayrshires.

DOES SUSTAINABLE FORESTRY PAY?

Rance Harmon
Extension Associate

One goal of sustainable forestry is to ensure that future generations have the same availability of forest resources as we have today. Sustainable forestry practices provide timber while protecting wildlife habitat, water quality, and a host of other benefits. However, Penn State Extension Forester Michael Jacobson insists that: "The key element in making sustainable forestry feasible is its affordability to the landowner."

To help private landowners decide if it is economically feasible to practice sustainable forestry, Dr. Jacobson wrote Sustainable Forest Harvesting: An Economic Perspective. The six-page publication is the first in the new "Forest Finance" series available from the Penn State Cooperative Extension.

In Sustainable Forest Harvesting, Jacobson compares the financial value of a forest stand subjected to two different harvesting techniques: diameter-limit-cutting and crown thinning. The first technique, diameter-limit-cutting, involves harvesting all of the marketable trees over a given diameter. The technique takes the biggest and best trees from the forest and leaves the rest behind. Diameter-limit-cutting provides an immediate economic return to the landowner, but tends to degrade the forest and its resources.

Best Management Practices for Pennsylvania Forests — a set of guidelines developed by a consensus among natural resource professionals, forest landowners, scientists, and representatives from forest industries and environmental organizations — specifically cautions against diameter-limit-cutting. Nonetheless, diameter-limit-cutting is a common practice in the Commonwealth.

In contrast to diameter-limit-cutting, crown thinning focuses on improving growing conditions for the trees that remain in the forest after the harvest. Crown thinning helps increase the quality, growth-rate, disease resistance, and vigor of the remaining trees. Thus, crown thinning is seen as a valid, sustainable practice.

So, what about the bottom-line for the landowner? Sustainable Forest Harvesting provides evidence that crown thinning can provide higher sawtimber yields, more high-value sawlogs, and greater financial returns over time than an unsustainable, diameter-limit-cutting technique.

Jacobson urges landowners to think about the many benefits that forests provide when choosing how to manage their lands. Unsustainable harvest techniques, such as diameter-limit-cutting, can reduce the forest's overall vitality and compromise its ability to provide income in the future. In contrast, sustainable practices can yield healthy forests that provide enhanced wildlife habitat, recreation, and biological diversity, while reserving future management options and economic potential. Jacobson advises forestland owners to "consult a natural resource professional before making any important decisions, such as a timber harvest."

The Pennsylvania Forest Stewardship Program — sponsored by the Pennsylvania Bureau of Forestry and the USDA Forest Service — provide private forestland owners with information and assistance to promote healthy and productive forests. Congressional Staff Urge Farmers To Get Involved

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Key staffers from the U.S. House and Senate spoke to participants at the annual National Farmers Union (NFU) Convention about the importance of getting involved in the debate over the next federal Farm Bill.

The blue ribbon panel warned that constraints on agricultural spending will make the battle over future Farm Bill priorities more difficult. Given the limited budget available for agriculture programs, farmers and ranchers were encouraged to vocally support their priorities to members of Congress.

"The key issue this year is baseline, baseline, baseline," said Ann Simmons, professional staff member on the House Agriculture Committee's minority staff.

Simmons and other members of the panel emphasized that the baseline, or the annual budget for farm program spending, must be increased to adequately fund the next Farm Bill. USDA Economic Research Service (ERS) recently predicted that net farm income in 2001 will be at the lowest level since 1995. The panel agreed that future farm policy must aim to lift the agricultural economy out of the depression it has experienced over the last several years.

Keith Luse, majority staff director to the Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry, acknowledged that farmers and ranchers face a complex set of challenges today. He and other members of the panel discussed a range of issues that affect farmers, including farm price, trade, agricultural consolidation, conservation, food safety, and other issues.

"As important as the Farm Bill is, we can't lose sight of the ongoing programs at USDA," said Roger Szemraj, chief of staff for Rep. Marcy Kaptur, D-Ohio. "We need to work for adequate funds for all of them."

Galen Fountain, clerk and counsel for the Senate Agriculture, Rural Development and Related Agencies Subcommittee, said, "Major decisions will soon be made to determine the distribution of limited federal resources. Agriculture interests must make clear the need for direct farm support, but, also, research dollars, conservation programs, and rural development."

Berks Historical Society Exhibits Fraktur Collection

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

READING (Berks Co.) — Fraktur is a style of lettering originating in the 15th century and brought to America by German immigrants.

The elaborate lettering, similar to Old English Gothic, embellished with artwork, flourished from 1750-1850 in Berks County. German families often had baptismal and birth certificates inked with a quill pen by schoolmasters, scriveners, and itinerant artists.

An exhibit of major pieces selected from the permanent collection of 500 pieces owned by the Historical Society of Berks County will be displayed for the first time, starting today through Sept. 22.

Frakturs have fascinated Richard and Rosemarie Machmer since they purchased their first one at an auction 40 years ago.

"We were lucky," Machmer said. "We became acquainted with major collectors and dealers of frakturs explain what to look for in a fraktur."

The earliest frakturs were done with block printing. Decorations varied, sometimes with elaborate plumes added to birds or a peacock's eye hidden in a women's full skirt. The decorations have no hidden meaning and were done for artistics purposes only.

Signed frakturs are considered more valuable. Machmer has become so well acquainted with each Berks County artist's style that he is able to discern who made the piece even if it isn't signed.

Following the Revolutionary War, printed forms became available and helped expedite production. Most of these printed forms came from Reading, which probably accounts for the area's prolific fraktur artists such as Friederich Krebs, who is said to have purchased 7,000 printed forms.

Some of the well-known names on frakturs can be attributed to itinerant artists such as Krebs. Written records reveal that in some cases, these itinerant artists traveled as much as 20 miles to a client's home, where for 15 cents the artist "fraktured" names in the family Bible and finished a birth certificate. Sometimes the itinerants also received a meal and overnight lodging.

Spelling rules were lax. Most people used phonetics by spelling names by the way they sound, sometimes with different spellings on the same certificate.

Records of birth and baptism were considered personal possessions. When a blanket chest or "dower" was given to a young woman, her certificate was often pasted inside the lid. The practice of framing them probably evolved during the Victorian Era.

Most of the frakturs were lettered in German before the 1900s. Machmer knows of a fraktur that sold for $109,000, but more common ones, dated between 1850-1918, sell for $50-$250 each. However, the collection on exhibit is not for sale.

Richard Machmer points to a rare fraktur, a birth certificate of Elisabeth Schwoyer born in 1806 and lettered in 1807.

Constantin Deininger (1833-1871) had a more limited amount of work done because he did not travel outside the city. Frakturs done by Francis D. Levan are considered the most collectible. They are the most colorful and "zaniest" for their elaborate artistic touches, especially with angel forms.

Works by Deininger, Levan, and other artists are included in the exhibit.

The Machmers have helped organize several other displays of Pennsylvania German antiques with the Berks County Historical Society.

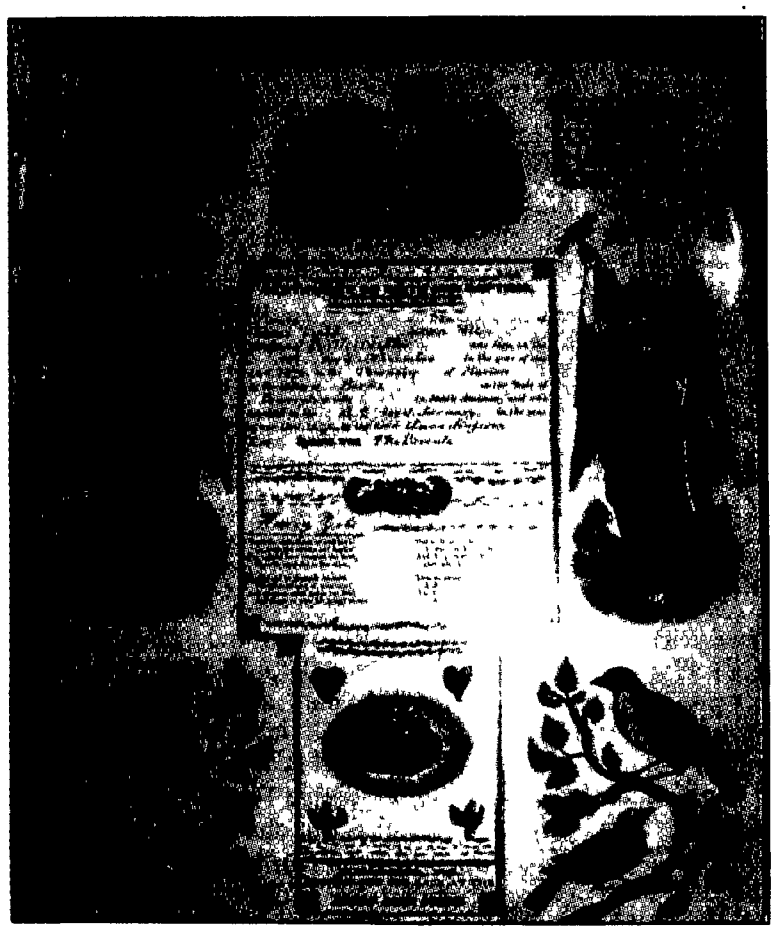
"The Society has more than 500 pieces of Frakturs that have never seen the light of day," Machmer said. "We wanted to coordinate an exhibit so that others could appreciate these wonderful pieces."

Frakturs, Machmer believes, have helped preserve typical designs and dialect of Pennsylvania German folk ark. Many of the same motifs also appear on tombstones, painted furniture, slipware, toleware, and barn signs.

Machmer slips easily into the Pennsylvania German dialect. He explains that the colorful manuscripts are mostly "geburts" and "taufscheine" (birth and baptismal certificates.

A beautifully illustrated catalog with historical accounts of 30 of the most unusual frakturs is available for $15 from the Historical Society of Berks County, 940 Centre Ave., Reading, PA 19601.

The exhibit is open, at the above address, Tuesday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information, call (610) 375-4375.



This fraktur was printed in English in 1874. The form was purchased from Reading Eagle Bookstore and hand-lettered and embellished by a "scrivener."

Fraktur Workshop

On Sat., June 9, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., the Historical Society of Berks County is sponsoring an adult fraktur workshop taught by nationally known fraktur artist Ruthanne Kramer Hartung.

Used in record keeping by Pennsylvania Germans, each piece of fraktur became a functional as well as decorative expression of early settlers' daily life, recording personal events such as births and baptisms and marriages and as well as community events.

During the all-day workshop, participants will learn basic letter form and then personalize their project with motifs of their own design.

A tour of the exhibit, "Frakturs of Berks County," as well as a box lunch, is included in the $30 fee.

Each participant will also receive a 10-page worksheet handout, and reference materials will be provided. Some material must be purchased beforehand.

Call Vicky Heffner, education curator, at (610) 375-4375 if you have any questions.

Figural Clocks Amuse And Amaze

Figural or novelty clocks have been delighting adults and children ever since they were first made in the 17th century. Their popularity reached its peak in the 19th century when they were mostly made in France. However, they were also produced in England and Switzerland.

These days, we associate figural clocks with Disney characters and kitchen wall clocks in the shape of teapots and chefs' heads. They are often not only humorous, but wonders of creativity.

The most famous novelty clock is the "mystery" clock. Hundreds of them have been made since their introduction in the second half of the 19th century. Usually, they have a brass figure atop a marble base that holds up a pendulum that mysteriously swings without any visible support from the clock mechanism. The spring-driven movement in most cases is inside the base. Depending on quality and maker they can sell at auction for more than $7,000.

Among the rarest novelty clocks are those with complicated calendars and globes. Not only do they show hours and minutes, but calendar and astronomical information in unique settings. Because of the work involved in their mechanisms few were made. In good condition, they can sell at auction in the thousands of dollars.

According to Miller's Price Guide, the picture clock was one of the most inventive of the novelty clocks made in the 19th century. "The movement was concealed behind a painted canvas, the dial appearing through a hole, usually placed in a church tower. "It thus formed part of the picture. They can sell at auction for $3,000 to $5,000 or more.

Among the most charming are the automaton clocks, made by Swiss or French makers. Figures often moved in a variety of scenes. Rocking ships, turning windmills, and people with horses are the most common. Originally, they were covered with glass domes to protect the scenery. Another type had a figure of a bird or animal mounted on a base that held the works, with a dial on top. The birds wings flapped or the animal moved when the hour was struck. The most famous is the Great Clock of Strasbourg Cathedral that has a procession of gods to show the days of the week and a parade of apostles and a crowing cock announcing the noon hour daily.

Figurals of fat men, black and white, and dogs with dials mounted in their stomachs were popular in the early 20th century. At a recent Skinner auction, a bronze elephant with ivory tusks had an enameled dial mounted in the gilt-metal howdah on its back. It was estimated between $2,500 to $3,500.

The whimsical "blinking eye" clock was originally made in Germany in the 17th century. Eyes connected to the escapement or a human or animal figure, moved with each unlocking of the lever. The clocks continued to be made in America in the mid-19th century.

Clues: There are plenty of affordable novelty clocks made in the 1930s, 40s and 50s that have a good investment future. Look for stylized wall clocks in the form of musical instruments, such as guitars and ukeleles, originally sold in Montgomery Ward catalogs, made of painted pot metals. Clocks with the faces and figures of cartoon characters. An animated Bugs Bunny wind-up alarm made in the late 1950s would be a real find. Bugs chewed on a carrot every other second. In 1948, the Haddon Products Company made a pressed wood mantel clock, "Home Sweet Home." An illuminated granny figure rocked the seconds.

Another flea market possibility is known as the "Kate Smith God Bless America Clock." Made of inexpensive pressed-metal, with the Statue of Liberty, and the words "God Bless America" on the bottom, a flag on the top. As it runs, the stars and stripes continually rotate.

Snyder County Historical Society Summer Activities

MIDDLEBURG (Snyder Co.) — The Snyder County Historical Society readies the building at 30 E. Market Street, Middleburg, for summer activities. Each Sunday starting on May 6 and ending Sept. 30, tour guides will be on hand at the Society building from 1:30 p.m.-5 p.m. for the public to visit the Society library and view exhibits in the new museum, Civil War Room, and the Society's auditorium. Admission is free.

In addition, the first Sunday of each month will feature a special 30 minute demonstration at 2 p.m. May 6, the first demonstration for the season, will feature Ruth Roush from Selinsgrove. As a very skilled crafts person, she will be discussing the history of rug hooking, demonstrating how it is done, and showing examples of her work which includes hooked pictures, purses, wall hangings, and pillow tops.

Roush started her acquired talent by reading how it is done from a book. She later attended adult education classes in Washington, D.C. where she refined her skills and has been enjoying making numerous items for the past 40 years.

When first moving to the area, Roush and her husband became involved with the County Historical Society when it was still located at Susquehanna University. They both worked together assisting in building a stronger society. Ruth Roush has served the society in many leadership capacities including president for a three year term, and continues to serve as a volunteer and as editor of the annual bulletin for the past several years. She also assists with the newsletter, which is mailed to more than 1,500 members of the society.

For further information about the programs at the Society building, call (570) 837-6191 on Thursday or Friday from 10 a.m.-3:30 p.m. library is open for historical research.

I have a Victorian oil lamp with only the base hand painted. The oil well is marked J.D. Boyd & Co.

L.M.-Bloomsburg, Pa.

The Boyd Company was one of the many 19th century makers of oil lamps in America. With all original parts in good condition, your lamp could have a shop price of $350-$450.

Does the design on this blue and white throw textile give a clue to its origin? There is a large central, floral-type motif surrounded by Oriental men on horseback. It has been in the family since the late 19th century.

From the various border and central motif your throw appears to be Chinese. Unfortunately you didn't mention whether it is silk. However, from your photo what you have is a type of weaving known as K'o ssu or silk tapestry work. Similar examples can sell at auction for several thousand dollars. Send a good photo, measurements and condition c/o Asian Textiles Expert, Sotheby's, 1334 York Avenue, New York 10021.

I have seven Elvis Presley record albums 33s, never removed from original casings. Range from 1958 to 1971. How can I get an idea of value?

Child's Fraktur Workshop

On Sat., June 23, from 10 a.m. to noon, the Historical Society of Berks County is sponsoring a fraktur workshop in connection with our new exhibit, "Berks County Frakturs."

Used in record keeping by Pennsylvania Germans, each piece of fraktur had a purpose such as recording personal events like births and baptisms and marriages. They were then used to decorate the home.

For only $4 ($3 for 1776 Club members), children ages 7 to 14 will make a fraktur birth certificate, learning basic lettering, and personalizing it with a motif of their own design. (Remember to bring with you your date of birth, what time you were born, and where you were born.)

PUBLIC AUCTION

LANCASTER COUNTY CARRIAGE AND ANTIQUE AUCTION

THURS., JULY 19, 2001 • 8:30 AM

To be held in Lancaster County, PA on the Elam Petersheim farm at 201-A Belmont Road, Gordonville, PA, one mile south of Intercourse.

WANTED Good clean consignments including: Carriages, buggies, sleighs, wagons, good antique items, blacksmith tools, new and used tools and equipment. Any horse and Carriage related items, wheels, poles, shafts, lamps, books, china, harness, saddles and tack.

NO JUNK, APPLIANCES, OR FARM EQUIPMENT Except antique and primitive items like old hay wagons, walking plows, etc.

Consignments will be accepted Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 16, 17 and 18, 2001.

Plan now to attend this interesting Country Auction which will be held in a relaxed farm setting. Last year we had a nice selection of merchandise including approximately 70 vehicles, lots of carriage and driving related items and lots of antique tools, collectibles, etc. There were two auctioneers selling all day. There was lots and lots of delicious homemade food and ice cream sold which benefited a local cause.

If you plan on consigning any carriages, please notify us well in advance so we can have at least a partial listing on hand when people call to inquire what carriages will be sold. There will be no catalog, but maybe a pictured flyer if response is good and time allows.

We will need your support to make this auction a success!

We wish to extend a heart-felt thanks to everyone that supported this event last year as it were, some by consigning, some by purchasing and a lot of you just by being there!!

Mycogen Seeds Integrated With Cargill Hybrid Seeds

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Strategic consolidation and marketing and distribution planning for the 2001 growing season are well under way at Mycogen Seeds, following its acquisition of Cargill Hybrid Seeds from Cargill, Inc., which was finalized on Oct. 31, 2000.

Mycogen Seeds, an affiliate of Dow AgroSciences, acquired all seed research, production and distribution assets of Cargill Hybrid Seeds in the United States, widening the overall marketing, research, production, distribution capabilities and product lineup of the company.

"We're consolidating the best people, products, technologies, and research and production facilities from both companies," said Pete Siggelko, global leader, plant genetics and biotechnology, Dow AgroSciences. "We're excited to be able to provide growers with even greater innovation and a more well-rounded product offering."

The Cargill Hybrid Seeds integration makes Mycogen the nation's third largest seed corn producer, the largest sunflower seed producer, and a major force in other crops including silage corn, soybeans, alfalfa and sorghum.

According to Mycogen officials, the acquisition will not affect the sales, service or distribution of seed products from Cargill Hybrid Seeds and Mycogen Seeds during the 2000-2001 sales season.

"Unifying the companies is consistent with the objective to selectively expand Mycogen's retail seed presence in support of our plants to market insect resistance traits and other biotechnology products," said Siggelko. "This move complements Dow AgroSciences' goal of value growth through mergers, acquisitions and alliances, as well as our new product development efforts."

Tim Kroenke, local business unit leader for Mycogen Seeds, explained that while extending the distribution network, the merger also will strengthen the company's product offering and improve the genetic base from which new technologies will be launched.

"Mycogen was one of the pioneers with biotechnology in agriculture," said Kroenke. "Now, more than ever, we bring value to the seed industry as a leader in insect resistance traits, value-added grains and other biotechnology products."

In addition to biotech, Mycogen's product line also showcases a strong portfolio of conventional seed products.

"We hold leadership positions in conventional silage corn and proprietary food grade corn hybrids," said Kroenke.

Tom Wiltrout, global business leader, corn, soybeans and sorghum for Dow AgroSciences, emphasized the commitment Dow AgroSciences has to offering growers a balanced mix of crop protection solutions and value-added output traits.

"Our goal is to maximize value and provide farmers profitable crop options," said Wiltrout. "We believe today's technology is a viable way for growers to feed the world's growing population."

Propylene Glycol, Niacin And B-Vitamin Supplements Effective Against Ketosis

KNAPP, Wis. — Keto-Nia Fresh™ Gel and Agri Plus Keto-Nia Drench™ are effective products in the battle against Ketosis. Both products cut losses associated with Ketosis by providing energy and boosting the appetite of fresh cows.

These Vets Plus Ketosis products are loaded with Propylene Glycol for an energy source; Niacin, which is needed to metabolize energy, and B-vitamins, which stimulate the animal's appetite. Each 300-cc tube of Keto-Nia Fresh™ contains 275 grams of propylene glycol and nine grams of Niacin; while each 200 ml dose of Agri Plus Keto-Nia Drench™ provides 11,500 mg of Niacin as well as propylene glycol.

Vets Plus Ketosis products quickly replenish depleted energy levels to prevent the use of ketone bodies as an energy source. Cows with depleted energy levels are more susceptible to Ketosis and become labor intensive, increasing overall costs. Vets Plus Ketosis products save time and money by helping to prevent Ketosis; although they are also effective on cows already showing clinical signs.

Keto-Nia Fresh™ Gel and Agri Plus Keto-Nia Drench™ are all natural and require no withholding.

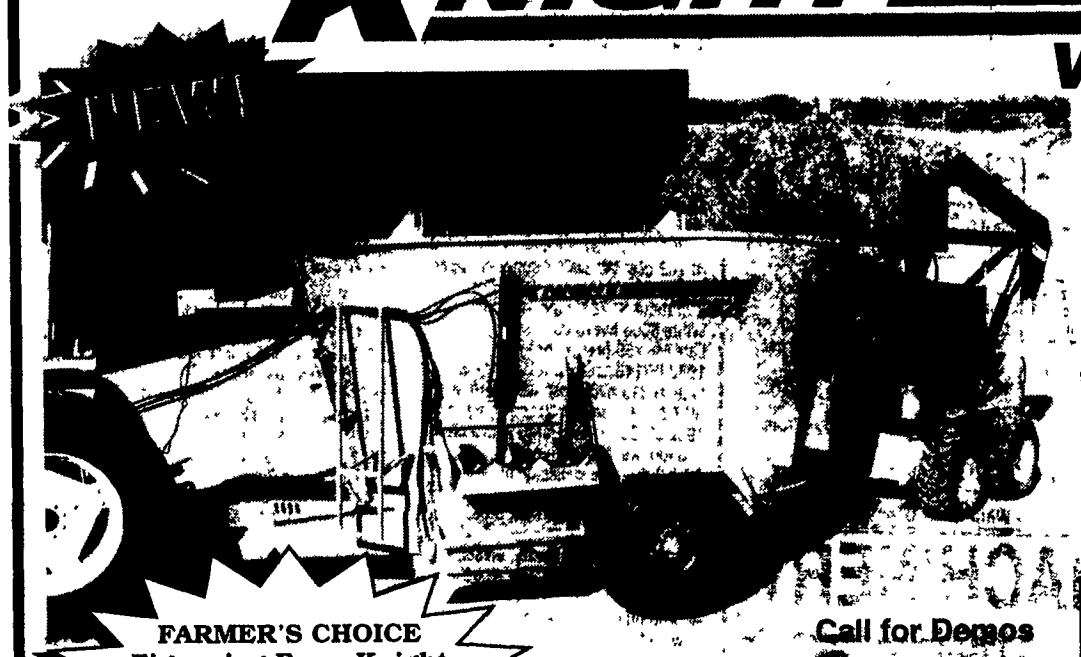
KNIGHT



Verti-Maxx™ Mixers

Introducing Models 5042 and 5060
420 and 600 cubic feet

The new Knight Verti-Maxx is the most innovative vertical mixer ever built. Its exclusive design features a simpler drive system, a lower loading height, and delivers a more consistent, thorough mix with faster processing time, all at a competitive price. The Verti-Maxx twin augers and bull gear drive provide the best performance, dependability and value in the industry, day in and day out. Check out these features and benefits:

- The Verti-Maxx vertical mixer mixes the widest variety of feedstuffs, including large round bales, large square bales, and baleage.
- Twin augers provide faster material movement and a thorough mixing action.
- Twin auger design also provides a lower loading height for easier loading.

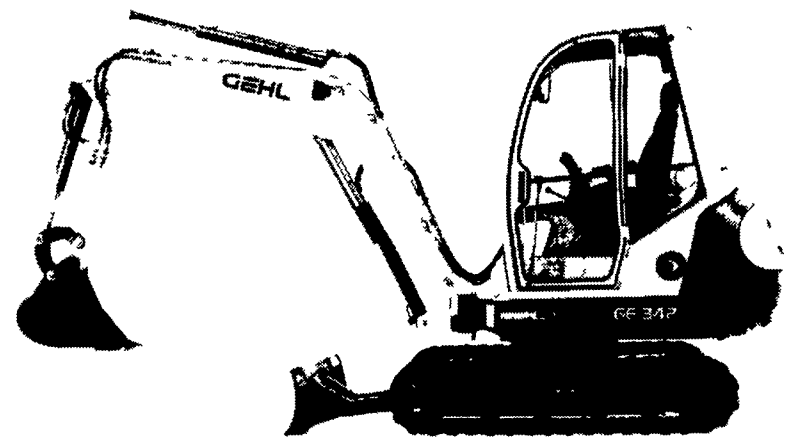
CLIMB IN...STRAP IN...AND DIG IN – WITH THE ALL NEW LINE OF EXCAVATORS FROM GEHL!



When excavating your job site you need it all – digging power, maneuverability, operator comfort and visibility Together they add up to maximum productivity, and that's what you get with the new line of Gehl excavators Designed to be extremely user-friendly, Gehl excavators bring together a total package of precise performance and convenience features previously not found on excavators of this size

For over 25 years Gehl skid loaders and Dynalift® telescopic handlers have been earning a reputation for rugged reliability, performance and style Gehl's new excavator line continues that tradition by delivering an outstanding return for your equipment investment.

GEHL Let's talk job site productivity

Twelve Gehl excavator models from 1.4 to 8 tons. Horsepower ranging from 14 to 62 with digging depths from 6'10" to 14'5" Dozer blades, a two-speed drive system and rubber tracks standard equipment with steel tracks optional. All models feature Gehl Force Hydraulics – an advanced high-output hydraulic system that allows simultaneous multiple hydraulic functions without loss of power or speed. Auxiliary hydraulic couplers for operating attachments also standard

Gehl excavators lead the way in product innovation, performance and reliability. Ask your dealer for a demonstration and see for yourself what it's like to operate the best.

GEHL COMPACT EXCAVATORS DELIVER BIG EXCAVATOR FEATURES AND PERFORMANCE.

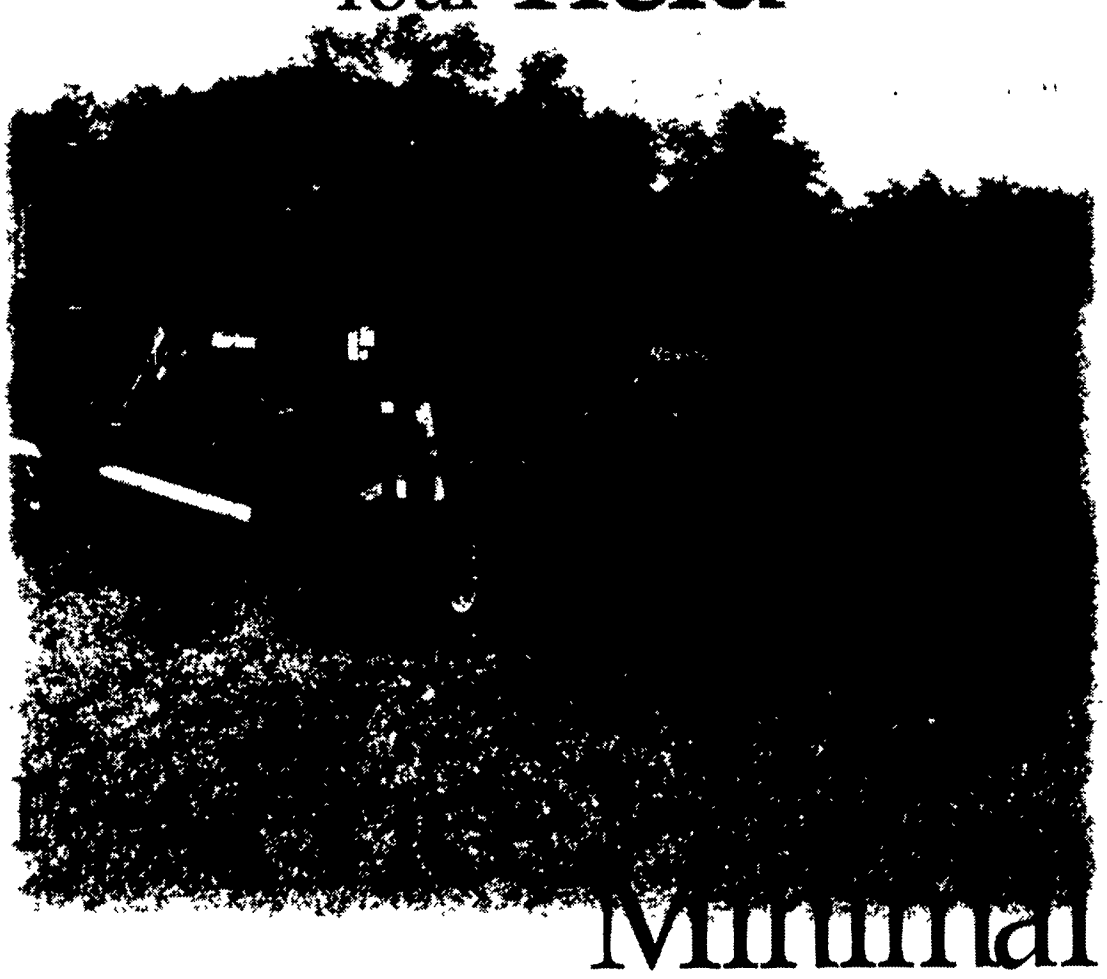
Maximize Your Yield Potential



Minimal

When it comes to improving Relative Feed Value and maximizing the Crude Protein in hay, nothing outperforms the New Idea® 5209 Disc Mower Conditioner. Its high-speed disc cutterbar glides through fields with ease, even in extreme conditions. And the unique Ti-Cor® Conditioning Rolls gently condition the stems, speeding drydown.

The 5209's reliable design keeps you mowing and conditioning year after year. With the segmented cutterbar driveshaft, a New Idea innovation, the cutterbar is truly modular, which makes for easy maintenance.

To see the disc mower conditioner that'll exceed your expectations — not your budget, visit your AGCO® New Idea dealer today.

The Highest Resale Value and the Best Financing

Before You Buy a New Tractor, Know Where the Resale Values are Headed

When it comes to resale values, the MX Series Magnum™ Tractor leads the way.* It's easy to understand why. The value is built in from day one. It's the most powerful row crop tractor ever tested, with the highest hitch lift capacity and draw bar horsepower ever offered. And it boasts the largest, quietest cab in the industry.

CASE IH

The Standard By Which All Discs are Measured

Take a look at the features that make the new Krause 7400 the best disc on the market today.

1 Highest Resale Value

The Krause 7400 Rockflex disc is built tough to work hard and last long in the rocks, and there is no disc on the market today that maintains its value better than a Krause. When you go to sales this summer to watch a disc sell, you'll find out that Krause discs always bring top dollar.

2 Transport Width

With a road width of only 10' 11", the 18' and 21' Krause 7400 Discs make transportation easy.

3 Double Offset Designed Frame

The 7400's strength starts with a rugged 5' x 7' mainframe that comes complete with a three-year warranty. The double offset gang design provides a level-field finish, the "trademark" of a Krause disc.

4 Rockflex Bearing Arms

New, heavier Rockflex bearing arms feature a full 1¼" thick by 2½" wide standard to flex over the toughest obstacles. These bearing arms are heat treated for durability.

5 Heavy-Duty Walking Tandem

Krause's heavy-duty walking tandem system smooths out rough fields, and rough roads when transporting. This feature gives you more precise depth control and more stable discing.

6 Wing Fold Hinges

Massive 1½" x 15' hinge bolts on the Krause 7400 distribute folding forces over a wide area, not concentrating them in a narrow hinge like some competitive designs.

7 Heavy Cast Spools

The heavy cast spools multiply the strength of the Krause disc gang, making it the strongest in the industry. The design supports the disc blade more positively without creating a "stress line" like competitive designs.

8 Gang Bearings

Krause SuperSeal regreasable gang bearings are as tough and durable as the discs they come on. They are protected in a ductile cast iron holder and encased in a heavy rubber boot to absorb shock.

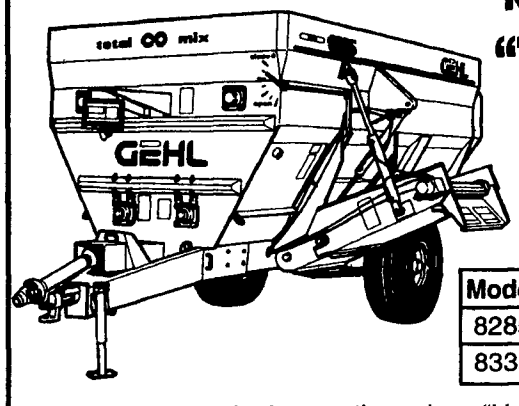
NEW GEHL 8435 TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeder



In Stock Ready For Immediate Delivery.

If your feeding program demands a heavy-duty mixer feeder with the ability to handle more high-quality, dry long stemmed hay (up to 30% by weight) Gehl has four models:

Model	Mixing Capacity	Model	Mixing Capacity
8335	306 cu. ft.	8500	410 cu. ft.

These units feature the unique "Hay Slicer Auger" with a pair of semi-circular dual knife assemblies on each bottom auger. The knives slice through long-stemmed hay for a quicker mix with less chance of wrapping.

Gehl Finance Offers: Cash Discounts up to $1,600 or Low Rate Financing As Low As 0% for 12 Months or Waiver Till April 1, 2002

"WHEN TRAGEDY STRUCK, CLEMENTS WAS THERE."

On March 16th, Lester Farms experienced a fire at one of their operations As a result of the fire, they lost several pieces of equipment, one of which was a brand new combine purchased from Clements John Deere in Clayton, Del "Clements stood behind me after the fire, helping with the insurance process and talking with John Deere about replacing the combine " said Jaymes Lester

Jaymes Lester of Lester Farms in Middletown, Del , along with his two sons Scott and Craig till over 2300 acres of land He produces mostly sweet corn, soybeans, wheat and field corn Lester Farms has been in operation since 1973, they have always depended on Clements John Deere and Deere Creek Equipment for most of their agricultural needs

James says, "They have good service, good prices, and good equipment They stock a large inventory of parts and have an excellent service department that takes care of equipment after the sale Clements has constantly improved their business over the years to keep up with the changing times, they are a no hassle, no pressure dealership " said Jaymes Lester

He adds, "We have a good working relationship with Clements & Deer Creek, their dealerships are run by good people "

BUSINESS ❖ NEWS

Fabral Announces Building Of The Year 2001 Winners

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The recent 2001 NFBA Frame Building Expo in Indianapolis, Ind. featured many winners in the Post Frame Construction industry. Fabral, a national metal roofing and siding manufacturer, based in Lancaster held their third annual Building of the Year contest at the show. Over entries were received from Fabral customers across the United States.

Four categories were established and five buildings in each category were selected and voted on at the Frame Buildings Expo. The attendees at the show choose a picture in each of the four categories as the best in each.

The winners in Fabral's 2001 Building of the Year Contest are as follows:

Woodframe-Agricultural Buildings — Jurries Brother Builders from Hamilton, Mich. with their project "Geerlings Dairy." The building was clad in Fabral's Grandrib 3 Plus in evergreen for the roof and Grandrib 3 Plus light gray on the sides. The dairy has 21,000 square feet of roofing and 3,580 square feet of Grandrib 3 Plus siding.

Woodframe-Rural Commercial Buildings — A tie between Structural Buildings, Inc. from Becker, Minn. with their "North Country Concrete" and Wedeven Brothers Construction from Hamilton, Mich. with their own office and shop. Structural Buildings used 6,688 square feet of evergreen alutuff for the roofing. Wedeven Brothers used 10,000 square feet of Fabral's Grandrib 3 in evergreen for the main roof, 800 square feet of the 1-½-inch SSR in evergreen for a porch entrance roof, and 9,000 square feet of Grandrib 3 in ivory for the siding.

Residential Buildings — Cleary Building Corp. of Verona, Wis. with their "Cain Residence" of Franktown, Colo. won. Cleary used Fabral's Grandrib 3 Plus in hickory moss for the siding and Grandrib 3 Plus in evergreen on the roof.

Woodframe-General Use Buildings — Cleary Building Corp. of Verona, Wis. again won with their "Kechley Building" in Cortland, Ill. Cleary utilized Grandrib 3 Plus in evergreen for the roof and Grandrib 3 Plus in white for siding.

In the National Frame Building Association's Building of the Year contest, two of Fabral's customers won national recognition for their projects. Conestoga Builders of New Holland won the "Housing/Homes/Residential" category. Fingerlakes Construction of Clyde, New York won the "Hobby" Building Award.

Agco Introduces Compact Tractor Line

ATLANTA, Ga. — Agco Corporation has introduced a line of compact tractors as Agco® tractors. This is the first time the company has attached the name Agco, by itself, to one of its product lines.

The new Agco ST compact tractor series, six four-wheel-drive tractors from 24 to 44 HP, is designed to meet the demanding requirements of heavy-duty applications in the turf care and golf industries, landscapers, municipalities and parks systems. The compact and versatile tractors also meet the diverse needs of homeowners with large acreages to manage, equestrian facilities, specialty crop farms, small farms and hobby farms.

High-productivity features of the Agco ST series include:

• Indirect injection, three cylinder diesel engines with a precombustion chamber and cross-flow head design for better fuel economy, reduced stress on engine components, quieter operation, and reduced emissions. The ST45 has a four cylinder diesel engine for increased power and torque.

• Easy shifting 6F/2R and 9F/3R manual transmissions offer simple, rugged and efficient performance under extreme working conditions.

• Invalid character - ignored nPartially synchronized 16F/16R transmissions provide a wider choice of working speeds than most competitive models, and include a mechanical shuttle for front loader work. A 16F/16R transmission with Power Shuttle provides clutchless shifts between forward and reverse in front loader applications.

• Hydrostatic transmissions provide an infinite range of working speeds up to a transport speed of 13.4 mph.

• All ST models are available with R1, R3 or R4 tires to meet a wide range of agricultural, turf and industrial applications.

• All ST models have an engine-driven hydraulic pump that generates from 5.3 to 12.6 gallons per minute for Category I 3-point hitch lift capacity, depending on the tractor model. For loader attachments or implements that require them, auxiliary hydraulic remotes are available.

• A new line of attachments job-matched to each Agco ST compact tractor includes loaders, mid-mount mowers, front blades, and backhoes.

• An open operator's platform leads the industry in spaciousness for operator comfort. Other comfort features include transmission and 3-point hitch controls positioned to each side of the operator for fingertip control, (the ST30X has a center shift manual transmission), power steering, and a spring-suspension seat.

Pioneer Says Manage Alfalfa Stands For Increased Yields

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — Older alfalfa stands may not be providing optimum value per acre for producers. But there are a few easy ways to check stands to see if you're getting the most value from your alfalfa fields, according to an expert with Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.

"Today's alfalfa growers and livestock producers can't afford not to get the maximum value per acre from their forage," said Carl Bannon, Pioneer technical information manager in Mt. Joy. "It is important to plant varieties that offer top yields and quality. And it's just as important to double-check established stands, especially if they are more than 4-years-old. If these older stands aren't producing at optimum yield levels, it's better to rotate to corn or another crop."

According to Bannon, as stands get older, they thin out, resulting in decreased yields and increased weeds. The weeds reduce the forage quality of the alfalfa and make drying to the correct harvest moisture more difficult.

It's relatively easy to check the health and population of older stands, Bannon said. Begin by counting the number of plants in one square foot at several locations throughout a field. The alfalfa population in an established stand should average at least four plants per square foot.

A second method for evaluating alfalfa stands was developed by University of Wisconsin forage agronomists Dan Undersander and Dennis Cosgrove and involves counting alfalfa stems. This method allows you to wait until stems have grown six to 10-inches before checking the number of stems per square inch.

Stem counting offers a more accurate idea of stand health and yield potential. If there are more than 55 stems per square foot, maximum yield potential can be expected. Stem counts dropping below 40 stems per square foot can reduce yield by 25 percent or more. If stem counts fall below 40 per square foot, consider rotating to another crop. You also can check the health of the stand by digging up several plants and checking for crown and stem rots.

"It is important to know if your current alfalfa varieties are producing yields that make a difference for your farming operation," Bannon said. "If they aren't, switch to another crop and consider using newer varieties for your new alfalfa seedings this year.

"We have a number of excellent Pioneer varieties from which to choose, including Pioneer® brand variety 5454, which sets the standard for fast regrowth and recovery," Bannon said. "Also, 54V54 offers top yield potential and excellent disease resistance, and 53Q60 exceeds the National Variety Review Board standard for high quality designation."

Once you have checked older stands and selected newer varieties, Bannon suggests you follow proven management practices to ensure quality alfalfa production. Prior to planting, make sure that your soil pH measures 6.5 and 7. Be sure you're getting good seed-to-soil contact by either rolling or culti-packing prior to and after seeding alfalfa. After seeds have emerged, scout fields to determine if weed control is needed. In addition, scout for potato leafhoppers when plants are three to six-inches tall.

For more information about alfalfa variety selection, stand check or management practices, contact your local Pioneer products provider.

Bobcat Introduces Soil Conditioner Attachment

WEST FARGO, N.D. — Bobcat Company, a business unit of Ingersoll-Rand Company and the leading designer and manufacturer of attachments for compact equipment, recently introduced the Bobcat® Soil Conditioner attachment for skid-steer loaders.

Ideal for landscapers, golf course and general contractors, the landscaping tool leaves a perfect bed ready for seeding or laying sod. The Bobcat Soil Conditioner also can windrow rocks and debris left or right as well as de-thatch lawns.

The Soil Conditioner's hydraulic-angle option allows the operator to adjust the drum to any angle from the operator's seat. The manual-angle option requires the operator to physically position the drum in one of three angles: 25 degrees to the left, 25 degrees to the right or straight.

Operators can place rocks and debris in a windrow to either the left or right side when the end wings are removed and the Soil Conditioner is angled. With the end wings attached, the Soil Conditioner will collect the windrow in a pile for easy pickup or turn it into a drum-style box rake.

Getting Most Out Of Lower-Quality Soybean Seed

LINCOLN, Neb. — There are steps soybean growers can take to improve their odds of success with lower-quality soybean seed this spring, according to NC+ Agronomist Jim Cisco.

"Due to poor growing conditions last summer, soybean seed quality this spring is lower than normal," Cisco said. "However, there are steps growers can take to avoid placing additional stress on already weakened seed."

Cisco offers the following advice for improving soybean stands in 2001:

• Adjust the seeding rate. When calibrating the drill or planter, growers will need to account for the lower germination percentage and smaller seed size. For example, to obtain 150,000 plants per acre, about 176,500 seeds will need to be planted, for seed tagged at 85 percent germination.

• Watch your planting date. Soybeans don't respond to early planting like corn. A warm seedbed will allow soybean seed to germinate fast and emerge quickly. Warm seedbeds also minimize the opportunity for soil borne diseases to injure young seedlings.

• Handle seed carefully. Each time seed is handled, quality declines. Minimize the number of times the seed is loaded and reloaded.

• Utilize a fungicidal seed treatment. This will help protect seed from pythium/damping-off, rhizoctonia and phytophthora.

Barenbrug Announces Manager

TANGENT, Ore. — Barenbrug USA is pleased to announce the addition of Roy Deason as southeastern forage manager. Roy comes to Barenbrug with over 15 years experience in forage and wild game seed marketing.

He has successfully launched numerous forage varieties and wild game mixes specifically designed for the southeastern and midwestern states.

His technical expertise and agricultural training will be used to develop a progressive marketing program for wholesale seed companies in Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

Roy will work with wholesale seed companies, county extension agents, livestock producers and wildlife professionals to promote Barenbrug's complete product line.

He can be reached toll free at (888) 284-3299 or by e-mail at rdeason@barusa.com.

Land Pride Introduces 45 Series 3-Way Rear Blade

SALINA, Kan. — Land Pride's new RBT45 Series 3-Way Rear Blade is built tough from the ground up. Designed to handle 125 HP tractors, this blade is available in 96-inch and 108-inch widths with a fully welded main frame and a heavily reinforced moldboard.

Make manual or hydraulic adjustments; Angle up to 45 degrees, tilt up to 15 degrees and offset up to 35-inches. The RBT45 features a one-inch thick plate steel turntable, ⅛-inch thick tilt pivot bushing and a four-inch solid kingpin. An optional cushion valve protects cylinders and blade components during extreme impacts. Other options include single or dual hydraulic gauge wheels, side plates and skid shoes.

Land Pride also offers 40 Series and 55 Series 3-Way Hydraulic Rear Blades.

Alpacas And Llamas To Be Exhibited At BioHio

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Drive down Ohio's country roads this spring and you'll likely see llamas or alpacas serenely grazing behind a fence. In fact, Ohio ranks second in the nation in alpaca numbers, and the population is growing, said Kathryn Jakes, professor of textile sciences in Ohio State University's College of Human Ecology.

"Alpacas and llamas are both from the camelid family, the same as camels," Jake said. "Both can produce high-quality fibers, but alpaca fibers have been a commercial product since before the Spanish entered Peru."

Though the two animals are closely related, alpacas are about one-half to one-third the size of llamas, averaging 100 to 175 pounds. The United States now has been more than 30,000 registered alpacas, and more than 130,000 llamas. Both live between 15 and 25 years. While llamas are often raised to be pack animals or guard animals, alpacas are usually prized for their fiber, Jakes said.

That's one reason why Jakes is working with David Anderson in the Department of Veterinary Clinical Sciences in Ohio State's College of Veterinary Medicine. Both, along with other colleagues, are working with alpaca and llama owners to improve fiber quality. They're planning several exhibits at BioHio, Thursday through Saturday, May 10-12.

BioHio will be held on the Columbus campus of Ohio State's College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., May 10-12. Through hands-on demonstrations, exhibits and tours, visitors will learn about agriculture, the environment, gardening, fish farming, native plants, berries and more. The theme this year is "Bringing Science to Life."

Visitors will be able to get up close and personal with about a half-dozen alpacas. They'll also be able to handle fibers from llamas and two distinct types of alpacas, Huacaya and Suri.

"The fleece looks very different from these two breeds," Jakes said. Representatives from the Ohio River Valley Llama Association and the Midwest Fiber Company will also be on hand with exhibits and displays.

Currently, Jakes is working with Anderson studying how animal nutrition can affect the quality of fiber the animals produce. She is also working to improve linkages between Ohio llama and alpaca owners and the textile and apparel industry. In addition, Jakes is seeking to improve the evaluation of fibers, which is now largely a subjective process. The key is to help producers make sure their wool is the highest possible quality and help them pool their products in order to fill the niche market that's developing for the product, Jakes said.

Anderson leads the university's Llama Research Program and is working to form the International Camelid Institution, which will be a worldwide education and service facility for camelid owners, breeders, veterinarians and scientists, fiber and textile persons, and animal enthusiasts.

Master Gardener Program Offers Horticulture Training

COLUMBUS, Ohio - People looking to share their knowledge of horticulture with the community can do so through an Ohio State University Extension program that has been in existence in Ohio for over 20 years.

The Master Gardener Program, active in more than 60 counties and conducted in nearly every state and Canada, provides intensive horticulture training to those interested in gardening who then volunteer to assist in educational programs and community activities.

Marianne Riofrio, Extension associate in the Department of Horticulture and Crop Science and the Ohio Master Gardener Program coordinator, sees volunteers as "educators." "We are different from a garden club, which is more service-oriented. Our niche is education," she said. Riofrio will be on hand at BioHio 2001 to promote the Master Gardener Program through displays and fact sheets.

BioHio will be held on the Columbus campus of the College of Food, Agricultural and Environmental Sciences from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 10-12. The three-day event will feature hands-on demonstrations, exhibits and tours covering agriculture, the environment, gardening, managing wildlife, fish farming, native plants, plant diseases and more.

Master Gardener volunteers support and educate the community, under the auspices of their OSU Extension county office, through such activities as maintaining a "hotline" to answer gardening questions, staffing informational booths at fairs, farmers' markets and garden shows, conducting plant clinics, classes and workshops, and participating in beautification activities.

Polaris Introduces Two New Rangers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — More is better. There is power in numbers. Two heads are better than one. All of these old cliches still ring true today, and Polaris has captured the understanding that with more choices comes more opportunities. That is the case with this year's new Polaris Ranger line-up.

With two new models, the Polaris Ranger 2x4 and the Polaris Ranger 4x4, the question isn't what can one do with a Polaris Ranger, but what can't one do with a Polaris Ranger?

Polaris Rangers have been used for every job imaginable, from safely carrying hunting equipment deep into the woods, to helping farmers and ranchers haul weed killer, insecticides and feed for the herd. With the invention of the Polaris Ranger 2x4 and 4x4, many impossibilities are now possible. Some might use a Polaris Ranger to shuttle clients to a remote lake that has a difficult portage to trek through, while others might use it to carry out a trophy buck from deep within the woods. The possibilities are endless.

"There are just some things in life not meant for man to do," said Mitchell Johnson, Polaris ATV General Manager. "That's why we've introduced the Polaris Ranger family. With a go anywhere, do anything attitude, there's not much you can't do with this machine."

In addition to the Polaris Ranger 6x6 and the new models of the Polaris Ranger family, a number of accessories have been made which are designed for the Polaris Rangers.

With such accessories as a 72-inch plow blade and power lift suspension, a power cargo box lift and a front mount winch, the heaviest of equipment can be moved with ease. Front brush guards, radiator rock guards, an assortment of all-terrain tires and true four- and six-wheel-drive make it easier for the Polaris Ranger to haul over the toughest of landscapes.

Whether one is a business person, sportsman, cattle rancher or a weekend outdoor enthusiast, one owes it to themselves to discover what a useful and practical tool a Polaris Ranger can be for them.

Information about the complete line of Polaris products is available from authorized Polaris dealers or from the Polaris Industries Inc. home page on the Internet at: www.polarisindustries.com.

Polaris Announces 'Pure Polaris' Brand Name

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Polaris Industries (NYSE: PII) has announced a new sub-brand — Pure Polaris — for the division formerly known as parts, garments and accessories (PG&A). The new name will help Polaris build a stronger retail presence with new packaging and merchandising to create an identifiable brand of parts, apparel and accessories for its riders.

"The Pure Polaris brand gives our products an identity that riders will associate with 'The Way Out' through memorable riding experiences on Polaris vehicles," said Bennett Morgan, Pure Polaris general manager. "The Pure Polaris team that designs and develops these products are all riders. This first-hand experience ensures that we develop products that provide riders with quality, comfort, and reliability."

Rebuilt from the ground up, the Pure Polaris division has developed a new team and a new sales force. With the introduction of more than 1,100 new products in the year 2000. Pure Polaris is poised to offer Polaris riders a complete riding experience with new parts, apparel and accessories offerings.

"Because Pure Polaris parts and accessories are developed specifically for Polaris vehicles, they fit correctly and install properly to deliver reliable and outstanding performance," said Morgan. "To use anything but genuine Pure Polaris products on a Polaris vehicle would leave the riding experience incomplete."

Pure Polaris apparel — everything from camo jackets and waterproof bibs to stylish swimwear and sharp leather jackets — provides riders with comfort, protection and style. The gear fits and performs so well that riders are free to focus on enjoying the riding experience.

While Victory Motorcycles riding gear and motorcycle parts and accessories are developed and marketed under the management of the Pure Polaris team, these products will continue to be sold under the Victory Motorcycles brand name.

When Thomas Tiller took over as CEO of Polaris in 1999, he set aggressive growth goals for the company. As part of his growth strategy, Tiller plans to double Polaris' parts, apparel and accessories business to $250 million. Sales in the Pure Polaris division grew 16 percent during 2000, with increases across all product lines. Tiller credits the growth to the introduction of more than 1,700 new products since 1999, a dedicated sales force and aggressive marketing and advertising.

Polaris launched its first e-commerce venture last November, www.purepolaris.com, where customers can begin their riding experience online by purchasing items from Polaris' entire line of apparel and vehicle accessories. Riders can conveniently purchase Polaris clothing, footwear, outerwear, gifts and collectibles, machine accessories and performance-enhancing products around the clock online. For consumers who prefer to touch and feel the merchandise, purepolaris.com serves as a valuable source of information for those wanting to research the items before walking into their dealership.

Grain Sorghum Producers Take Concerns To Congress

LUBBOCK, Texas — State grain sorghum association presidents took their concerns and recommendations to Washington, D.C., during a State Presidents' Washington Fly-In on April 3-5, coordinated by the National Grain Sorghum Producers (NGSP).

Meetings with members of Congress, agency officials and key staff centered on sorghum producers' views regarding such issues as the need for equalization of the sorghum and corn loan rate, farm bill changes, research funding, emergency assistance and regulations. The delegation also was present during a House Committee on Agriculture hearing devoted to NGSP recommendations for the 2002 Farm Bill.

Producers making the trip were Leo Bindel, NGSP president; Greg Shelor, Kansas Grain Sorghum Producers Association president; Kenny Tevis, Missouri Grain Sorghum Producers national representative; Doug Nagel, Nebraska Grain Sorghum Producers Association (NeGSPA) vice president; James Vorderstrasse, NeGSPA president; Stan Fury, New Mexico Grain Sorghum Association president; Dick Fischer, Oklahoma Grain Sorghum Association president; and, Bill Kubecka, Texas Grain Sorghum Association president.

State and national staff as well as the 2000 National Sorghum Foundation scholarship winner, Kansas State University student Jill Casten of Quenemo, Kansas, accompanied the delegation.

Weilbach Chosen Renaissance Specialist For Franklin Co.

ROARING SPRING (Blair Co.) — Renaissance Nutrition, Inc. has appointed Jacques Weilbach of Waynesboro, as a nutritional consultant and dairy specialist for Franklin County. He brings to Renaissance a variety of agricultural qualifications, including extensive work on both large and small dairy farms in South Africa, and degree work in the field of dairy management and nutrition. Weilbach has worked on several farms in the U.S., helping to advance their programs toward increased productivity and improved profitability. Raised on a dairy farm in South Africa, he has a broad perspective of dairy farming and agriculture, which compliments his work on farms. He understands the need for utilizing available and up-to-date technology in rationing and farm management skills. Weilbach and his wife have two sons and reside in Waynesboro. His most recent employment was with Mason Dixon Farms in Pennsylvania.

In addition to extensive work in nutritional and farm management consulting, Weilbach will be overseeing the sales and distribution of Renaissance products into his area. This includes products that are manufactured by Renaissance, such as custom and standard mineral/vitamin premixes, calf milk replacers, and products distributed by the company that have been approved for sale into the market after extensive research and testing.

Weilbach will also continue ongoing training offered through Renaissance in a variety of up-to-date methods and technical topics, which are designed to assist farmers in optimizing ration programs and making the most of homegrown forages. Additionally, he will be working extensively with computer-based ration programs, forage and water analysis, recommendation and sale of corn, grass, and alfalfa seeds, forage preservatives, and much more.

"This Mixer Improved My Herd's Health"
- Brandt Gibbs, Gibbs Quest Dairy

"This was the first mixer we bought. We got it from Lapp's Barn Equipment in November, 1998. And it's amazing. Just adding this one piece of equipment actually improved our herd health noticeably."

Gibbs Quest Dairy keeps 80 cows in a tie stall barn. They use this RotoMix 414 Forage Express once a day with 200 lbs. of dry hay per mix, 2.5 lbs. per cow. Herd average is 23,500.

EVERLAST II EVERLAST II EVERLAST II
Metal Roofs Aren't Created Equal
EVERLAST II IS BETTER:
- it is galvanized heavier, like old times.
- it is heat formed, less paint cracks.
- is cut while hot, prevents early edge rust.
- won't scratch as easy, paint is harder.
- won't bend or buckle as easy, stronger design.
- laps are tighter, and virtually invisible.
- nail/screws seal better, ribs fit tighter to head.
- zinc phosphate, not chromate under paint.
- still priced about the same or less.

EVERLAST II
is excellent for houses and barns.
DOUBLE DIPPED GALVANIZED is proven best for animals.
STANDING SEAM
is ideal for houses.

Metal Roofing & Siding

The Ultimate G-100 Process

"The Best"

1. Valspar 10S Finish Coat
2. Epoxy Primer
3. Zinc Phosphate Pretreatment
4. G-100 Zinc Coating
5. Full Hard Steel (80,000 min yield)
6. Heat formed, less paint cracks
7.

NOTE! It is more important what is under the paint than what you see on top!

1 One of the best paints, superior acid rain, cracking resistance and color retention

2 Primer coat· promotes outstanding top coat adhesion

3 Zinc phosphate pretreatment. This is a very important process - if your current supplier cannot supply you with this or does not know, you should reconsider

4 G-100 Galvanized Most metal roofing has approx 40% less galvanized under the paint. G-100 is more galvanized than most unpainted panels

5 Full Hard Anything less than full hard will bend easier, lower snow loads, etc.

6. Heat formed: Metal is painted before ribs are formed. Most paint cracks at bends, heat forming greatly reduces cracks (check metal siding that is installed for 5-10 years).

7 Stronger design, superior strength, more metal per L.F

8 Add Everything Together And Price Should Be $53 37 Per Square $1 69 Per L F

OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY

BEEF TIPS

Pa Farm Show champion steer in 2001 was Simmental X

THE TIME IS RIGHT!

To Feed

ROASTED GRAIN

Its time to lower those feed prices.
With extremely low grain prices and the modest price for roasting, your grain can be turned into a valuable feed commodity

Its time to trim away those extra cost factors.
Custom roasting on your farm. gives you the ability to feed your own grain, not someone else's. eliminates trucking expenses no mill charges, shrinkage, storage and handling

Its time to value feeding grains that have been purged.
Only flame roasting can effectively remove molds and reduce toxins to tolerant levels. Better herd health will. reduce veterinary and breeding bills. . enhance production of milk . increase weight gains in beef and swine.

Attention: Swine and Poultry Producers

Announcing:

Crude Soy Oil Now Available

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer soybean oil as an animal nutrition product. Processing the soybeans ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

Crude Soybean Oil

Uses of Crude Soy Oil Include:

- Use as a high energy feed ingredient in swine and poultry diets.
- Especially useful in sow lactation diets, pig starter and grow/finish diets.
- Used as an added energy source in broiler, turkey and layer feeds.
- Can be used for dust control purposes.
- Can be used as a lubricant for feeding systems.

Advantages of Crude Soy Oil:

- Use as a direct replacement for animal fat.
- Vegetable based product
- Holding tank does not need to be heated if temperature is above 30 degrees, which reduces storage and handling costs compared to animal fat
- Bulk delivery, partial loads available direct to farm by Keystone Mills.
- Customer may pick up to save delivery costs.

Other Soy Products Available:

- Keystone offers Golden Pro 46 XP which is 46% protein - 6-7% oil, Golden Meal 40 which is 40% crude protein with 18% oil.

Keystone Mills Soybean Exchange Program

- We will take your soybeans in trade for Golden ProXP 46, Golden Meal 40
- Contact Keystone Mills for details on our soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

ALL NATURAL-HARDWOOD MULCH
We offer a premium quality, all-natural, hardwood mulch perfect for landscaping and home gardening applications.
We never use demolition material, ground pallets or chemicals– so our customers can rest assured that there are no contaminates in our product that could harm plants or flowers. Our mulch is double ground and screened and naturally composted to produce a very rich dark color and fine consistency.
Large quantities available for pick-up or delivery.
WHOLESALERS & RETAILERS WELCOME
We are only 30 minutes from Harrisburg and are conveniently located off of major highway. Mulch is the perfect product for truckers needing a backhaul from this direction - call for our extended hours and product samples and pricing info.
